IN MEMORIAM.

CAMBIE—Third Anniversary—In undying memory of my dearly-beloved husband, Doctor Edward Loftus Cambie, who died May 28th, 1927, at his residence, The White House, Templemore, County Tipperary.

When others sleep I weep,
And tour with memory
Through the blissful years,
Recalling every golden hour
I spent with thee;
And thankful am
Our mighty love remained.
Unsullied by the soiled of earth,
And shone the brighter
As the years rolled by,
And ended only
When death came,
And closed on me
Your love lit eye.

Your Muriel.

HOUSE LEEKS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Odd corners, garden walls, even the roof of an outbuilding, afford opportunities for the garden-lover to increase interest and possible utility, and there is nothing more interesting than a bit of wall gardening, and in wall gardening no plant is more attractive than Sempervivum arachnoideum, the spider-webbed House Leek, which makes itself quite at home on the wall-top or in a crevice of the face; there it, as the name implies, lives for ever, forming a handsome cushion, although but one of a numerous species, among which the common House Leek, S. Tectorum, still retains its medicinal repute, environing it by old-fashioned gardening folk.

SPRING CHICKENS AND DUCKLINGS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

There is an immense trade done in the London markets for early-hatched chickens and ducklings for the table, and splendid prices are paid for these. We fear this part of the poultry industry is very much neglected in Ireland, and the birds that are sent across are so thin that they have to be fattended before being marketed. Consequently the producer loses the profit which is obtained for the fattened bird. If we have not a remunerative market here, the London market always can be counted on; for, although tons of chickens arrive every week from the Sussex district, London cannot only consume them all, but also the immense number of foreign birds that are imported, and Ireland should be able to compete with these for good prices.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS

BOULTER TRUST FUND.

CHURCH BODY'S APPLICATION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

A summons brought by the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland for the determination of a number of questions in connection with the trusts of the will of the late Archbishop Hugh Boulter came on for hearing. The plaintiffs brought the summons as trustees of the Boulter Trust Fund, and the defendants named were the Rev. Henry Charles Cave, the Rectory, Malahide; the Rev. George Wilfrid O'Callaghan Millington, the Rectory, Portadown; the Right Rev. Robert Miller, Bishopsgrove, Waterford, and the Rev. Josiah Martin Cullimore, the Rectory, Calary, Kilpedder.

QUESTIONS.

The questions were, in effect:

(1) When any benefice or the maintenance of any clergyman of the Church of Ireland has been augmented out of the Boulter Trust Fund in pursuance of the provisions of 29, Geo. II., c 18 and 46, Geo. III., c. 60. is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £100 a year?

(2) When any benefice or the maintenance of such clergyman has been augmented out of the fund in pursuance of the provisions of 3 and 4 William IV., cap. 37, is such augmentation liable to be discontinued or diminished if and when the value of such benefice or maintenance, together with such augmentation, exceeds the value of £200 a year?

(3) Is the sum of £19,056 10s., representing the balance of the sum of £140,222 17s., being the amount at which the Boulter Trust Funds in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners was valued after the passing of the Irish Church Act, 1869, and against which balance no claims were substantiated prior to the 1st July, 1872, in accordance with the provisions of section 29 of the Act, applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body under the directions of the General Synod shall think fit, or is the balance subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Fund under the statutes 29 Geo. II. c. 18, 46, Geo. III. c. 60, and 3 and 4 William IV. c. 37, or any one or more of these statutes?

(4) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the Fund, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland, as the Representative Body shall think fit?

(5) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, does the amount of such augmentation so discontinued, or the amount by which it has been diminished, continue to be subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust Funds, or is it applicable to such purposes for the benefit of the Church of Ireland as the Representative Body shall think fit?

(6) If question 1 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants under the statutes 29 Geo. II. c. 18 and 46, Geo. III. c. 60 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by these statutes?

(7) If question 2 is answered in the affirmative, was it competent for the General Synod to relieve grants made under the statute 3 and 4 William IV. c. 37 from the liability to be discontinued or diminished imposed on them by the statute?

THE DEFENDANTS.

The plaintiffs also asked for an order appointing the defendant, the Rev. H. C. Cave, to represent the incumbents of parishes who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statutes of Geo. II. and Geo. III.; appointing the defendant, the Rev. G. W. O'C. Millington to represent the incumbents of parishes who are in receipt of grants under the provisions of the statute of William IV.; appointing the Right Rev. Robert Miller to represent all incumbents who are in receipt of grants out of the £19,056, 10s. 0d.; and appointing the Rev. J. M. Cullimore to represent incumbents of parishes who are not in receipt of grants under any of the acts mentioned.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., and Mr. M. C. Walker (instructed by Messrs. Darley, Orpen and Synnott) appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Garrett Walker, K.C. (instructed by the same solicitors), for the Rev. H. C. Cave and the Rev. G. W. O'C. Millington; Mr. Poole (instructed by the same solicitors) for the Right Rev. Robert Miller; and Mr. Overend, K.C., and Mr. Newett (instructed by the same solicitors) for the Rev. J. M. Cullimore.

200-YEAR-OLD WILL.

The summons had been taken out, said Mr. Jellett, for the purpose of obtaining his lordship's decision on certain questions that had arisen in connection with the administration of a fund that originally came from the bounty of Archbishop Boulter, who made his will as far back as 1729, and the questions that arose largely depended on the construction of two old Irish statutes.

Mr. Justice Johnston—This is the celebrated Archbishop Boulter, Archbishop of Armagh?

Mr. Jellett—Yes.

Referring to the will, Mr. Jellett said that the late Archbishop Boulter made provision, in a general residuary clause, for augmenting poor livings and buying glebes. The administration of this fund passed first to the Commissioners of First Fruits; secondly, to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, under the Statute of William IV.; and finally, to the Representative Church Body, after the passing of the Church Act.

Mr. Justice Johnston—So that under the Church Act the Representative Church Body are the trustees of the fund?

Mr. Jellett—They are the trustees.

GRANTS UNDER DIFFERENT STATUTES.

Under the Church Act, continued Mr. Jellett, a sum of £500,000 was provided as compensation for all private endowments, and one had to substantiate one's claim against that £500,000 within a specified time—before the 1st July, 1872. A large number of claims had been substantiated before that date, but a sum of £19,000 remained, against which no claim had been substantiated before the specified date, and that £19,000 was dealt with subsequently in certain statutes of the General Synod.

Examining the Statutes of George II. and George III. referred to, and comparing their provisions with those of William IV., Mr. Jellett said that, so far as the construction of the Statutes of George were concerned, there was no conflict about the first question, which simply meant were these grants, assuming the grants to be made, liable to cessor in the event of the limit of £60 being exceeded. The parties were agreed, he thought, that under the Statute of George there was a cessor if the limit were exceeded. It would be argued, he continued, that grants which were made under the Statute of William, where the limit was £200, were liable to cessor just as much as the grants made under the Statute of George; and the contrary would also be argued.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

Mr. Justice Johnston asked how these questions arose now.

Mr. Jellett said that the Representative Church Body had had a Legal Committee all along, and, so far as he could understand, prior to 1878 the Legal Committee appeared to be of opinion that liability to cessor attached to these grants. In 1884 the opinion of the Legal Committee was taken, with the result that a document (which he read) was adopted as the views of the Representative Church Body from that time until the present.

The question was raised again about a year ago, and the matter was referred to the present Legal Committee, who had reported that the views of the former Legal Committee were all wrong. Accordingly, there was a difference of opinion in the Representative Church Body with reference to the matter, and the only way in which the matter could be solved was by coming to his lordship, because the Legal Committee of one day said one thing, while the existing Legal Committee said the very opposite, and it was not very easy for the Representative Church Body to know what to do.

In the end, said Mr. Jellett, they would have to go back to the original question of the construction of the statutes and what was the position of the grants made: were they permanent or were they terminable?

Mr. Justice Johnston—Are you satisfied that all these questions, as framed, when answered, will be sufficient for the purpose of the Church Body?

Mr. Jellett—I understand so, because these questions were considered by all the parties concerned, including, I understand, the members of the present Legal Committee, and they were perfectly satisfied with them.

THE NEXT MOVE.

If the argument that grants made under the statute of William were terminable was right, added Mr. Jellett, he presumed the next move would be that a parish whose income had been over £200 a year for some years would be asked to give back any grant received from the Boulter Fund.

Mr. Overend—There is no suggestion that they should go back on what is done. My case will be that, if money is not available for me as representing a poor parish because it is being paid to a rich one, it should be made available for me.

Mr. Justice Johnston—That is what may be described as a communistic movement started by Mr. Overend. (Laughter.)

Mr. Jellett referred to affidavits filed on behalf of the plaintiffs, and had not concluded when the Court adjourned until to-day.

THE ERNE FISHERY.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL ALLOWED TO APPEAL.

The hearing was concluded of the application made on behalf of the Attorney-General for leave to appeal from a judgment and order of Mr. Justice Johnston, in favour of the plaintiffs, in the case of Moore and others against the Attorney-General and others. The plaintiffs, Major R. J. Moore, The Cliff, Ballyshannon, and other members of the Erne Fishery Company, sought a declaration that they were entitled to a several fishery in the tidal waters of the River Erne, from the Falls of Asseroe, at Ballyshannon, to the sea. The defendants, including a number of local fishermen, denied that the plaintiffs were entitled to the declaration which Mr. Justice Johnston made.

Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) appeared for the Attorney-General in support of the application; and Mr. Jellett, K.C.; Mr. Overend, K.C.; Mr. Phelps, K.C., and Mr. Newett (instructed by Mr. R. H. Reid) for the plaintiffs in opposition to it.

THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

Concluding his reply to the arguments of counsel for the plaintiffs, Mr. Lavery pointed out that the Attorney-General had come to the conclusion, from what he had heard at the trial, and the respectful and legal manner adopted by the defendants in the assertion of a public right, that the legal points raised in the case should be fully considered and discussed in the interest of the public. Surely, he added, the Attorney-General was entitled to take the course which he had adopted, having regard to the case which the defendants had made in the matter.

Having dealt with the authorities referred to on the other side, and cited some cases in favour of the appeal, and of the extension of time for appealing under special circumstances, counsel submitted that they all made the present position of the Attorney-General perfectly clear. He submitted that, notwithstanding the provisions of Order 58, Rule 15, special grounds existed in this case, and special leave should be given to the Attorney-General to appeal.

In the reply to the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice FitzGibbon, he said that it was perfectly obvious that the wish and intention of the "special defendants" (the defendant fishermen) and the Attorney-General were that the Supreme Court should consider and determine the legal issues raised in this case. On behalf of the Attorney-General, he now asked the Court to allow him to have the appeal in this case proceeded with, because he believed that a legal claim had been made which was worthy of the consideration of that Court.

BURDEN OF THE FIGHT.

The arguments having concluded,

The Court, by a majority (Mr. Justice FitzGibbon dissenting) granted the application of the Attorney-General, on condition that the Attorney-General should pay all the costs involved from the inception of the proceedings.

The Chief Justice, giving judgment, reviewed at length the proceedings which had been taken in this case, stating that the Court on a previous motion had decided that the Attorney-General, as representing the general public, was the only competent appellant where the assertion of a public right was concerned. At first the Attorney-General had served notice of appeal only on the question of costs; and now he sought to have that notice enlarged and his time for service extended, so that he might appeal on the question of public right.

The Attorney-General, it appeared, was quite willing that the burden of the fight should be borne by the "special defendants" all through, as he was anxious to avoid putting himself in the position in which he would have to bear any share of the very large amount of costs of these proceedings. Consequently he was not loth to allow the "special defendants" at the trial of the action to play first fiddle on the principal issues in the case; and he now wished to take on himself the burden of appealing on that issue, in which he alone was the competent appellant.

A GENERAL APPEAL.

It was well established that the Court did not encourage the reopening of matters which had been settled, and upon which vested rights had become established and settled; but that was not quite the position here. The application for an extension of time had been made, and it seemed to him that it was a matter for the discretion of the Court whether it would, or would not, allow an extension of time in a particular case.

He would not in this case be prepared to do anything to facilitate any elaborate finessing for the purpose of throwing the costs upon the "special defendants," who were all poor men. He would not be prepared to give an extension of time to the Attorney-General if his object was merely for the purpose of covering the appeal of the "special defendants," without regard to whether the Attorney-General himself had any confidence in an appeal which would cost them nothing.

The Court had been assured, however, that the Attorney-General wished, in the interests of the public, to fight this case, and it seemed to him, in these circumstances, that it would be a very grave step for the Court to shut out the whole public from asserting their rights. So far as he was concerned, he felt that their discretion should be exercised, and that the Attorney-General should be allowed to enlarge his notice of appeal so as to include a general appeal, but only upon an undertaking by him that he should pay the costs of the plaintiffs and of the "special defendants" on the motion for security for costs, the motion on the preliminary objection raised in the Court, and on the present motion.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO PAY COSTS.

Mr. Justice FitzGibbon dissenting, referred to the fact that this had been described as a test case, saying that he knew of no ground upon which it could be so described. It seemed to him to be litigation inter partes, and nothing else, and he was of opinion that sufficient reasons had not been submitted to justify the Court in granting the motion. He was, therefore, of opinion that the application should be refused.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan concurred with the judgment delivered by the Chief Justice, stating that he thought that the extension of time for appealing should be granted to the Attorney-General.

The application, accordingly, was granted, on the condition as to costs already mentioned.

In reply to Mr. Phelps, for the plaintiffs,

The Chief Justice stated that the necessary funds for payment of the costs were available for the Attorney-General.

Mr. Phelps said that they were perfectly satisfied with that.

The Chief Justice said that arrangements would be made to have the appeal heard, if possible, before the Long Vacation, and on the first day of next sittings the day for commencing the hearing would be fixed.

RENT OF DUBLIN PREMISES.

SECURITY FOR COSTS.

In the case of Yourell v. Hyland, an application was made on behalf of the defendant for an order directing the plaintiff to give security for costs, the plaintiff, a medical doctor, being at present resident in England. The action, which had been brought on a construction summons in Mr. Justice Johnston's court, related to the rent of premises in Percy place, Dublin.

The plaintiff contended that £50, which had already been lodged in court for the purpose, was sufficient security for costs.

The Court made an order directing that the plaintiff should also lodge in court a further sum of £25.

Mr. Gavan Duffy, K.C., and Mr. J. McLoughlin (instructed by Messrs. McLoughlin and Co.) appeared for the defendant and applicant; and Mr. Frank FitzGibbon, K.C., and Mr. George O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Reddy and Son) for the plaintiff.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

SANDPIT DANGER TO CATTLE.

A TENANT'S GRAZING RIGHTS.

(BEFORE JUDGE GLEESON.)

Peter Reilly, farmer, Glassamucky Brakes, near Tallaght, County Dublin, sought an injunction against Thomas Leuric Cobbe, of Newbridge House, Donabate, a minor, to restrain him, his servants and agents, from interfering with the lands held by the plaintiff at Glassamucky Brakes and Glenasmole Mountain, and from working quarries and pits recently opened on the mountain, and from opening further quarries and pits thereon.

The defence was that, if any pits were opened, which was denied, they were not opened in any part of the mountain over which the plaintiff had any right of grazing. A further defence was that, if the quarries or pits were opened, they were opened by the County Council in the exercise of their statutory powers, that the defendant was under no liability in respect thereof, and that the pits did not interfere with the plaintiff's right of grazing.

COWS AND SHEEP INJURED.

The plaintiff, in evidence, stated that he had been tenant of a farm of twenty acres for many years, and that he had the right of grazing on the adjoining mountain. In March, 1926, he noticed the first interference with the mountain at a distance of about ten yards from the public road. Twelve pits were opened, some of them being twenty feet deep. Sand and stone were being taken out of them. Three cows and ten sheep of his were injured by having fallen into the pits. Besides, he found it difficult to collect his sheep and cattle, because they sheltered in the pits. By reason of the opening of the pits, the road by which he drew his turf was so damaged that his horses and carts were injured to the extent of £50. He claimed altogether £150. There were about seventy tenants who had the right of grazing on the mountain.

Matthew Kearns, game-keeper and bog-manager for the Cobbe estate since 1888, said that there were only five pits that were any way dangerous to Reilly's cattle. There had been no change in the condition of the mountain with regard to pits for seventy years. The pits had been worked for many years for the repairs of the roads.

Mr. P. H. Hirst, Assistant Surveyor under the Dublin County Council, stated that he had followed the practice of his predecessors in taking free stone and gravel from the pits for the repair of the roads. The pits he described as little pockets, which were no more dangerous than the crevices in the mountain. The County Council had statutory powers to take the material.

QUESTION OF COMPENSATION.

The judge said that there had been actual interference with the rights of the plaintiff. Sandpits had been dug, and continued in five different places on a portion of the land on which he had the right to graze sheep and cows, and these pits constituted a danger to the cattle. He made a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to exercise his grazing rights over the area to the extent of six and a half collops; also that the defendant was entitled to raise sand and gravel on this particular portion of the mountain on making reasonable compensation to the plaintiff for any losses that he might suffer by defendant's so doing. His lordship gave the plaintiff a decree for the nominal sum of one guinea. There was, he said, no need to make an injunction.

Mr. M. B. Daly (instructed by Messrs. Joyce and Joyce) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Matheson (instructed by Messrs. Matheson, Ormsby and Prentice) for the defendant.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

'BUS DRIVER ACQUITTED.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

A verdict of "not guilty" was returned in a case in which Patrick Corrigan, a 'bus driver, was indicted for the manslaughter of a man named Thomas Ellis, at Drumcondra road on Easter Sunday last. He was discharged. Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted, and Mr. Sainsbury (instructed by Mr. W. J. Keery, solicitor) defended.

It appeared that the deceased man was a passenger in a tramcar and was knocked down by the 'bus driven by Corrigan as he was crossing the road on alighting at Saint Alphonsus road, Drumcondra, where the tramcar had stopped.

The accused man, in his evidence, said that he sounded his horn when passing the tramcar, and did everything possible to avoid an accident.

GAS METER THEFT CHARGES.

Patrick Byrne was found "not guilty" on charges on having attempted to rob a gas meter at 173 Clonliffe road and of having stolen four spanners from the same house.

The judge directed an acquittal on another charge of having stolen 38s. from a gas meter.

Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted and Mr. Devlin (instructed by P. H. O'Reilly) defended.

CIRCUIT COURT RULES.

BAR ASSOCIATION'S DEMAND.

The Council of the Dublin Circuit and District Courts Bar Association has passed the following resolution, on the motion of Mr. Sean O'hUadhaigh, seconded by Mr. John P. Collins:

"The Council of the Dublin Circuit and District Courts Bar Association, in the interest of the public who are their clients, and to promote the speedy and satisfactory administration of justice, demands the immediate bringing into operation of the Circuit Court Rules.

"The Council deprecates any further delay on the ground of awaiting the report of the Joint Committee on the Courts of Justice Act or legislation following such report, being of opinion that the grave inconvenience to the public of the present delay in the hearing of the Circuit Court cases calls for the immediate remedy which would be afforded by the operation of the Rules."

NEW DISTRICT JUSTICE.

MR. M. J. HANNON WELCOMED TO DUBLIN COURT.

Mr. Matthew J. Hannon, B.A., barrister-at-law, who has been appointed to succeed the late Mr. E. A. Collins, took his seat beside Mr. Cussen, the Senior Justice, in the Dublin District Court yesterday.

Mr. Arthur Bradley, senior solicitor, welcomed Mr. Hannon, and congratulated him on his appointment. He said that he had known Mr. Hannon for a long period, and always regarded him as a keen lawyer and a just judge. Mr. Hannon had earned the respect of his legal brethren in Cavan and district.

Mr. J. P. Collins, Mr. W. P. Corrigan, and Mr. J. V. Brady, solicitors, associated themselves with Mr. Bradley's remarks.

Mr. Cussen said that he congratulated himself, and he was sure that Mr. Little would bear him out when he said that they had got an earnest, kindly, helpful and loyal successor to the late Mr. Collins.

Inspector J. H. Beggs, "D" Division of the D.M.G., also joined in the welcome to the new justice.

DUBLIN BOY KILLED BY 'BUS.

Knocked down by a 'bus near his own home yesterday afternoon, a schoolboy, Gerald Halpin, of 12 Mountain View terrace, Crumlin, Co. Dublin, was so severely injured that he died almost instantaneously. The body was taken in the Rathmines Fire Brigade ambulance to the Meath Hospital, where an inquest will be held.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

MISSING SUIT-CASES.

HUSBAND AND WIFE SENT FOR TRIAL.

(BEFORE MR. O'SULLIVAN.)

Daniel McQuaide, labourer, Digges street, and his wife, Elizabeth, were brought forward and charged with a series of offences, including conspiracy and larceny in connection with the removal of suit-cases from tramcars. The husband was also charged with stealing a bicycle worth £7.

The suit-cases involved in the charges and their contents were valued as follows:—(1) £19 16s. 6d.; (2) £16 17s.; (3) £16 7s. 6d.; (4) £10 16s. 3d.; (5) £9 6s., and (6) £6 7s. 6d.

The accused were returned for trial, the husband on independent bail of £40 and his own bail of £50, and the wife on her own bail of £5.

Mr. Felix Sherry (instructed by Mr. John Moran) appeared for the accused.

THE LICENSING ACT.

SUMMONSES AGAINST THREE PUBLICANS.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

The defence in a case in which Edward McCann, proprietor of off-licence premises in Queen street, was charged with selling three bottles of stout at 10.35 on the night of Saturday, 29th March last, was that the drink had been ordered at 9 o'clock, but owing to an oversight was not delivered. The defendant said that the order was entered in the day-book, which he offered to show to the inspector when he visited the premises.

Superintendent Beggs, who had given evidence of seeing Mr. McCann hand the drink to a man outside the door of his premises at the time stated, was recalled, and stated that the publican made no offer to show him the day-book.

The case was adjourned for the attendance of the man who ordered the drink.

A "BABY" WHISKEY.

In a case against Mathew Donohoe, of Mary's Abbey, who was prosecuted for keeping open and exposing drink for sale on Good Friday last, Sergeant Davis gave evidence that, on seeing the publican hand out something to a man who was standing outside the shop, he questioned the man, and was told that he had got a "baby" bottle of whiskey, for which he had paid.

The defence was that the publican understood that the whiskey was for a sick man.

Mr. Cussen imposed a fine of 40s., the conviction to be recorded.

MANAGER FINED.

Having heard the evidence produced in a case in which Charles Joseph Lynch, the owner of off licence premises at Summerhill, was charged with a breach of the Licensing Act at 9.30 a.m. on the 11th March last, the Justice dismissed the case against the licensee, but amended the summons and convicted Patrick Lynch, the manager of the premises, under Section 2 of the Licensing Act of 1927, and imposed a fine of 20s., the conviction not to be recorded.

A KERRY ESTATE.

DISPUTE OVER DIVISION OF LAND.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

The hearing of the case of Brosnan against Reidy was concluded. The claim of the plaintiff was dismissed with costs, his lordship holding that it was not sustainable through having been barred by the Statute of Limitations. He made no order in regard to the costs of the executors.

The plaintiff in the original action was Mary E. Keane, and the defendants were Denis J. Reidy and James Kearney. The suit was instituted to administer the estate and trusts of the will of Timothy Brosnan, Lackbroder, near Castleisland, Co. Kerry. Hannah Brosnan, a sister of the deceased testator, and a daughter of Benjamin Brosnan, appeared as a plaintiff and claimed to be entitled to eight equal undivided tenths of the lands of the deceased man, in which she alleged she was a joint tenant and tenant in common with the defendants as personal representatives of Timothy Brosnan. In the alternative she sought to have it declared that the lands should be divided between the persons interested, amongst whom was the plaintiff.

It was pleaded that the children of the testator were the entitled parties and that any rights which the plaintiff possessed in the estate had been satisfied.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Reidy (instructed by Mr. R. H. Hudson) appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Price, K.C. (instructed by Mr. R. A. Macaulay) for Mary Ellen Keane; and Mr M. Comyn, K.C., and Mr. Dubhglas MacFionnlaoich (instructed by Messrs. Rutledge and MacFionnlaoich) for the executors.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

ITS VANISHING GLORIES.

AN INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY.

(By R. R. FIGGIS.)

It is interesting to note, as "Quidnunc" points out in "The Irishman's Diary" for May 21st, that during this month "exactly sixteen hundred years ago, Constantine the Great founded the great capital of the Turkish Empire." In the course of these long centuries many changes have doubtless taken place in the city, but, perhaps, none so drastic as those which have come to pass during the last decade, and are evident even to the casual eye of a passing traveller.

Since the days when voyagers first began to record their impressions, the beauty of Constantinople has been proverbial, and, indeed, still remains something of very rare significance, so long as the city is seen from a distance. Certainly I shall not soon forget the morning on which I stood on board ship, as it glided up the calm waters of Marmora, and beheld the domes and minarets of Constantinople, touched here and there to gold by the new-risen sun, and piercing the morning mists that shrouded the water and the lower parts of the town.

As our ship entered the Bosphorus and finally came to berth in the Golden Horn, the illusion that we were viewing an enchanted city, that might at any moment "dissolve and fade away," gradually gave place to the conviction that distance indeed lends enchantment to the view. Indeed, when we landed and drove through the streets, and over the famous Galata Bridge that separates Stamboul, the old part of the city, from Pera, its more fashionable modern quarter, our first impressions were, I am sorry to say, completely shattered. At close quarters Constantinople looks much like any other rather shabby seaport town, and European clothes definitely do not suit its inhabitants. Wherever you go, whether to mosques, palaces or merely through the streets, the same dilapidation is evident. It becomes difficult to believe that this place, and the fairy-like town it appears from the sea, are really one and the same.

THE BOSPHORUS.

While at Constantinople, no one should miss a trip up the Bosphorus in one of the little steamers that sail between the Golden Horn and the entrance to the Black Sea. On the afternoon when I made this expedition the boat was excessively crowded, and the day bitterly cold after the sunny delights of the Aegean, to which we had become accustomed. We were placed in the dilemma of either risking double pneumonia on the uncovered deck, or being suffocated in the unpleasantest atmosphere that it has ever been my lot to breathe, which prevaded the closed portion of the ship. However, despite these drawbacks, we greatly enjoyed the spectacle of the country and the rather attractive villages that abound on either side of the Channel.

In many ways I was reminded of the trip down the Rhine between Mainz and Coblenz, although the hills were not so high or so richly wooded. The villages, except for occasional minarets, might almost have been German or Swiss, with their wooden, châlet-like houses. As we turned back in the direction of Constantinople the sun came out, and under the magic of its rays unsuspected colour and charm sprang to life in the hills and in the suddenly blue waters of the Straits. I quickly realised how delightful this stretch of water must be under normal conditions. Incidentally, there is one spot on the Bosphorus, at Roumeli Hissar, that is fraught with historic interest; for it is associated with such varied names as those of Xenophon, Darius, Heraclius and Sultan Mohammed II., whose campaign caused the eventual fall of the Roman Empire.

In Constantinople itself the visitor turns his steps at the outset to the mosque of S. Sophia. This building is really extraordinarily beautiful—incomparably more so, I thought, than its neighbour, the famous Blue or "China" mosque of Sultan Ahmet. The marvellous symmetry and proportion of its architecture seemed to me a miracle of wonder, with its enormous dome surmounting the entire building and its innumerable arches encrusted with dull-gold mosaics. In one spot in the dome a curved mark is pointed out which is the only relic of the days when S. Sophia was the wonder-church of Christendom. This is said to be a portion of the halo that at one time was behind the head of the figure of Christ, which was completely obliterated when the building was converted into a mosque.

THE BLUE MOSQUE.

It is said that, when the plans for the Blue Mosque were first divulged, a storm of protest was raised by the Moslem world because it was discovered that the Sultan proposed to erect a building with six minarets, an honour which could only be permitted at Mecca. The Sultan remained adamant, and the work was continued according to the original design. He, however, wisely discovered a solution to the problem by adding a seventh minaret to the mosque at Mecca. In both these, as, indeed, in all the mosques that we visited, I was much struck by the neglected, ill-cared appearance which they presented.

Of course, every visitor must see the ancient walls of the town, and the Roman Hippodrome, with its Egyptian obelisk and famous Delphic "serpent column." It was in this place that the well-known horses now at S. Mark's, Venice, once stood, after they had been brought thither by Constantine from the Arch of Trajan at Rome. One should also make a point of seeing the marvellous underground cisterns, constructed out of the solid rock, with the roof supported by several hundred stone pillars, with carved Corinthian capitals. These cisterns are said to have existed from very early times, and to have supplied the city with water during the many sieges through which it has passed.

THE SERAGLIO.

No visit to Constantinople can be complete which does not include at least some hours in the Seraglio; for therein is enshrined a phase of Turkish life that has for ever departed. Do not be surprised to find the Seraglio a very extensive establishment; for you must take into consideration the fact that it was here that the Sultans housed not only their wives, but their wives' relatives. In this place, in addition to the many archæological treasures in the Imperial museum, you will see in other buildings the most astonishing collections of Oriental and French china, together with glass, silver and gold ware; magnificent brocades, and the furniture and clothing of many centuries. However, that which made one rub one's eyes by its sumptuousness, and seemed almost to rival the splendours of Tutankhaman himself, was the collection of jewels. Here were displayed swords, spears, revolvers and daggers with their hilts encrusted with gems, and dressing-tables for the fairest of the harem—one mass of precious stones. Here was the veritable treasure of the robbers' cave, and one lived over again the romance suggested to one's childhood's imagination by Sindbad and Ali Baba. Curiously enough, this abandon of riches left me completely cold. It was not in the least beautiful, and I could only think that here was wealth sufficient to redeem nations, lying useless—and giving pleasure to no one, while beyond the walls in which these treasures were housed squalor and poverty stalked grimly through the streets.

Among the wonders shown to visitors is a throne of gold entirely set with huge pearls. Another golden throne was studded with rubies, and was complete with a cushion and a canopy of pink satin embroidered with pearls. That, however, which gave me more pleasure than all this magnificence was the glorious view from the windows; for the Seraglio is set on an eminence overlooking the blue waters of the Bosphorus, with the Asiatic hills rising in the distance behind Scutari.

In this impregnable fortress the Sultans of old kept their wives and stored their riches. Now it is a rather shabby museum, with a handful of gaping tourists prowling about among treasures more fantastic and more ugly than even the genie of our childhood's days could have summoned into existence. Sic transit gloria mundi.

IRISH AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE.

STATEMENT AS TO PRICES QUESTIONED.

At a special meeting of the Cork County Council yesterday the Free State Ministry of Industry and Commerce was requested to furnish that body with the prices of agricultural produce for the years 1913 and 1914, and also 1929 and 1930, in respect of butter, eggs, potatoes, oats, barley, wool, beef, mutton, pork, hay and straw.

Mr. D. L. O'Gorman, in moving the resolution, said that he did so because of a statement made by Mr. Leydon at a sitting of the De-rating Commission that the present prices of agricultural produce were thirty-nine and a decimal point above pre-war prices. That statement was not in accordance with facts. If prices were above the pre-war figure they would be very little above it, and not at all enough to justify such a statement.

Mr. Corcoran seconded the motion.

The will of Mr. Lloyd W. Seaman, of New York, passed for probate on Monday, bequeathes a million dollars to the Salvation Army. Mr. Seaman was a member of the Stock Exchange.—(Reuter.)

Lord Byron in one of his letters, writes a correspondent, refers to Henry Luttrell (1765-1851) as "the most brilliant talker I have ever met." Luttrell, whose book of light verse, "Advice to Julia," is now almost forgotten, was a member of the Irish Parliament from 1789 to 1800. When that institution was dissolved he went to the West Indies to manage his father's estates, but soon returned to London, and acquired a great reputation in society as a wit. He was intimately associated with Samuel Rogers, and engaged in many a verbal contest with the banker poet, whose sumptuously-illustrated book on Italy moved him to remark that it would have been dished if it had not been for the plates. Luttrell seems to have moved in a continuous round of social festivities, in spite of which he lived to the ripe age of eighty-six. It was he who remarked of the English climate that, on a fine day, it was like looking up a chimney; on a rainy day, like looking down.

An Ulster Artist.

I see that Mr. William Conor, the well known Ulster artist, is going great guns in London. He has been recently elected a foundation member of the National Society of Painters and Sculptors, an organisation which has lately been formed to bring together all the most important exponents of modern art. The scope of the Society is national, and representatives of all schools of modern painting and sculpture are to be found among its members. At its exhibition will be found examples of the most advanced modernists, as well as pictures by those who still adhere to the classical tradition. I am glad that Mr. Conor has had no fewer than four pictures accepted for this exhibition—"The Procession," "Gospel Meeting," "The Melodeon Player," and "Buyers and Sellers." "The Procession" has come in for a lot of complimentary comment, and certainly it portrays excellently the grimness of men who can find no work.

MR. WILLIAM CONOR.

Ducks and Cats.

When walking quietly through St. Stephen's Green on Sunday afternoon, I noticed a commotion among the ducks and their minute offspring. Thinking that some slight altercation among themselves had arisen, I sat down to watch. In a very short time I discovered the reason of their alarm—in the rushes at the far side of the pond was a large black cat, and beside the cat were two tiny kittens. The cat was gazing intently at the irate ducks, while one of her kittens, unaware of its peril, was advancing towards the edge of the bank. Mother cat withdrew her attention from the ducks, seized her kitten by the neck—with her mouth—and planted it firmly behind her. She then set off on a voyage of discovery, followed by her children. Finding them too difficult to control, however, she led them back to what was evidently their nest among the reeds—a hollow, overhung by reeds—and set out by herself. The last I saw of her was a wave of her angry tail as the ranger chased her across the path with his stick. The kittens apparently found the heat too much for them; for they immediately went to sleep, lulled by the sound of the neighbouring waterfall.

A Popular Biologist.

Jean Louis Agassiz, the foremost authority on natural history and geology of his day, was born at Môtiers, near Lake Neufchâtel, on May 28th, 1807. While a student, he was invited to arrange a collection of fresh-water fish from Brazil. This was followed by an extensive investigation of European fishes, in which he studied the fossil fishes preserved in the rocks, as well as the living species.

During his first visit to England, he met Hugh Miller, the Scotch stonemason geologist, and, by his appreciation of his work, helped to popularise that unfortunate genius. He visited the United States in 1846 to deliver a series of lectures at Boston, and in the following year accepted the chair of zoology and geology at Harvard University, where he founded the great Natural History Museum, which bears his name.

Agassiz never revisited his native Switzerland, and, when he died at Cambridge, Mass., a boulder which came from the spot where his hut once stood, and pine trees sent out from his old home, were placed on his grave, and thus "the land of his birth and the land of his adoption are united in his grave."

Daly's Club.

Few Dublin institutions of the eighteenth century have survived so well in the popular traditions as Daly's Club. All sorts of stories are told concerning the doings of the reckless, roystering, gambling set that frequented it, but most of these stories must be taken with the proverbial grain of salt. Of their nature exclusive, the really important and most interesting happenings in clubs, old or new, seldom reach the public. A cheat at the card table may have been occasionally flung through a window of Daly's on to the street in College Green, and an estate may have once or twice changed hands in the course of a night's play, but it is hardly likely that such incidents were a regular feature in the life of a club that had on its roll nearly all the Members of the Houses of Parliament. Patrick Daly, who founded the club, was originally an assistant in a tavern. An industrious man, he started "on his own" a coffee and chocolate shop at Nos. 2 and 3 Dame street, and conducted it so successfully that it became the rendezvous of Dublin's fashionable folk. Thus developed "Daly's Club." The new premises in College Green (now the offices of the Yorkshire Insurance Company) were erected, and occupied by the club in 1791. A private passage connected Daly's with the Parliament House, and one may suppose that legislators, weary of dry debates, were often glad to seek repose in the more social atmosphere of Daly's. A good description of the club is given by Lever in his "Knight of Gwynne."

Homes Without Flowers.

During a recent visit to the beautifully-wooded lake country near Mullingar, I was much struck with the bare and unhomely external appearance of the dwellings occupied by small farmers, among whom large estates have been divided. Perhaps, it is that the occupiers have neither the time nor the help to spare for putting the immediate surroundings of their homes in order. Whatever the cause, they do not leave a favourable impression on passers-by, and something certainly ought to be done to cultivate a taste for flowers and foliage plants around the homestead.

A Strange Bequest.

A correspondent writes—Your recent reference to "Freak Bindings" reminds me that the most treasured possession of the late Camille Flammarion, the distinguished French astronomer and poet, was a copy of his "Ciel et Terre," bound in the beautiful shoulders of an Italian countess.

She made the bequest to him through the doctor who attended her during her last illness, with the request that he would thus bind the first copy of his first book to be published after her death. This cover is snow white, and the edges of the pages are rose-tinted, interspersed with golden stars.

The countess had seen a copy of Eugene Sue's "Mysteries of Paris," which was bound in the skin of the girl who loved the novelist, and this gave her the idea of making her strange bequest.

Ruby.

Ruby was the dog of the Shell House in Carton. He used to welcome visitors in the friendliest way as soon as they turned the corner from the lake. I missed him yesterday and heard that he had been poisoned. His mistress was disinclined to talk of him, although he was dead for three weeks. Poison had been laid in the pheasant's nest to protect the eggs from a thief, and the little fox terrier ate it shortly after it was strewn. Ruby came nearer to talking than any dog I have ever known. He was fond of motoring and often got a lift in a neighbouring car, but always jumped out as soon as he approached Carton Gate. His companions at the Shell House were two peacocks. He now lies buried in the dogs' graveyard behind the rose garden of the Shell House. Another Shell House dog, Mona, who also fell a victim to poison, is buried near him.

Film News.

From America comes a cry for better news reels in our cinema entertainments, a cry which we could echo heartily here. Americans are at least viewing their own news items, but what interest can Dubliners have in seeing U.S.A. Army manoeuvres and areoplane flights, floral fêtes in California and dedications of ships? In the old days one could escape by closing one's eyes and listening to the orchestra, but now "sound" has penetrated even to the so-called news reels, and rarely, all too rarely, are we taken to unusual corners of the world to see strange sights and people. If news items are to be given to us, let us view local events; for the rest, one could wish that those responsible would transform themselves from mere chroniclers of far-away trivialities to creators of something unusual and interesting.

The Calf of Man.

The rugged little islet known as the Calf of Man, familiar to summer visitors to Douglas, has, I hear, been offered for sale by its proprietor. It is separated from the larger island by a dangerous channel about half a mile wide, and is tenanted by one farmer and his household. The Calf was at one time famous for the quaint sea-birds known as puffins, which were esteemed as a table delicacy in the eighteenth century. It is still the resort of innumerable kittiwakes, guillemots and gulls of all kinds. Readers of Sir Hall Caine's books will remember that the hero of "The Deemster" was banished to the Calf as a punishment for having killed his cousin. In the sixteenth century the island was the home of a recluse named Thomas Bushell, a satellite of Lord Bacon, who was involved in that statesman's fall from power, and retired to this lonely spot where he lived on a diet of herbs and honey in accordance with the philosophical advice given to him by his master. There are several instances, in Norway and the Hebrides, of the name "Calf" having been given to a small island beside a larger one by the Norse sea-rovers.

Irish Soldiers and Mafeking.

There are still living many Irish officers who took a prominent part in the incidents associated with the famous siege of Ladysmith and its historic relief thirty years ago.

Lord Baden-Powell has since made fame in other directions, but his name will always be bound up with that stirring exploit in British military annals.

LORD BADEN-POWELL.

It was thus a happy idea on his part to have at his house in Paxhill, Hampshire, on the thirtieth anniversary of the day of the relief, a reunion of officers who had been with him on that occasion.

Those present included General Ryan, who was at one time closely associated with the Royal Dublin Fusiliers. Colonel O'Brien, the son of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Terence O'Brien, and a close neighbour of Lord Baden-Powell in Hampshire, also attended the reunion; and another notable guest was Sir John Moore, now eighty-five years of age, who was President of the Royal College of Physicians in Ireland over thirty years ago.

The menu of the lunch at the reunion was specially drawn up by Lord Baden-Powell, and it was illustrated by a sketch which he made during the siege. On the table was a model of the famous gun made during the siege from a steam pipe and some railings, which rendered valuable service.

The Founder of Empire Day.

A correspondent writes:—Your recent references to Empire Day are hardly fair to the late Earl of Meath. You state that this great movement was founded by a Canadian lady named Clementina Fessenden in 1897, and that a tablet to that effect may be seen in Saint John's Church, Ancaster, Ontario.

In his "Memories of the Nineteenth Century," Lord Meath states that in 1896 "the germ of the future Empire Day Movement took up its residence in my brain," and he published his idea in the London newspapers of that year. It was not until the following year, however, that Mrs. Fessenden promoted her plan, which, by a strange coincidence, was of a similar nature to that of Lord Meath.

Lord Meath's name has been linked with the Empire Movement from its inception, and at the present time it is proposed to erect a memorial in London to this distinguished Irishman. I think the public should know that the credit of originating this organisation, which has done so much to cement the bonds of patriotism and fellowship throughout our far-flung Commonwealth of Nations, is due to the genius of a son of one of the four motherlands of Empire.

Lilac Hedge.

I noticed several beautiful lilac bushes of both the white and purple variety in the Lucan and Leixlip neighbourhood last Sunday; but I have seldom seen such a beautiful hedge as that leading to a house just outside Palmerstown village. It was a double hedge of purple lilac, planted thickly and close together, and it continued from the road to the house for a distance of fifty yards. The air about was filled with the scent of it for quite a distance, and I noticed as I returned by 'bus in the afternoon that the perfume penetrated even there.

DUBLIN HARBOUR NOTES.

THE SNEEZING SHIP.

A NEW PASSENGER SERVICE.

(BY OUR HARBOUR CORRESPONDENT.)

There was a Canadian vessel in the port this week, with a cargo of pitchpine and railway sleepers. She was the City of Vancouver, 5,697 tons, Captain Buchanan, and carried a Japanese crew. These, however, do not hail from the land of the cherry blossom, nor are they loyal subjects of the Mikado. They come from the large Japanese quarter of Vancouver. The Japanese along the Puget Sound take a place similar to that held by the Chinese in San Francisco, and have almost a monopoly of labour in the salmon-canning and similar industries. This growing Japanese population of British Columbia has now taken to the sea, to compete with the Lascars, Arabs, Chinese, Malays and negroes, who man so many of the ships under the Red Ensign. If this manning of ships by Orientals continues, matters will become very serious for the Danes, Germans and "Russian Finns," who for so many years have regarded British ships as their own preserves.

FRENCH FISHERY CRUISER.

The French fishery cruiser Sentinelle left the North Wall Extension on Monday evening, bound for Glengariff. These cruisers are manned by naval ratings, and the Sentinelle is equipped with a powerful searchlight and mounts a small gun on the forecastle head. The gunner explained that this "cannon" was "to make fear those audacious ones." The crew sleep in hammocks, which are stowed away in lockers during the day.

A small passenger steamer has begun to run from the Customs House to Kingstown. She is the Jest, and has accommodation for about one hundred and forty passengers. She is forty-three tons gross, and, as is obvious from her graceful lines, was originally built as a yacht. For some time she was owned by the Mersey Dock and Harbour Board, and was used as the "doctor's boat" for boarding inward-bound vessels in the river. The Jest makes the round trip to Kingstown in about two hours.

THE SNEEZING SHIP.

The Spanish steamer Arichachu, Captain Justo de Lafuente, has arrived from Bona, with 5,200 tons of phosphate. Arichachu is a formidable name for the dockers to pronounce, so they have compromised by calling her the "sneezing ship." Captain Lafuente possesses a German police dog, which has been aboard the ship for six years, and refuses to set foot ashore for anyone. "Resk," as he is called, is still only a "flying fish sailor," for all his voyaging. When the Arichachu runs into bad weather he crawls under the captain's bunk and remains there, acutely miserable. Captain Lafuente does not think much of cats; for now they have to be declared on the manifest when entering a British port, and there is a heavy fine if they get ashore. Now, cats are inveterate stowaways, joining or leaving a ship whenever the mood takes them, and it is almost impossible to keep them locked up. The Arichachu is bound for Swansea when she leaves Dublin, to load coal for Genoa.

FLAGS OF ALL NATIONS.

Foreign vessels in the port include the Swedish Omberg, from Raumo, with timber, and the German Sarnland, from Königsburg, with oats. Three American vessels are expected—the New Orleans, the Balsam, and the West Hobomack.

The Swedish motor fishing vessel, Bolinder X., of Stockholm, Captain R. N. Pyk, has been lying at the end of the South Wall. She is built of Swedish oak, varnished, and is demonstrating some form of engine designed for use in fishing boats. The Bolinder X. has spent several months touring the fishing ports of England and Holland.

FREE STATE COINS IN BELFAST.

THE CORPORATION'S ATTITUDE.

Mr. J. Byrne (Nationalist) asked the Minister of Finance, in the Northern House of Commons yesterday, whether, in view of the fact that a great volume of business and passenger traffic passed regularly between Northern Ireland and the Free State, and that many tourists from abroad would be visiting both parts, and would be using Free State coinage; and having regard, also, to the fact that the banking companies in Northern Ireland were agreeable to lodgments of Free State coinage at face value, he would use his influence with the Belfast Corporation to induce them to instruct the tramway conductors under their control to accept Free State coins without demur, when tendered by passengers for their fares.

The Minister replied that he understood that the question had recently been considered by the Tramways Committee of the Corporation, and quite apart from the fact that Free State coinage was not legal tender in Northern Ireland, it was obvious that the presence of any appreciable amount of silver or copper belonging to another currency in the day's takings of the tramways must invariably cause cash inconveniences in the Tramway Office. Moreover, although he was aware that the banks, for the convenience of their customers, accepted occasional deposits in Free State currency, it would be most unreasonable to expect that the Corporation's bankers should take Free State coinage as a matter of daily practice. He was unable, therefore, to accept the suggestion that he should make representations to the Belfast Corporation in the sense desired.

QUESTION IN THE SENATE.

The matter was also raised in the Senate by Mr. T. S. M'Allister.

Viscount Charlemont, Leader of the House, said that he had been informed that the Tramway committee had endorsed the instruction to employés not to accept Free State coins. The day's takings were weighed in the tramway offices, and the presence of Free State coins, with their different weight, would be bound to cause confusion. He did not believe that any inconvenience was caused to passengers, as there was a considerable quantity of British coin still in circulation in the Free State, which visitors could bring with them.

Mr. M'Allister described the action of the Corporation as petty and childish.

Viscount Charlemont said that he did not think there was any large measure of opinion in Northern Ireland which would like to force the Corporation to accept Free State coins as legal tender.

MR. JOHN KEATING'S WORK.

INTERESTING EXHIBITION.

Perhaps even more interesting than the finished work of a painter of such note as Mr. John Keating is the foundation—the drawings and sketches on which the paintings are built up. In a collection of drawings and paintings by Mr. Keating now on exhibition at the Art Galleries, 28 South Anne street, Dublin, one has an opportunity to study the craft of this painter, and to see him, as it were, working out those rugged characters for which his painting is noted. Take for instance the three drawings one sees of the extraordinary old character who was the subject of Mr. Keating's painting "Holy Joe." The quaint old figure is seen in No. 20, in broad vigorous lines, which suggest all the eccentricity of the subject. Nos. 6 and 10 are studies of the head of the same subject. The drawing of a Woman's Head (No. 19) shows something more than wonderful technique. Then there are the studies for "Homo Sapiens," the painting by Mr. Keating which created such a stir at the Royal Academy this year. The irrepressible humour of the painter is very evident in such drawings as "Les Deux Magots," and "Beer, Glorious Beer." In the latter it is amusing to observe the wistful look of one labourer as he sees his mate drink off his beer.

There are a few interesting paintings, mostly of Mr. Keating's earlier days. "Sense and Sensibility," which was in the nature of an experiment in colour, is exceedingly interesting. "The Radiant Lady," based on Synge's play, is also very effective.

It is a show worth seeing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

REGISTRATION OF TEACHERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—One of the qualifying conditions required for admission to the register of secondary teachers is the possession of a diploma in the theory and practice of education. In order to procure this diploma a teacher, amongst other things, must attend throughout a school year a professional course of lectures given at certain centres—Dublin, Cork, Galway, Maynooth, and Clongowes Wood. An unregistered teacher who is employed at a school remote from any of these centres cannot attend such lectures while he retains his employment, and is unable to secure diploma or registration. Even if he holds a first-class honours degree, he is not allowed to participate in any of the schemes for incremental salary, pensions or other privileges of secondary school teachers.

At its last annual meeting the Schoolmasters' Association passed a resolution requesting the Registration Council to sanction a vacation course of lectures, which would qualify such teachers to proceed to the diploma. Through the kind offices of the Professor of Education, a scheme for a vacation course was drawn up, and received the sanction of the Board of Trinity College, Dublin. The whole matter was fully before the Registration Council at a recent meeting. While expressing some sympathy with hard cases the majority of the Council refused to sanction any relaxation in the rigid system (unknown in any country save the Free State), which controls admission to the privileges of the profession.

As the representative of the Schoolmasters' Association, I have taken some interest in the question of a vacation course, and I greatly regret the decision of the Council. Some interested teachers have written to me on the matter, and, no doubt, others are also concerned. I can only advise that every such teacher should send a full statement of his case to the Secretary of the Registration Council at Hume street, Dublin.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM ANDERSON.

THE SENATE AND THE TIT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—We learn from a report of a meeting of the Senate that senators and others will now be at liberty to do a great work for their country. We shall now see the brave senators and others, fully armed with double-barrelled guns, boldly stalking the great criminal tom-tit and his friends. Personally, I would rather see our gardens full of criminal tits than these innocent and bold members of the Senate.

Was there ever so much ignorance shown of the ways of nature and her agents as has been displayed by the proceedings of the Senate with regard to the Wild Birds Protection Bill? We might more properly call it the bill for the slaughter of the innocents. When all the poor birds have been annihilated then, too late, it will be found that a terrible mistake has been made. The gardens and the country at large will be at the mercy of every kind of pest that flies in the air or walks or crawls on the ground and under the ground.

There is a great deal of nonsense written about fruit-growing in this country, but until some law is passed with regard to two-legged pests no one will be much encouraged to grow more fruit. There seems to be very little idea of honesty with regard to other people's gardens. In the cities our flowers are pulled up by the roots, not only by children, who should be better taught in the schools, but also by grown men and women. Orchards are raided, not merely for one or two apples, but for whole crops of fruit, which are sold by the raiders in the markets as if they had been honestly obtained. Let the Senate and the Dail devise some means for the protection of our gardens against the two-legged pests, and let them leave the innocent and delightful tits and other birds to carry on their splendid work of destroying all kinds of harmful insects and helping us to have beautiful and productive gardens. The idea of the giant senator at war with the tiny tit is too much for us.—Yours, etc.,

"TIT-WILLOW."

Limerick, May 27th, 1930.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I wish, by your courtesy, to intimate to my brethren in the Synod of Dublin that, if leave of the General Assembly be granted, a special meeting of the Synod of Dublin will be held in Church House, Belfast, on Monday, June 2nd, after the rising of the House. Announcement of the same will be made from the platform of the Assembly.

The business will be—

(1) The appointment of a trustee of Commutation Fund in the room of the late Alexander Gray.

(2) The consideration of an application received from the Presbytery of Newry.

—Yours, etc.,

VICTOR J. COTTER, Clerk of Synod.

The Manse, Queenstown,
May 26th, 1930.

Captain J. P. Saul, Assistant Honorary Secretary of the Irish Aero Club, who is to accompany Captain Kingsford-Smith as one of the crew of the aeroplane, The Southern Cross, on the proposed trans-Atlantic flight from Ireland to America.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

INTERESTING PAPER READ AT SCIENTIFIC MEETING.

"The Raised Beaches of East Leinster" was the title of a paper read at a scientific meeting of the Royal Dublin Society, which was held at Ballsbridge yesterday, by Dr. C. M. Martin. Dr. Martin in the course of his address dealt with the changes of level in the east coast of Ireland after the glacial periods. The lecture was illustrated with slides.

Two papers, entitled: "The Distribution of Pasture Plants in Relation to Soil Acidity," and "Photo-electric Measurement in Relation to Plant Distribution (Part 3)," were submitted by Dr. W. R. G. Atkins.

NURSES' PENSION FUND.

ROCKINGHAM PARK TO BE OPENED TO PUBLIC.

In connection with the scheme in aid of the Queen Victoria Jubilee Nurses' Pension Fund, Sir Thomas Stafford has very kindly consented to throw open to the public, to-morrow, the grounds of Rockingham, Co. Roscommon. This glorious park is situate in one of the most picturesque tracts of the country, with exquisite views of lake and mountain scenery. It is three miles from Boyle, six miles from Carrick-on-Shannon, and nineteen miles from Castlerea and Sligo.

In this spell of summer weather one could not imagine a more enjoyable day's outing than a trip to Rockingham. For motorists especially there could be nothing pleasanter than this run of 100 miles from Dublin.

MOTOR CYCLE T.T. PRACTICE.

One of the competitors in the forthcoming motor cycle T.T. Races—J. Petrie, of Union street, Greenock—was picked up unconscious late on Monday night near Windy Corner, on the Isle of Man course. He had apparently crashed on the Mountain road during a practice run. He was detained in Douglas Hospital with extensive lacerations of the face and hands.

ROYAL ULSTER SHOW.

OPENING TO-DAY.

INCREASED ENTRIES.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

Preparations are now complete for the 70th annual show of the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society, which opens at Balmoral, Belfast, to-day. The premises generally are looking extremely well after the brightening up. A considerable sum was spent on painting the building, and on improvements in the grounds. In bright sunshine, such as was enjoyed yesterday, Balmoral showyard is seen to great advantage, and, given a continuance of the existing weather, this year's show ought to be well supported by the public.

THE LIVE STOCK.

The live stock exhibits include selections from some of the best flocks, herds and stables north of the Boyne, with a very fair sprinkling of entries from exhibitors in the neighbourhood of Dublin and farther south. These are to be found chiefly in the sections for Jersey and Kerry cattle, Suffolk sheep, and also in the horse jumping competitions. Among the cattle, shorthorns, as usual, take a leading position, while there is also an attractive display of Ayrshires. Irish moiled cattle—a hornless breed not much in evidence in the Irish Free State—have established a place for themselves at this show, and make a big display.

The exhibition of agricultural machinery is one of the best that has been seen at Balmoral, and includes some new inventions which will be carefully examined with a view to awarding a medal for efficiency.

MINISTRY'S EXHIBITION.

The Northern Ministry of Agriculture is staging an attractive and comprehensive exhibit in the Exhibition Hall. Specimen animals are shown with the object of demonstrating the best methods of stock-breeding and management. The advantages of breeding and rearing pigs as compared with the purchase of suckers is emphasised by means of exhibits, while other lots of live pigs are shown to demonstrate the fallacy of cooking food for fattening pigs. The correct types of bacon pig for shipment alive to the Midland markets of England are demonstrated.

Other sections deal with the economical rearing of calves on separated milk and home-grown raw crushed oats; the economy of producing "baby beef"; the importance of milk recording, and the relationship between economical feeding and milk production. In the crop husbandry section an increase in the production of oats is recommended, and the relation between this and the development of the live-stock industry is indicated.

In a section devoted to pastures farmers can learn how to get early and late grass, proper manuring and correct management as regards grazing being essentials. Demonstrations in the production of (T.T.) Grade A milk will form an important feature of the dairy section. Exhibits of live birds illustrate many of the points of management essential for success in poultry poultry-keeping, while in the section devoted to horticulture and bee-keeping, the methods by which full crops of clean fruit may be obtained are shown with the aid of exhibits, which in many cases are the result of actual experiments. Other sections deal with agricultural economics and animal diseases.

IRISH BACON-CURING INDUSTRY.

A VALUABLE ASSET.

At the weekly luncheon of the Limerick Rotary Club yesterday Mr. M. D. Shaw, one of the principals of the firm of Messrs. W. J. Shaw and Sons, delivered an address on "Bacon Curing—A National Asset."

The Free State bacon curing industry, he said, was a far more valuable asset than the North of Ireland trade. In practically every case in the Free State the pigs were bought alive and killed by the curers themselves, whereas in the North the curers buy pigs from the farmers already killed and dressed, and naturally it required a very much bigger standing staff to deal with the system in the Free State.

"A strike anywhere in the British Isles affects us, if not on the buying side, on the selling end, and here I might mention," said Mr. Shaw, "that I think there should be some form of compulsory arbitration before a strike or lock-out could take place."

In regard to the question, "What about a tax on imported bacon into this country?" Mr. Shaw said that he did not want to touch on politics, but he said that from a national and the bacon curer's point of view the most beneficial policy was for everyone to ask for Irish bacon and see that they got it. The Irish bacon curers could supply more than Ireland's needs, give a better article, and the money that would go abroad was left at home for general benefit.

ROADS AND PIGS.

The present slippery state of the trunk roads was, he said, of vital importance to the bacon trade, and needed attention to prevent accidents to pigs.

As to the pork trade, he did not think that the farmer did as well as if he held his pig until it was fit for bacon. From a national point of view it was not nearly as valuable an asset to the State, as the amount of handling was negligible.

Mr. Shaw, continuing, said that the curer always was being blamed for the variations in price, but the farmer was partly responsible for this by not having a continuity of pigs. Sometimes they had not enough for their customers, and consequently they were driven on to foreign supplies, and then when they had very much increased supplies they had lost their markets. They did feel, perhaps, that the variations in price were rather frequent, but owing to competition in the trade and the number of outside influences which affected both the buying and selling, it seemed hard to avoid fluctuations.

BIG OIL FUSION.

ANGLO-AMERICAN OIL COMPANY MERGER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

The Standard Oil Export Corporation proposes to increase its capital by $2,000,000 to $77,000,000 to provide for the acquisition of all the outstanding stock of the Anglo-American Oil Company. The merger will be carried out through an exchange of stock on the basis of one share of the Standard Oil Export Corporation 5 per cent. Pref. for each five and five-ninths shares of the Anglo-American Oil Company.

The Standard Oil Export Corporation was formed to market products abroad of subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. So far back as November last it offered to acquire shares of the Anglo-American on the basis on which the fusion is now being actually performed.

Indigestion
acidity & backache
banished by Kruschen

"Two years ago I suffered very much from indigestion, loss of appetite, and a severe pain in my back. The food I ate soured in my stomach. I felt most miserable after meals, and had no desire or appetite for them. A friend of mine advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I commenced taking a small dose in my tea every morning, and I am most happy to testify that after a short time I felt the greatest relief. I continued taking Kruschen till I felt myself quite cured and a new man."
11th April, 1930. W. B., Portsmouth.

The first effect of Kruschen Salts is to promote the flow of the saliva and so awaken the appetite. The next action occurs in the stomach, where the digestive juices are encouraged to pour out and act upon the food. Again, in the intestinal tract, certain of these salts promote a further flow of these vital juices which deal with partly digested food and prepare it finally for absorption into the system.

LOURDES PILGRIMAGE.

TWELVE HUNDRED LEAVE LONDON.

One of the war-time Red Cross trains drew out from Victoria station, London, early yesterday. It was filled, as on some previous journeys, with maimed and sick, and carried a staff of nurses, doctors and ambulance men. On this occasion its passengers were not wounded soldiers, but cripples, paralytics, deaf, dumb and blind people who were making a pilgrimage to Lourdes in the faith that there they might be cured when other means had failed.

The people had come from all parts of Great Britain and Ireland, and the gathering was a pathetic one. From an early hour until the train's departure at 7.40. ambulances had rolled steadily up the platform, deposited their burdens and gone back for more. This was the white train, and reserved specially for those unable to walk, or see, or hear.

The platform was crowded with pilgrims who wore armlets of yellow, and of red and white. Knights of St. Columbus and station officials gradually sorted everyone in their proper place, and then, amid a burst of cheering, which came more from the passengers than from the people on the platform, the train moved out of the station.

The blue train, for pilgrims who were less helpless, and an auxiliary train left a few minutes after the white train. At Folkestone they all met and embarked on a special boat for Calais, whence three trains had been chartered to carry them to Lourdes, where they will take part in various ceremonies during the week.

The pilgrims numbered 1,200, and were accompanied by the Archbishop of Cardiff, the Bishop of Brentwood, the Bishop of Menevia, and the Bishop of Plymouth.

TRAIN WINDOW SHATTERED BY BULLET.

An unusual shooting incident is engaging the attention of the Berkshire police. A window of a Southern Railway train was shattered when the train was approaching a cutting near Wokingham, and two passengers were cut about the face by falling glass. The police have examined the window, and have come to the conclusion that it had been broken by a rifle bullet.

THE NORTHERN BUDGET.

greater than in Great Britain. Unfortunately, however, unemployment in Britain has steadily increased during the past twelve months, and so the net effect has been to reduce very considerably the demands which were made upon the Exchequer for the equalisation of the two funds. The chief thing I wish to impress upon the House is that the saving in the Ministry of Labour vote is due almost entirely to fortuitous circumstances, and has no bearing whatever on the ordinary administration of services here. Therefore, in spite of the grim determination to save, we should have been £200,000 to the bad but for circumstances outside our control.

THE IMPERIAL CONTRIBUTION.

The contribution from Northern Ireland to Imperial Services, the Minister said, was fixed at the beginning of the year provisionally at £600,000, but on account of the increased yield of reserved taxes the contribution was provisionally increased to £874,000, subject to adjustment by the Joint Exchequer Board. Next year the estimated contribution would be £150,000.

Non-tax revenue amounted to a total of £1,806,000, which, added to the receipts from taxes, showed that the total ordinary revenue of the province amounted to £10,375,000, against an estimate of £9,995,000. Other receipts bring this total to the final figure of £11,126,000. The total expenditure amounted to £11,109,000, so that there remained a small surplus of £17,000, which was carried to the reserve fund.

EXPENDITURE IN COMING YEAR.

Dealing with the expenditure for the coming year, Mr. Pollock said that the estimated expenditure for the coming year on supply services was £8,881,000, or more than a million and a half above that of last year.

Only a fractional part of this expansion, he said, can be attributed to any growth in the ordinary administrative services of Government. It will be seen that agricultural services and commercial services remain practically unchanged. Education accounts for only a slight increase. We have, of course, made provision for special engineering and architectural services in connection with the Stormont Buildings and the prosecution of the Bann drainage scheme. But in the main we find that this huge increase is accounted for by social or local commitments into which we have entered.

EFFECT OF DE-RATING.

Local services also have added to my responsibilities, proceeded Mr. Pollock. This is the first year in which we feel the full effects of the de-rating scheme. We have now to make provision for a complete twelve months' expenditure, and so we find that the estimate under the head of grants to local authorities has increased from its old figure of something under half a million to over £1,400,000.

Of this sum, no less than £1,112,000 is represented by de-rating grants, and this leads me to say that this question of the effect of de-rating on the finances, not only of the Exchequer, but of local authorities also, is one which is giving me great concern. For example, the reduction in any State grant which was available to a County Council or a Rural Council prior to 1929 would produce results startling to the remaining ratepayers. On the other hand, educational expenditure can hardly continue to be borne as fully by the State in future as at present. Now that de-rating has been established and has come to stay, I intend to set up at once a small and energetic Inter-Departmental Committee to look into this very complex subject, as, in the interests of the local authorities equally with the Government, it is desirable that we should be able to visualise with some exactness whither its effects are likely to lead.

WORK OF JOINT EXCHEQUER BOARD.

Referring to the fixing of the Imperial contribution at £150,000, Mr. Pollock said:—The operation of the findings of the Special Arbitration Committee provides a great tribute to the wisdom and foresight of that body. This is evidenced by the results, whereby, automatically and without friction or irritation, the contribution has fallen from the inflated figure of £8,000,000, which was fixed in 1920, to the present sum of £150,000. Extraordinary and radical changes, both in regard to revenue and expenditure, have taken place in both areas during the intervening ten years; nevertheless, the formula provided by Lord Colwyn and his colleagues has overcome any difficulties which arose.

Summing up, therefore, we find that—

Consolidated Services Fund will require	761,000
Supply Services	8,881,000
Reserved Services	1,811,000
Which, together with the provisional Imperial contribution of	150,000
Making a total expenditure of	£11,603,000

REVENUE IN COMING YEAR.

Dealing with the revenue for the coming year, Mr. Pollock said that the changes recently made by the Imperial Chancellor in regard to the standard rate of income tax and the rates of super-tax were estimated to produce an increased revenue in Northern Ireland of £225,000, so that the estimated receipts from income and super-tax amount to £3,195,000. "Before leaving this item," said Mr. Pollock, "I should like to allay fears which have been expressed to me on many occasions by income tax payers, who feel that the fact of the standard rate of tax in the Free State being 1s. 6d. below the standard rate of tax operating in Northern Ireland is bound to militate very considerably against the interests of our province.

This difference certainly does exist in the standard rate in favour of residents in the Free State, but it must be borne in mind that the rates of allowances for earned income, for children, and so on, are more generous here than in the neighbouring area. I am advised on good authority that the tax payable by a married man with an earned income not exceeding £1,000 is lower in Northern Ireland than in the Free State. To cite an example, a married man with three children and having an earned income of £500 a year would pay £3 3s. 4d. tax here; in the Free State he would pay £10 2s. 6d. I do not need to enlarge on this, for it illustrates the simple fact that the ordinary middle-class people, who comprise the great bulk of our population, are better off here than they would be in the Free State.

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE.

The beer duty would be increased, as announced by Mr. Snowden in his Budget, and would produce an extra £28,000 this year. The total receipts from duties of Customs and Excise are put at £3,808,000, and the total yield of reserved taxes is estimated at £7,013,000. Non-tax revenue would produce £1,795,000, and other receipts £866,000, including £533,000, which represented Great Britain's share of the Equalisation Payment to the Northern Ireland Unemployment Fund. This latter sum provided for the worst contingency, but he hoped that improved trade would make the whole of this provision unnecessary, thus reducing the joint liability of the Exchequer.

A DEFICIT OF NEARLY £2,000,000.

"These figures," said Mr. Pollock, "together with reserved and non-tax revenue, give a total of £9,674,000. If this is deducted from our total expenditure of £11,603,000, it shows that to balance my Budget I have to find £1,929,000 from taxes and other sources directly under my control. I propose, in the first place, to seek the authority of Parliament to utilise the rating relief suspense account towards meeting the cost of de-rating this year to an extent not exceeding £420,000. The establishment of this fund followed upon the creation of a similar account in Great Britain, from which the Imperial Chancellor proposes to withdraw £16,000,000 this year. The maximum withdrawal proposed in Northern Ireland is based upon our population proportion of this latter sum. When allowance is made for this receipt the required sum to be found by taxation becomes £1,509,000."

Proceeding, Mr. Pollock said that he proposed to adopt the same scale of estate duties on estates over £120,000 proposed in Mr. Snowden's Budget. This would produce an extra £25,000 this year and £60,000 in a full year. £650,000 was expected from death duties next year. Stamp duties would remain unchanged, and were expected to raise £237,000. Excise licence duty and entertainment duty would yield £130,000. Extra taxation on motor vehicles must provide for a debit of over £60,000 in the Road Fund.

ROAD VEHICLES.

The duties on commercial motors would be varied, and they would revert to the old ordinary ton basis of taxation. This adjustment would be welcomed by small van owners.

I also propose to amend the existing law in regard to the definition of goods vehicles, said Mr. Pollock, so that all vehicles weighing more than 8 cwts., and used for the conveyance of goods, shall be taxed as commercial goods vehicles, and not on the more favourable horse-power basis.

I propose to make an amendment in the rates of duty chargeable on motor hackneys, including, of course, 'buses. I am fully satisfied that the present rate of taxation does not secure the payment of a fair contribution representing the wear and tear caused by 'buses to the roads. Accordingly, in future, hackney carriages seating more than eight people will be taxed at the flat rate of £2 10s per seat.

A further concession I am making is in regard to the ordinary taxi-cab. The tax at present is £12. I propose to reduce it to £10. There is also a considerable class of small hackney-cab, which has accommodation for seven or eight people. At present they are taxed at £28. Under my proposals this will be reduced to £20.

As regards motor cycles, I propose to vary the scale now in force, so that cycles not exceeding 224lb. in weight will pay a duty of £2, while cycles exceeding that weight will pay £3.

I am not inclined at present to contemplate any increase in the rate of taxation of ordinary private cars. I propose to increase the fee for the grant of a diver's licence from 5s. to 10s. This change will only apply to the drivers of private cars and motor cycles, and I am confident that it will not impose any hardship.

The total effect of these various changes will be to augment the income of the Road Fund by £43,000 in a full year, and I anticipate receiving an additional £25,000 from this source during this year, making a total of £495,000. This still leaves a small adverse balance between the outgoings and income of the Road Fund, but I am confident that, in consultation with my right hon. friend beside me, we will be able to take administrative action which will successfully bridge the gap.

BUDGET SURPLUS OF £3,000.

The sum I set out to find by taxation was £1,509,000, so that, notwithstanding the heavy, and, indeed, I might almost say excessive, demands made on the Exchequer for every conceivable kind of social service, for education, for grants of all descriptions, I am able to balance the Budget with this small surplus of £3,000.

From the contrasts which I have drawn in my statement of the increased expenditure involved in the development of services which are purely sociological in their character, the House will have little difficulty in appreciating the causes which have led to such a dramatic change. I am, however, at this important juncture in our financial relations with Britain, greatly concerned with the moral to be drawn from these results.

As between our revenue and expenditure, the financial position of the State has now reached the verge of danger point, and I feel it my duty to impress upon this House, and, so far as my words can carry, warn the local authorities and the ratepayers of the province, that, in respect of State assistance, the limit has been reached, and that they must rely on their own resources for any further expenditure they contemplate. The only alternative is heavy additional taxation.

The debate on the Budget statement was adjourned until to-day.

NORTHERN EDUCATION BILL.

SECOND READING IN THE SENATE.

Moving the second reading of the Education Amendment Bill in the Northern Senate yesterday, Viscount Charlemont said that the bill was designed to give better effect to the principles of administration embodied in the 1923 Act, which placed for the first time a large measure of educational control in the hands of the people, and it would have the effect of widening the popular interest in educational matters. It was a mistake to say that the 1923 Act was definitely secularist. Owing to the fundamental difference between voluntary control and control by a public authority it was impossible under the 1923 measure to countenance in public schools under an authority a definite and compulsory association with any particular church and with a particular form of religious belief. For that reason, it was necessary in the 1923 Act to exclude from among the duties of an education authority that of compelling it to provide catechetical or denominational instruction for the children at the schools. There was, however, a great difference between excluding such a provision from among the duties of the authority and preventing the authority from allowing such instruction to be given. They proposed to ensure that Bible instruction, which was definitely non-denominational, should be given in the provided and transferred schools, and in this they only made statutory what was the general state of affairs at present.

Mr. T. J. Campbell said that the provision that the parents of the children in any provided or transferred school could compel the Education Committee to provide Bible instruction was a proof that the bill would not be justice to Catholics.

Having referred to the Catholic claim for repairs, he declared: "This question cannot be left where this bill leaves it. The Catholics will struggle on to the goal of just laws and equal treatment; they will keep a tight grip of the schools, which are so priceless to them and so necessary to the public weal. The Catholic voluntary schools will stand out, though crippled, in isolation and dignity, symbols of a generous sacrifice by conscientious parents who have few friends in this Parliament, but who are strong in numbers and firm in purpose, and who will at the end of the day be invincible in the justice of their cause."

Mr. T. S. McAllister said that in the interests of justice and fair play the Government should extend the grant for schools so as to promote peace and remove a grievance from the minority.

The second reading was carried.

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

INCREASED PRIZE MONEY.

The list of prizes offered for competition at the Dublin Horse Show has been issued, with a total of approximately £6,000. The prizes generally have been increased by the provision of added prize money in the classes that are well supported, particularly in the hunter section, where a fifth prize of £5 may be awarded if there are 20 or more entries, and if 40 or more the prizes will be increased to £25, £20, £15, £10 and £5.

The prizes for jumping have also been increased, a sum of over £600 now being offered for competition in the eight events, exclusive of the International military jumping competitions in which at least six nations will compete this year.

A valuable addition to the prize list is the challenge trophy presented by Messrs. Gallagher, Ltd., which will be awarded this year for the first time to the winner of the champion wall jump, and a silver replica will be given yearly to the winner until the trophy is won outright.

At the request of a number of exhibitors the Horse Show Committee has arranged for the Society's veterinary officers to attend at 1.30 p.m. on the Monday before the Show for the purpose of examining any horses which exhibitors desire to submit to them, subject to certain specified conditions. Should any exhibitor not desire to have his horse examined on the Monday, the ordinary veterinary examination on Tuesday will be carried out as heretofore. It is expected that this arrangement will considerably expedite the work of the adjudicators.

Intending exhibitors should note that the entries close on 1st July, and that applications for entry forms should be addressed to the Director, Royal Dublin Society, Ballsbridge, Dublin.

THE VOCATIONAL EDUCATION BILL.

COUNTY COUNCILS' VIEWS.

COMBINED PURCHASING INQUIRY.

Mr. J. O'Neill presided at a meeting of the General Council of County Councils in the Irish Free State held yesterday afternoon at the County Council offices, Parnell square, Dublin.

With reference to the Vocational Education Bill, 1930, which is now being considered by the Dail, the Executive Committee of the Council adopted a resolution setting out that, whilst the Executive Committee of the County Councils' General Council agreed that an improved system of continuation of technical education would be beneficial in both urban and rural areas, they considered that the compulsory attendance of farmers' children during certain periods of the year would be unnecessarily burdensome on the agricultural community. The Committee, therefore, considered that the period of compulsory attendance of such pupils should be at the discretion of the County Committees to be established.

As regards the method of financing the scheme, the Committee were strongly opposed to the proposal that it should be maintained at the ratepayers' expense. They regarded the scheme as an enlargement of the existing education system of the country, and maintained that as such it should be financed from the Central Fund.

The adoption of the report of the Executive Committee in connection with the bill was formally proposed and seconded.

DUBLIN COUNTY RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Chairman said that his Council—the Dublin County Council—had suggested the following amendments:—

(1) That the Secretary of the County Council in each county should be the chief executive officer of the Committee to be established under the Act.

(2) That the Committee should not have power to borrow without the approval of the County Council.

(3) That exemptions from compulsory attendance should, in addition to the reasons mentioned in the bill, contain all such provisions as are in the School Attendance Act, and not referred to in the bill as drafted; and

(4) That the Council considers it unfair to ratepayers to stipulate that the local authorities should bear 50 per cent. of the cost of the schemes outlined under the bill, and suggests that a more equitable basis would be one-third to be borne by the ratepayers and two-thirds from State funds.

Those, said the Chairman, were the principal points on which his Council had drafted amendments to the Executive Committee's report, and he moved them as amendments to that report.

Mr. C. Mathews (Meath) formally seconded.

Mr. Kennedy (Tipperary, South) said that he did not agree with that portion of the amendment recommending that the Secretary of the County Council should be the executive officer. Education was the greatest asset of the country, and he did not think that the Secretary of the County Council would be a suitable person for organising such a scheme, no matter how qualified he might be in other respects. When they were going to spend so much money on the scheme they should get the best man and the one most suited for the position.

Mr. Lynch (Galway) also agreed that the Secretary of the County Council was not a suitable person for reorganising a scheme of technical education.

FINANCING THE SCHEME.

Miss Breen (Kerry) said that she thought that a portion might come from the rates, but that the remainder should come from the Central Fund, as the taxpayer was unable to bear any further heavy burden.

Mr. McCormack (Limerick) was opposed to the levying of any further burden upon the ratepayers.

Mr. McGahon (Louth) supported the resolution of the Louth County Council, that the scheme should be financed from the Central Fund, and not at the cost of the ratepayers; and, further, that a period of compulsory attendance of pupils in the rural areas should be at the discretion of the local committees to be established.

Mr. Cobb (Leix) said that the total cost of education should be borne by the State. This bill was a continuation of the existing system of education. The present system was, on the whole, very satisfactorily administered by the Board; and, if this bill was a continuation of the present system, why not have it financed and administered in the same way? He was opposed to giving the control of education to local committees.

Mr. Forgrave (Monaghan) said that it had been suggested that the cost should be borne by the State, but no Government would ever dream of providing the whole expenses and allow the county committee to have the whole control. In this they were up against a very big problem. The present system was administered by a sort of dual control—by the Board of Education and a good deal vested in the Churches.

The Chairman then intimated that he would withdraw the amendments suggested by his County Council.

The report of the Executive Committee was then left open to discussion.

OTHER AMENDMENTS.

The Chairman moved an amendment deleting that portion of the report dealing with the financial provisions of the bill, and substituting therefor amendments Nos. 2 and 4 from the Dublin County Council, given above.

Mr. O'Byrne (Wexford) seconded.

Mr. Brett (Westmeath) said that he opposed any change whatever being put in the bill. The rates were liable to be heavily mulcted over this, and his County Council was strongly opposed to the county bearing any of the charge.

Mr. McGahon (Louth) said that he did not think that the County Councils should contemplate having to pay for either the construction of new schools or the setting up of separate staffs. He thought that the system could be excellently administered by the central education authority.

Mr. Hassett, T.D. (Tipperary), said that if they came to the conclusion that there should be no rate at all for technical education, it would be a retrograde step.

The Chairman's amendment was declared lost on a show of hands.

Mr. Drury (Roscommon) moved an amendment to the report of the Executive Committee of the General Council of County Councils in regard to the financing of the scheme, in which they strongly opposed that it should be financed at the cost of the ratepayers. The amendment added that the Council regard the scheme as an enlargement of the existing education scheme of the country, and maintained that as such it should be administerd by the Department of Education, acting in co-operation with the local authority, and be financed by the central fund.

He said that if the local committee was to provide additional building machinery and other things, it would result in an endless source of trouble and expense without benefit.

Mr. Forgrave (Monaghan) seconded. The amendment was lost.

REJECTION MOVED.

Mr. C. Mathews (Meath) then proposed the rejection of the entire recommendations of the executive committee, and that they adopt the whole scheme as laid down in the bill. Education in this country was very backward, and they were behind every country in the world in this respect. They should not set up obstacles to anything being done in regard to education. There was no seconder for the proposal, and Mr. J. J. Sheil (Dublin) proposed the following amendment to paragraph two of the recommendations of the executive committee, in regard to the financing of the scheme, which read: "As regards this scheme, the Council are strongly opposed to the proposal that it should be maintained at the cost of the ratepayers. The Council believe that this scheme is an enlargement of the general educational facilities in the country, and as such should be financed by the Ministry for Education. The Council is, however, prepared in the special circumstances at present existing to recommend the payment by this Council of a contribution not exceeding 30 per cent. of the total cost, conditional on the insertion in the bill of statutory authority for the contribution of the balance of the cost from the central fund."

This was seconded by Mr. Metcalfe (Wicklow), but defeated by 8 votes to 7.

The second portion of the Executive Committee's recommendation, which read: "As regards the method of financing the scheme, the Committee are strongly opposed to the proposal that it should be maintained at the cost of the ratepayers. They regard the scheme as an enlargement of the existing education system of the country, and maintain that, as such, it should be financed from the Central Fund," was passed by 9 votes to 5, on the motion of Mr. McGahan, seconded by Mr. Brett (Westmeath).

On the motion of Mr. O'Byrne (Wexford), seconded by Mr. O'Connor (Cork), the recommendation of the Executive Committee recommending the Council to press for an inquiry into the working of the Combined Purchasing Act, in view of the numerous complaints from public bodies, was adopted.

A vote of condolence was passed to Mr. P. Belton, Dublin County Councillor, on the death of his mother.

CORK EXHIBITION PROJECT.

APATHY OF THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

BUSINESS FIRMS TO BE CANVASSED.

It is evident that if the proposed International Exhibition is to take place in the City of Cork during the year 1932 greater interest will have to be evinced in the project not only among the general public, but even on the part of the General Committee.

Thirty invitations were issued in connection with a meeting of the committee here yesterday morning, but, despite the importance of the agenda, only ten members were present. In the circumstances little headway could be made and certain misgivings were expressed regarding the feasibility of the exhibition, especially with regard to the financial support that would be forthcoming from the citizens.

Mr. P. Crowley, declared that since their last meeting he had been informed that a great many people who had promised support were not genuine about it. For that reason it would be necessary to get the consent of those who would be likely to act and to work the project in a business-like manner. He felt that a small committee should be appointed to go into that matter.

£20,000 WANTED LOCALLY.

Mr. Braham Sutton, a member of the Business Party in the Corporation, said that unless at least £20,000 was raised in Cork they should not go ahead with the proposal.

Other members suggested that as they proceeded with their work the support from outsiders would increase, and that they should not let themselves be deterred by any apparent apathy.

Eventually the following committee was appointed to inquire once more among the business firms regarding their support, and to ascertain the number of shares that every firm would be prepared to take in the limited liability company that is being floated:—Messrs. James Dwyer, H. A. Pelly, James Crosbie, F. J. Daly, Richard Wallace, Chairman, Harbour Board, and P. Crowley. The Lord Mayor (Alderman French, T.D.) is Chairman of the Committee, and Mr. James Dwyer and Alderman F. J. Daly have now been appointed as Vice-Chairman and Hon. Secretary, respectively.

In the absence of the Lord Mayor at yesterday's meeting, the chair was occupied by Alderman Daly, those present including Sir John Scott, Messrs. Barry M. Egan, T.D.; H. A. Pelly, P. Crowley, T. C. Butterfield, B. Sutton, M. O'Herlihy, James Crosbie, jun., and W. L. Kelleher.

Mr. J. C. Foley and Mr. Eugene MacSweeney, who had previously expressed their opposition to the scheme, have now tendered their resignations from the Committee, and the resignations have been accepted.

TWENTY THOUSAND MORE UNEMPLOYED.

The numbers of persons on the registers of employment exchanges in Great Britain on May 19, states the Ministry of Labour, were 1,170,700 wholly unemployed, 491,400 temporarily stopped, and 97,400 normally in casual employment, making a total of 1,759,500. This was 20,015 more than the previous week's number. The total on May 19 comprised 1,248,500 men, 46,500 boys, 419,400 women, and 45,100 girls.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

Complaints having been made of the apathy of the general public towards the Cork Exhibition project, a committee has been appointed to canvass the local business firms.—(Page 5.)

The General Council of County Councils in the Irish Free State, at a meeting in Dublin yesterday, considered numerous suggestions for the amendment of the Vocational Education Bill which is now before the Dáil.—(Page 5.)

The master of a Lowestoft trawler was fined £100 at Waterford District Court yesterday, and his fishing gear confiscated, for "otter fishing" off the Waterford coast.—(Page 8.)

In making his Budget statement in the Northern House of Commons yesterday Mr. Pollock, the Minister of Finance, told the local authorities that, as the financial position of the State had reached the verge of danger, they must rely upon their own resources for any additional expenditure.—(Page 7.)

The New Leader, the weekly official organ of the British Independent Labour Party, has been banned in the Free State for three months because "it advocates the unnatural prevention of conception."—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

An official report issued from Buckingham Palace yesterday stated that the King was suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the left hip. It was learned last night that His Majesty is making satisfactory progress.—(Page 7.)

The Prince of Wales, in the absence of the King, escorted the Queen at last night's Court at Buckingham Palace. The guests numbered over eight hundred.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Miss Amy Johnson arrived at Longreach, Queensland, on Tuesday evening, and was welcomed by an enormous crowd. The next stage of her flight is Roma.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At the Curragh yesterday Some Power won the Harristown Plate, Tremolio the Scurry Plate, Double Arch the Beginners' Stakes, Cap-a-Pie II. the Maddenstown Plate, Gomar the Walsh's Hill Stakes, and Kildare's Pride the Friarstown Plate.—(Page 10.)

At York Sidonia won the Londesborough Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were quiet and featureless. British Funds further appreciated.—(Page 12.)

Money rates in Lombard street tightened up, and loans over the night commanded 2½ to 3 per cent. Discounts kept firm. Germany bought £260,000 of the £440,000 of South African gold in the market. £100,000 was taken by an unknown buyer.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market fluctuated. Imperial Tobaccos were a weak spot.—(Page 12.)

England's Incubus.

"The time has now arrived for the abolition of fees in the London secondary schools." This motion has been submitted to the London County Council by a Socialist member. In the primary schools throughout Great Britain education is free, and a scheme for further subsidies will come before the House of Commons during the present week. The bill proposes to raise the school leaving-age from fourteen to fifteen, and to furnish maintenance grants during the additional year. Lavish outlay on education is only one aspect of a general movement for the establishment of a subsidised democracy. To-day the cost and character of the social services are a grave menace to Britain's welfare. Between free education, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and other public benefits, millions of the English people now batten upon the State from the cradle to the grave. Some days ago, in a police court trial at Manchester, it was revealed that six members of an idle family were receiving from the State £6 5s. weekly in the form of doles and pensions. These services are a cruel tax on industry, and the effect on their promiscuous beneficiaries is wholly demoralising. At present British taxpayers are only a small fraction of the population. The mass of citizens pays no taxes, direct or indirect, and, therefore, has no interest in the cost of government. It feels no concern for the national honour or safety, and the only virtue which it requires from its statesmen is an ingenuity to find new excuses for larger doles. There is nothing novel in these phenomena. Describing the effect of the dole system under Tiberius, Tacitus said: "Industry languishes, sloth waxes, when hope and fear are lifted from a dole-fed democracy that has become a burden on the State." It seems, however, that a Government which enthrones the school teacher has no use for the teachings of history.

This is a time—if ever there was a time—for clear thinking and firm purpose in British politics; yet in all recent talk of change the Government's critics have shirked the main issue. If the Conservative Party is to save England, its policy must undergo not merely bold development, but drastic change. The present depression of industry is shared by the whole world, and we may hope that, sooner or later, natural causes, even apart from imperial legislation, will relieve it. On the other hand, the problem of the social services brooks no delay. It is a cancer which grows steadily worse while the operation is being postponed. All British parties have helped to create this dreadful incubus. Conservatives, as well as Socialists, have succumbed to the vote-catching lure of doles; and to-day nothing less is required from Mr. Baldwin than a frank confession of error and an entirely new line of action. Often in recent years we have felt constrained to remind the Free State that she could not afford social services on the English scale. To-day it is lamentably clear that Britain cannot afford social services on her present scale. Indeed, the time has come when she may learn a lesson from the Free State Government, which has taken courage, more than once of late, to reject plausible demands for the increase of public benefits. Mr. Baldwin's programme for the next general election ought to be based on a scheme of vigorous and far-reaching economies in the national expenditure. It ought to promise—for a beginning—a reduction of the social services by at least twenty-five per cent. It ought to insist that henceforward there shall be no representation without taxation, and that thus every citizen shall be compelled to feel that he has a stake in the conduct of public affairs. If such an appeal is made and wins, the Conservative Party will save England. If it is made and fails—if the rot has gone too far—at least the Conservative Party will have found an end worthy of its history and traditions. If the appeal is not made, then, as it seems to us, the result of the next general election will be a matter of small importance.

The Northern Budget.

Mr. H. M. Pollock, Northern Ireland's Finance Minister, is anything but an alarmist, and, therefore, his statement during his Budget speech, in Belfast yesterday, that "the financial position of the State now has reached danger point," must be taken seriously. His hands have been tied by the complicated arrangement that was made by the Government of Ireland Act of 1920, under which the Northern State operates. Certain services, including Customs and Excise, income tax and the like, were "reserved" to the British Government, with the result that the Northern Parliament really has very little control over its own finances. The Colwyn Committee, by agreement with the Governments of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, has determined, from year to year, the amounts of the latter's imperial contributions; and some idea of its efforts may be gained from the fact that it has reduced Belfast's obligation from £8,000,000 to £150,000. Even with this relief, however, Northern finances call for the most careful treatment. Mr. Pollock was able to tell the Belfast House of Commons yesterday that the total revenue, from tax and non-tax sources, had reached £10,375,000, as against an estimate of £9,995,000. "Other receipts" brought this figure to £11,126,000, which, compared with a total expenditure of £11,109,000, left a realised surplus of £17,000. Customs and Excise yielded an excess of £100,000, and the transferred services produced £89,000 over the estimate. Income and sur-tax also showed an increased yield of £173,000, and altogether the results of the year's financial working were more than satisfactory.

This year Mr. Pollock estimates that he will have a surplus of only £3,000, having been forced to increase the scale of death duties, and also to impose new taxes on motor vehicles. He will withdraw £420,000 from the Rating Relief Suspense account as an assistance to the finance of the derating scheme; and he will be fortunate if, at the end of the financial year, he does not find himself with a deficit instead of a surplus. The reason for Northern Ireland's embarrassment must be sought in the huge increase in the cost of social services of one kind and another. When the Northern State came into being these services—which do not include education—cost only £2,000,000 a year; now they cost £4,000,000. In a State that depends on a small income such a sum is excessive; but the Northern Government is beginning to discover that it cannot have matters both ways. Mr. Pollock said yesterday that the workman of Northern Ireland now had secured free education for his children; he also is insured against ill-health, unemployment, accidents, old age and blindness; and, furthermore, provision is made for his widow and children when he dies. These benefits cannot be enjoyed free of charge. Northern Ireland must pay for the privilege of sharing Socialist legislation with the neighbouring island; and we hardly can believe that its rulers anticipated the advent of a Labour Government at Westminster when they decided that they would follow Great Britain in everything. The Six Counties have problems of their own which are totally different from those of Britain. They have serious unemployment, but their resources are not sufficiently extensive to enable "doles" to be paid on the British scale. The time is at hand, however, when a re-deal of the financial cards may be necessary.

Lena Goldfields.

In 1925 the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics granted a concession to the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., on condition that the company should spend £2,200,000 to restore what, in fact, was its own property, and should abandon all claims against the Government in respect of the huge losses that were sustained when the undertaking was nationalised during the revolution. The Soviet authorities, on their side, guaranteed to the company freedom to import supplies and to export capital, and promised that labour conditions should be on an equal footing with those obtaining in State concerns. In spite of the one-sided nature of this contract, the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., took the view that half a loaf was better than no bread, and fulfilled loyally its part of the bargain. Indeed, no dividends have been paid, and all profits have been devoted to a fuller development of the mines. At the beginning of this year, however, although hampered often by official and trade union interference, the company was preparing to reap where it had sown. Immediately, the masters of modern Russia took action. Agents of the Ogpu raided the company's offices and works, seized the books, which, under the agreement, were immune from inspection, and arrested several employés on frivolous charges. A clause in the concession provided that disputes of this sort should be settled by arbitration, and both sides appointed representatives. Suddenly the Soviet authorities, alleging that the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., had broken the contract, withdrew their arbitrator, and to-day all work in the mines is at a standstill. While such conditions exist in Russia, the lords of the Kremlin cannot expect foreign capital to adventure itself within their reach. It is manifest that the Russian Government cannot tolerate a concern which dares to prosper under a "capitalist ægis," while its own industries wallow in a communistic mire.

A Disciple.

Gandhi, languishing in Yeravda Jail, is likely to receive comfort in the form of a packet of salt collected by admirers from the waters of New York Harbour. Yesterday Mr. Raymond Duncan conducted a small procession from his studio in West Fiftieth street to the Battery, where the salt was to be manufactured. Mr. Duncan, we had been told, proposed to wear his ordinary attire. Such information might seem to be superfluous until we discover that his ordinary attire is a Greek tunic with sandals. What is ordinary to such a man? The New York Correspondent of The Times remarked simply that the pilgrimage was "expected to attract some attention." We believe him, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that this agreeable possibility made great appeal to the sandalled wearer of a Greek tunic. Unfortunately, the setting provided by New York Harbour must have robbed the ceremony of the rustic simplicity that adorned the affair at Dandi. Nevertheless, it is improbable that the pilgrims noticed any incongruity, since it is manifest that not one of them can be possessed of a spark of humour. Probably they claim that by a slavish imitation of the Mahatma's actions they are according him their highest respect. Our age is very tolerant — perhaps, too tolerant — of faddists; indeed, there are many who exalt these freaks into heroes, and they thrive especially in the United States.

MONEY FOR HOUSING.

CORK CORPORATION'S SUGGESTION.

At a meeting of the Cork Corporation last night a resolution was passed urging the Government to make available for housing purposes portion of the moneys invested in Savings Certificates.

It was pointed out that over a million pounds' worth of Certificates are held in Cork City and County, and the opinion was expressed that at least a portion of this money should be available for the erection of the houses that are so badly needed in the city.

One hundred thousand pounds was mentioned as an acceptable figure.

THE DUKE OF YORK AT NORTHAMPTON.

VISITS TO HOSPITALS.

The Duke of York yesterday fulfilled a number of engagements in Northampton, which he visited in connection with the town's festival week. After opening a Boot Manufacturers' Trade Exhibition at the Guildhall, he accepted three pairs of walking shoes for the Duchess, two tiny pairs of shoes for Princess Elizabeth; a pair of hand-sewn hunting boots and a pair of golf shoes for himself.

The Duke visited the Mansfield Orthopædic Hospital, on the outskirts of the town, and inspected several departments. Before leaving he accepted from Doreen Colman, a seven-year-old patient, a small bunch of lilies, which had been grown in the hospital grounds.

On returning to the town by car, the Duke visited the Northampton General Hospital, and laid the foundation stone of a new Ophthalmic Hospital in-patient building.

He lunched with the Mayor and Mayoress at the Guildhall, and afterwards opened a Carnival in Abington Park, and witnessed a pageant, showing the principal events in the history of the town.

DAIL AND SENATE.

TO-DAY'S BUSINESS.

From Our Political Correspondent.

The remaining estimates on the agenda will form the chief business in the Dail to-day. These include the votes for the Department of Industry and Commerce, Old Age Pensions, Local Loans Commissions and Special Inquiries, Agriculture and Forestry.

In the Senate the second stage of the Greater Dublin Bill and the report stage of the Sweepstakes Bill will be taken.

Senator Connolly has put down a motion in the following terms:—

"That, in view of the present excessive rate of interest charged by the Irish banking companies on loans and overdrafts, the Seanad requests the Executive Council to take such steps as may be necessary to control such rate of interest."

SIMON COMMISSION'S REPORT.

BOTH VOLUMES SIGNED.

It is announced that the Indian Statutory Commission has held its last meeting and has signed the second and concluding volume of the report, which, like the first volume, is unanimous. It has already been announced that, in order to secure contemporaneous publication in India and in Great Britain, the first volume will be issued on June 10th and the second on June 24th.

OBITUARY.

MR. FREDERICK RAYNOR ROHU.

By the death of Mr. Frederick Raynor Rohu, which occurred on Tuesday last at his residence, Millboro' House, at the ripe age of 84 years, Cork has lost one of its oldest citizens and Ireland one of her keenest students of nature, whose opinion was sought on Natural History by many eminent authorities. Mr. Rohu's unusual and extensive knowledge of nature was not so much gleaned from the printed page as by the patient and correct observation of nature. This, combined with his uprightness of character and strict business integrity, earned for him the highest respect of a very wide community. He is survived by his widow and seven children.

Entering the service of the Trinity Board at an early age, Mr. Rohu soon found that this orbit for his energies was too restricted. During his leisure moments he had made a very close study of Natural History, making a speciality of ornithology in all its branches. He has made a valuable contribution towards this subject in "The Fowler in Ireland" (Sir Ralph Payne-Gallwey, Bart.), having written chapter XIV. One of the most interesting, as well as perhaps, the best written chapters in the book, is that devoted to a description of the Skelligh and their seafowl. At the Cork Exhibition, 1883, the first prize gold medal was awarded to Mr. Rohu for excellence of his natural history exhibits, a feature of which was a caricature of Darwin's evolution theory, depicting two monkeys debating the subject, one holding a flag on which was written "Is Darwin right."?

Mr. Rohu took an active part in the civic life of Cork, and was returned as City Councillor on two occasions, and did useful work on the Hackney Car and Waterworks Committees.

MR. ARNOLD GRAVES.

Mr. Arnold Felix Graves, who took an important part in the promotion of Irish education and Irish industries, died on Saturday last at Wheathampstead at the age of 82.

The third son of Dr. Charles Graves, Bishop of Limerick, he was born on November 17, 1847, and was the brother of Mr. Alfred Perceval Graves, Mr. C. L. Graves, and Sir Robert Wyndham Graves. His sister Ida, who married Admiral Sir Richard Poore, is the author of "Recollections of an Admiral's Wife," and other books. Arnold Graves was educated at Windermere College and Trinity College, Dublin, where he was first honoursman in mathematics, was captain of the University football team, played for Ireland at cricket from 1865 to 1868, and won the University hurdle races in the same years.

He passed the Indian Civil Service examination in 1868, but, instead of going out to India, was called to the Irish Bar in 1872. He was afterwards appointed secretary to the Charity Commissioners and the Commissioners of Education for Ireland, but, apart from his official duties, he rendered notable service to education. Thus, he was hon. secretary and organiser of the City of Dublin Technical Schools, the Pembroke Technical Schools, the Technical Education Association, and the Irish Artisans' Exhibition, all of which he was instrumental in founding; and he also served on the committees of the Irish Industries Association, the Royal Society for the Training and Employment of Women, and the City of Dublin Libraries Committee.

Mr. Graves was the author of "Clytaemnestra," "Helen of Troy," "Prince Patrick," "The Long Retreat," "The Turn of the Tide," and "Healthy, Wealthy, and Wise." He married Miss Constance Weatherley, and had four sons and one daughter.

N.W. and N.E. Ireland.—Fresh Westerly winds; bright and cloudy periods; showers; cooler.

S.E. and S.W. Ireland.—Moderate Westerly winds, fresh at times; cloudy and bright periods; showers; cool.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Fresh South-westerly or Westerly winds, strong perhaps at times; cloudy and bright periods; showers; sea rather rough.

LONDON LETTER.

THE KING'S INDISPOSITION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
Tuesday Night.

The announcement of the King's indisposition caused much surprise this morning; but when it became known later that the King was suffering, like so many of his subjects, from a slight attack of rheumatism, surprise turned to sympathy. The continuous wet weather of the past few weeks has affected a great many people in London with chills and rheumatism, and the doctors are worked heavily. It is not impossible that the King aggravated his attack of rheumatism by the visit which he paid to the Chelsea Flower Show last week; for the grounds were sodden with rain, and the King and Queen moved about on foot in the damp for some time.

Lord Dawson's Advice.

Fortunately, the trouble is not sufficient to cause any anxiety whatever, and, above all, it has no connection with the King's illness. The decision that His Majesty ought not to attend the Courts this week is taken on the advice of Lord Dawson, since the ceremonial entails, not only a long period of standing and sitting, but a lengthy progress from the private apartments of the Palace to the ballroom situated at the opposite end of the building. Possibly, the rheumatism has shown itself in the right hip, because it was there that the King was injured most when he fell from his horse in France during the War. It is reassuring to learn that no bulletins will be issued from Buckingham Palace, and that there will be no further statement about the King's condition until to-morrow.

Olympia.

It is expected that the King and Queen will attend Olympia on the afternoon of June 23rd, when officers representing Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland, Chile and the Irish Free State will compete for the King George V. Gold Cup. The Prince of Wales will be present on the afternoon of June 27th, and on this day teams of foreign officers will compete for the trophy offered by him.

Unemployment and the Premier.

A speech made by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald in Durham, suggesting co-operation with other parties to solve the unemployment problem, possibly is responsible for the rumour in the Lobby this evening that an offer will be made in the course of the unemployment debate to-morrow, proposing the formation of a joint council of all parties, in order that the Government's responsibility may be shared by the Conservatives and Liberals. The idea finds no acceptance in Conservative ranks, and a remark was passed that the Labour Government, having climbed into office by means of the problem, must not balance itself on the shoulders of those whose efforts to solve the difficulty it condemned. It is not at all unlikely, however, that Mr. Macdonald may advance some unexpected proposals; for he has taken control of the Government's plans for the elimination of the problem, and presides over the deliberations of the advisory body, acting, in a manner, as a new Lord Privy Seal.

The Government's Allies.

It will not be surprising if the Government majority to-morrow night shows a considerable advance on the figures hitherto mentioned; for the extremists of the Labour Party have reached the conclusion that it does their cause little good to endanger the life of the Government. If the statement made by the Prime Minister meets with their approval, most of them will go into the Lobby with the majority of the party. The Liberal support, also, may be greater than has been expected; for there was a resumption of conversations between Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Lloyd George to-day, though it was rumoured that the conversations had nothing to do with the question of electoral reform.

Conservative Campaigning.

The May campaign of the Conservative Party has been concluded, and the organisers who have taken part in the meetings express keen satisfaction at the results achieved. The pledge to support the party policy on "safeguarding" and the development of Empire trade has received over two million signatures, and the degree of enthusiasm shown at the meetings held in industrial centres has been marked. In view of the success of the campaign, greater activity will be shown in the autumn, when numerous meetings will be held throughout the country. In the meantime, Mr. Baldwin and other prominent speakers have accepted invitations to deliver addresses in several important provincial centres.

Prices for Pictures.

The much discussed Crucifixion picture in the Royal Academy by Mr. Mark Symons has not been sold, though, in general, this has been a good year for the artists. The price is £300—a not extravagant sum for such a painting. It is said that nearly fifteen thousand pounds have changed hands between buyers and artists since the exhibition opened, and that over two hundred exhibits have been sold. This is much better than last year, and, if the improvement is maintained, 1930 should be a "bumper" year for the artist. A very large work, "L'Age d'Or," a mural decoration by Mr. W. G. de Glehn, priced at £2,500, is another unsold work, but it appears that the inclination is towards small pictures. The highest prices paid up to the present have been to Sir John Lavery for "The Chess Players," and to Mr. Charles Wheeler for his sculpture "Spring."

Light Aeroplanes.

Additional interest is given to this year's international light aeroplane flight round Europe on account of the inclusion of Britain in the course to be covered. As Germany won the event last year, arrangements are in the hands of the Aero Club of Germany, and the beginning and ending will be in Berlin. The British entries are rather fewer than they were expected to be, numbering only eight machines, in comparison with forty-seven German competitors. France, Spain and Poland will be represented by sixteen machines apiece, while four entries have been made by Switzerland. Many British machines and engines will be used by competitors from other countries, and, as British representatives will include several experienced light aeroplane pilots, they may play a prominent part in the flight.

Lord Davidson's Funeral.

The first part of the Funeral Service of the late Archbishop Lord Davidson will take place in Westminster Abbey on Thursday evening, and will be attended by many well-known people. The King will be represented by the Duke of Gloucester, and it is expected that other members of the Royal Family will be present. The late Archbishop had so wide a circle of friends in all classes that the gathering is certain to be most representative.

INDIAN DEATH ROLL INCREASING.

CORPSES LYING UNCOUNTED IN RANGOON.

TROOPS CALLED OUT IN BOMBAY.

CURFEW FOLLOWS LUCKNOW RIOTING.

THE Gandhi movement is, for the moment, in the background of the news from India this morning. Rioting continued yesterday in Rangoon, Bombay and Dacca and Lucknow was added to the list of disturbed cities. The origins of the disturbances were as shown below.

LUCKNOW—This was the only place in which the Congress Volunteers were involved in the rioting. When a police post was attacked the police fired on the mob.

BOMBAY—A police sergeant struck a Mohammedan who was savagely beating a dog, and was beaten by a mob, who, increasing in size, attacked the police quarters and were fired on by the police in self-defence.

DACCA—Communal riots broke out on Thursday, 22nd inst., when a Moslem boy was hit while playing with Hindu boys.

RANGOON—Here communal rioting on a very big scale occurred as the result of Hindu coolies replaçing Burmese coolies after the settlement of a strike at the docks. The casualties here can be estimated only approximately; the number actually killed will never be known.

The following table shows the total casualties ascertained up to last evening in the different cities:—

	Dead.	Injured.
BOMBAY	6	69
DACCA	14	30
LUCKNOW	4	44
RANGOON	54	700
TOTAL	78	843

Bombay was reported quiet at midnight last night.

MURDER RIFE IN RANGOON.

GOVERNMENT ACCOUNT OF THE RIOTING.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
RANGOON, Tuesday.

The following is a summary of a Government communiqué on the present Rangoon riots:—The decision of some employers of shipping labour to terminate the strike by giving an enhanced wage and re-employing the Andhras (Hindus) who had struck; also a summary notice to the temporarily employed Burman labourers during the strike that they were not wanted; also the jeering at Burman labourers by Andhra coolies, rapidly led to attacks by both sides on isolated parties of their opponents.

The Burmans were at first outnumbered, but later mustered strongly with the object of counter-attacking the Andhras. The result was that where the Burmans were numerically superior they became aggressive; the same also with the Andhras.

POLICE EFFORTS.

The police authorities adopted a policy, so far as possible, of preventing the conflicting forces from coming into actual conflict. The police found it possible to avoid firing into the crowd, except on two occasions yesterday, when six or seven shots were fired, resulting in three Andhras being wounded.

On another occasion, to save a Burmese Sub-Inspector of Police already injured, a sergeant fired, shooting one Burman of the attacking party through the leg.

The frequent shifting of the scene of the riots was due to the Burmans commandeering motor 'buses to transport them, and the sporadic outbursts in widely separated quarters intensified the difficulties of the police in controlling the situation.

SEPARATING THE RIOTERS.

Gradually the police established something like a cordon in the affected areas, and, by preventing the conflicting forces from meeting each other, the situation was improved towards last night.

It is known that Burmese parties murdered many Andhras in their houses, and killed or wounded all they found.

Last night was quiet.

This morning the police posted numerous pickets in the affected areas, keeping the situation under control, but business is at a stand-still, and this morning, in two streets in the Indian business quarters, the police opened fire when they found Burmese parties armed with knives, who refused to disarm, and a large Andhra mob commenced stoning the police, who were determined not to retire.

BRUTAL MURDERS.

Isolated attacks by Burmese parties, accompanied by brutal murders, also occurred, besides isolated cases of attempted, but unsuccessful incendiarism.

The Cameron Highlanders with machine-guns strengthened the police force this morning, the regulars' activities, however, being confined to disarming armed parties. Several private persons were enrolled as special constables.

Strong pickets are guarding the main roads into Rangoon to prevent fresh troublesome elements from coming in. The military police force has also been reinforced. There is no reason to apprehend that the situation will not be kept under firm control. The feeling between Burmans and Andhras is still intense, and this will apparently lead to sporadic attacks.

THE UNCOUNTED DEAD.

According to the communiqué (which was evidently written this forenoon), the hospital indoor patients resulting from the fighting number 298, including 26 injured by gunfire. The outdoor patients number 334.

Thirty-three have died in hospital, besides the dead in the mortuary not yet counted, and an unascertained number of murders in houses not reported or known. Numerous deaths occurred to-day, but the number is not yet known. No private European was killed or injured.

Apart from minor injuries received by the police, one European sergeant had a severe head wound.

Considerable damage was caused to property by both sets of rioters. Some looting occurred yesterday evening, but none is known to have taken place to-day.

MORE COLLISIONS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
Tuesday, 9 p.m.

Two more collisions took place this afternoon between Burmans and Indians. In one case the Burmans are reported to have attacked some Indian houses, and it is stated that in the affray ten Indians—some of whom were women—were killed and many others seriously injured.

The situation later became quiet, although the city looked desolate.

It is reported that six were killed in this morning's firing. Since the rioting began fifty-four dead bodies have been brought to the mortuary. The Police Courts are virtually closed, the magistrates being on duty outside.

THE OUTBREAK IN LUCKNOW.

POLICE FIRE 57 ROUNDS AT CLOSE RANGE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
LUCKNOW, Tuesday.

Four people are reported to have been killed and thirty injured in serious troubles that broke out here to-day, and a curfew has been promulgated. Fourteen policemen have been taken to hospital.

The official account of the occurrences says that a huge crowd, headed by Congress volunteers, came into conflict with the police and military in Aminabad Park, the busiest centre in the city. After a great effort the police succeeded in pushing back the crowd, and the authorities, thinking that the situation was easier, withdrew the military. The "national flag" was hauled down, but the flagstaff was left intact.

AN INFURIATED MOB.

Immediately after the troops had been withdrawn an infuriated mob attacked a police outpost, and the police, in self-defence, fired fifty-seven shots at short range.

The latest reports state that the mob has split up into gangs, which are proceeding through the city in several directions, and adopting a hostile and menacing attitude. Armed guards have been posted in different parts of the city.

Military precautions continue.

IN THE DAYS OF THE MUTINY.

Lucknow is associated with some of the most memorable incidents of the Indian Mutiny. Shortly after the outbreak of the Mutiny the rebels, in July, 1857, besieged the Residency, in defence of which the illustrious Sir Henry Lawrence perished. Sir Henry Havelock marched to the relief, afterwards retiring and leaving Sir James Outram in command. The rebels gained the ascendancy for a time, but, in March, 1858, the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Colin Campbell (afterwards Lord Clyde), carried the place by successive assaults.

DACCA'S GROWING DEATH ROLL.

GURKHA PICKETS IN THE DANGER ZONE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
DACCA, Tuesday.

Ten Hindus and four Mohammedans have died, out of the total of forty-four injured in hospital. A Gurkha was arrested.

Guns have been sequestrated from owners with licences throughout the area. The city looks deserted.

Gurkha pickets are posted in the danger zone, and armed police are patrolling the streets.

Cases of looting and stabbing continue. A postal runner was wounded yesterday evening. A number of shops, including a khaddar (homespun) store, have been burned.

BOMBAY'S SECOND DAY OF RIOTING.

ALL DUE TO ILL-TREATMENT OF A DOG.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BOMBAY, Tuesday.

The Bombay Government has issued a communiqué giving the following true story of the events leading to the firing which occurred last night and this morning in the Bhendi Bazaar. A European police sergeant saw a Mohammedan cruelly beating a dog with a loaded stick near the Sandhurst road police officers' quarters. He remonstrated with the Mohammedan, and eventually struck him with his fist.

The man went off, but soon came back with a number of associates, who assaulted the sergeant. The officer managed to get away in a motor car to Dongri Police Station.

Meanwhile his assailants began stoning the police quarters, creating the disturbance which led to the firing.

FIRE OPENED MANY TIMES.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
BOMBAY, Tuesday.

Up to the time of telegraphing, three persons have been killed, 53 injured by gunshot, and 16 injured by stones and sticks, in the rioting which broke out here last night. Among those detained in hospital are two police sub-inspectors and 11 constables.

The disturbed area was the Moslem quarter, of which the centre, roughly speaking, is Pydhoni, which is situated at the junction of Abdul Rahman street and Parel road. The police were compelled to fire several times, and early this morning British troops were called out. The situation continued tense all day, and the police had twice again to fire.

RIOTERS WITH SLINGS.

The trouble which has thus suddenly flared up has been distinguished by several

SLIGHT ILLNESS OF THE KING.

RHEUMATIC ATTACK.

NOT OF A SERIOUS NATURE.

The King is suffering from an attack of rheumatism, and, therefore, did not attend the third Court of the season, which was held at Buckingham Palace last night. It is expected, however, that His Majesty will be able to keep his other engagements within the next few days.

The latest news obtainable last night stated that the King is making satisfactory progress.

The following official announcement was issued from Buckingham Palace yesterday:—

"For some days past the King has been suffering from painful, though localised, rheumatism of the right hip. His Majesty has been advised not to be present at the Courts to-night and to-morrow, but hopes to be able to fulfil his engagements later in the week."

ATTACK NOT SERIOUS.

The Press Association learns, on excellent authority, that the trouble is not of a serious nature. It has no connection with the King's recent illness, but is largely due to the recent damp weather. The King, contrary to his usual custom, was not present at Morning Service in the Palace Chapel on Sunday last.

No bulletin is being issued.

Lord Dawson, the King's doctor, saw His Majesty yesterday.

Apart from the Courts, the King is following his normal routine. He received yesterday Sir William Peyton, who has relinquished the Scottish Command.

GOOD PROGRESS.

The Press Association learned last night that the King's condition is satisfactory, and that the rheumatic trouble is abating. It is understood that the King is receiving massage treatment.

During the afternoon His Majesty went out into the Palace gardens, and sat for some time in the sunshine. Later in the afternoon Sir Stanley Hewett, Surgeon Apothecary to the King, called at the Palace.

THE THIRD COURT.

THE PRINCE OF WALES ESCORTS THE QUEEN.

Although the absence of the King cast a shadow over it, the third Court of the season, held by the Queen at Buckingham Palace last night, was a brilliant function. The Queen walked from the Royal apartments to the gold and scarlet ballroom with the Prince of Wales, who wore the scarlet uniform of Colonel of the Welsh Guards.

As the Royal procession, preceded by the Lord Chamberlain and his officers, walking backwards, reached the dais at the end of the great room, the Prince handed the Queen up the steps, and she took her seat alone on the throne, under the golden canopy of State.

She wore a magnificent gown of gold brocade, embroidered in gold and coloured stones, with diamante. Her train was of fine Indian cloth of gold, with an over-all embroidered design of gold and coloured stones. Her coronet was of emeralds and diamonds, and she wore a necklace of the same stones, with ornaments of emeralds and diamonds, including the famous carved Indian emerald presented to her when she visited India with the King. Across her corsage was the blue riband of the Garter.

THE ROYAL CIRCLE.

Behind the Queen in the Royal circle were the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Prince George, Princess Mary, the Earl of Harewood, Princess Helena Victoria and Princess Marie Louise.

As the long stream of débutantes filed slowly past the throne to make their single curtsey to the Queen, the scene recalled the Courts held last year, in gloomier circumstances, when the King was still recuperating after his long illness. Last night, however, there was no atmosphere of anxiety or concern to mar the occasion. Court officials were able to assure the guests that the King was suffering merely from a slight attack of rheumatism, which prevented him from undergoing the strain of sitting in the same position, and bowing repeatedly for two hours.

Hydrangeas, in soft pastel pink shades, and other summer flowers decorated all the State rooms, and in the music room the string band of the Welsh Guards played.

EIGHT HUNDRED GUESTS.

Over eight hundred guests thronged the reception rooms, but the presentations were over sooner than usual, as each débutante had to make only one reverence.

The King's bodyguard of the Yeomen of the Guard and the Honourable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms were on duty in the State saloons.

It was 9.30 when the Lord Chamberlain announced the name of the first débutante, and the presentations continued for nearly two hours.

SOME DRESSES.

Among the dresses were the following:—The Countess of Bective—A lace gown on classic lines of tea rose parchment tint, the design being hand-embroidered, with graduated tinted pearls; a train of lace with similar embroidery. Lady Blanche Girouard—A dress and train of heavy white georgette, trimmed with a wide ruching of the same material. Kathleen Countess of Drogheda—A gown of gold lamé, with a train made in one with the dress. Lady Patricia Moore—A gown of white marquisette, embroidered with diamanté; a train embroidered with diamanté. Mrs. Curran—A gown of silver lace over a double slip of grey chiffon and pastel blue crêpe-de-chine; a train of blue and silver brocade. Mrs. Guy Kynaston Cross—A gown of parchment panné velvet; a train of old Brussels lace. Miss Aline and Miss Joan Dupen—Gowns of white mousseline de soie over faille; trains of cloth of silver. Mrs. N. O'Neill—A gown of pink chiffon, with strappings of satin; a train of satin lined with chiffon, and finished across one corner with satin roses.

A PALESTINE MURDER.

IRISH POLICE SERGEANT SHOT DEAD.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JERUSALEM, Tuesday.

Sergeant William Singleton, of Lisburn, County Antrim, belonging to the British section of the Palestine police, was murdered last night at the Haifa end of Acre Bay, according to a Jewish telegraphic agency despatch.

Sergeant Singleton, who came originally from the Royal Irish Constabulary, was one of the oldest members of the British Palestine Force. Sergeant Singleton was, it is learned, accompanying a Jewish girl, when he was accosted by a stranger, who called him a Jew. On his way back the stranger shot him dead. The murderer has not so far been traced. The police authorities do not attribute the crime to any political motive.

BISHOP OF CREDITON ILL.

News reached Exeter yesterday that the Suffragan Bishop of Crediton, Dr. Trefusis, who is retiring this year, is lying seriously ill at Instow, North Devon. Dr. Trefusis, who is eighty-seven years old, has held the Bishopric of Crediton for thirty-three years.

LONDON NAVAL TREATY.

HOSTILE ATTITUDE IN UNITED STATES.

ADMIRALS' VIEWS AT INQUIRY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Tuesday.

Senator Borah still anticipates that a report will be made to the Senate this week in favour of the London Naval Treaty.

The Foreign Relations and Naval Committees listened to further criticism of the pact to-day.

Rear-Admiral Ridley McLean, speaking before the Naval Committee, expressed disappointment that "we have granted Japan parity in submarines." He added that he believed that, as far as comparison with the British Navy was concerned, the agreement was advantageous to the United States, but the situation with regard to the Japanese Navy was different.

Testifying before the Foreign Relations Committee, Rear-Admiral W. H. Standley, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, said that if it were left to him he would build nothing but 8-inch gun cruisers, while Captain J. R. Tausig described these vessels as "by far the best ships in our Navy."

Rear-Admiral H. A. Wiley, in expressing similar views, said: "We shall have to go out of business by and by. We have had too much conference."

Rear-Admiral M. Taylor also joined the ranks of those who oppose the Treaty.

Mr. H. W. Johnson, senator for California, who has indicated that he will oppose the Treaty, said that he hoped that the hearings would be concluded on Thursday.

REPARATION LOAN.

PROTECTING LONDON MARKET ISSUES.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, questioned in the House of Commons yesterday as to the Reparation Loan under the Young Plan, said that the detailed conditions as to the issue were still under discussion with representatives of the Governments and banks concerned, and he could not yet say what the precise form of the bonds would be, but he had made it clear to the British representatives that he could not agree to any modification of the provisions included in the Expert's Plan, with a view to the protection of the interests of the London market. In particular he would object to any arrangement under which either principal or interest on the bonds of the foreign issues was payable at the option of the holders in sterling at par of the exchange. Subject to this, the terms of the bonds would have to be settled by agreement consistently with the Plan.

"It would not have been possible," Mr. Snowden added, "to ensure the success of the Loan if no issue had taken place in London, and I do not think it would have been reasonable or consistent with the position of London as a financial centre to refuse an issue in London, provided that it is subject to the condition that the proceeds shall be payable to the British Exchequer."

THE EXPORT OF GOLD.

Sir Nicholas Grattan Doyle (Conservative, Newcastle) asked whether Mr. Snowden would bear in mind the recent tendency of non-British countries to absorb gold from this country.

"At a critical time," said Sir Nicholas, "a very dangerous situation may arise."

Mr. Snowden—That matter has certainly been in our minds in considering what the conditions should be.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans (Conservative, St. George's)—Can the Chancellor of the Exchequer say whether it is true that the amount to be issued in London has been fixed at £10,000,000.

Mr. Snowden—No, I cannot.

THE McKENNA DUTIES.

Asked by Viscount Wolmer (Conservative, Aldershot) whether he would indicate with more precision the Government's policy as to the McKenna Duties, Mr. Snowden replied that that policy had been clearly stated on many occasions. (Ministerial cheers.)

"Did not the Chancellor of the Exchequer hear the Lord Privy Seal say," asked Lord Wolmer, "that unemployment had been largely aggravated by the uncertainty prevailing in this matter?"

Mr. Snowden—No.

FREE STATE BAN ON LABOUR WEEKLY.

PROHIBITION TO LAST FOR THREE MONTHS.

Iris Oifigiuil, formerly known as the Dublin Gazette, announces that, acting on a report of the Censorship of Publications Board, the Free State Minister for Justice has prohibited the sale and distribution in the Irish Free State from this date of the New Leader.

It is stated in Iris Oifigiuil that the Censorship Board, in a report dated May 16th, stated "that, in the opinion of the Board, the several issues recently theretofore published of the periodical publication which is the subject of such report . . . have advocated the unnatural prevention of conception, and should for that reason be banned."

The New Leader is a weekly paper, with which is incorporated the Labour Leader and Lansbury's Labour Weekly. It is described as a Socialist journal, and is published by the New Leader, Ltd., 14 Great George street, London, S.W. 1. It is also described as the "official organ of the Independent Labour Party."

This is the second weekly paper to be prohibited, and it is announced that, "under Section 7, Sub-section 5, of the Censorship of Publications Act, 1929, this Order, being the first Prohibition Order made in respect of the above-mentioned periodical publication, will continue in force, unless previously revoked, for three months from the date of publication in Iris Oifigiuil and will then expire."

RAINING DOLLAR NOTES.

SHOWER FALLS IN NEW YORK STREET.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Tuesday.

A shower of thousand dollar notes rained down upon passers-by in one of the streets near the Grand Central Station, one of the most crowded parts of New York, this morning. Sixteen thousand dollar notes and eighteen five hundred dollar notes were retrieved by the police from the roofs of nearby houses and gutters.

Detectives were engaged on the nineteenth floor of a big hotel in effecting the arrest of four men and one woman, who are alleged to be jewel thieves, and when they burst into the room one of the occupants threw the notes out of the window. Three hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewellery was found by the police in the room.

MISS JOHNSON'S PROGRESS.

GREAT WELCOME AT LONGREACH.

A BROADCAST TALK.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SYDNEY, Wednesday.

Miss Amy Johnson arrived at Longreach, Queensland, at 5.33 on Tuesday evening, and is to-day proceeding to Roma, Queensland, via Charleville.

The Post Office announces that special arrangements have been made to enable the girl-flyer to talk to the people of Australia in a broadcast from Roma at 7.30 this evening. The talk will be relayed by land line to all the Australian capitals, and thence it will be broadcast from all "A" class stations.

In an interview, Miss Johnson said that she thanked the whole of Australia from the bottom of her heart—the welcome had been so hearty. "I am thrilled," she said, and added that she felt quite at home. The people's solicitude for her was most touching.

Motor cars were arriving at Longreach throughout Monday night to join in welcoming the flyer, and the crowd was the greatest ever seen in Western Queensland.

Roma, situated in Waldegrave County, Queensland, is some 350 miles to the south-east of Longreach, Cumberland County. It is on the direct route to Brisbane, the Queensland capital, which presumably will be Miss Johnson's next stopping place. At Brisbane she is to be the guest of the Governor, Lieutenant-General Sir John Goodwin.

DATE OF MISS JOHNSON'S RETURN.

Miss Amy Johnson's father and mother called at the Air Ministry yesterday and had an interview with Mr. F. Montague, the Under-Secretary of State, and Sir Sefton Brancker, the Director of Civil Aviation. It is understood that Miss Amy Johnson is returning by boat to Marseilles about the end of July, and that she intends to complete the rest of the journey home by air from Marseilles to Croydon.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL KILLED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
COLORADO SPRINGS, Tuesday.

A seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Margaret Ferguson, one of the youngest girls in the United States to hold a private pilot's licence, crashed to-day and was killed.

MR. BALDWIN AND TARIFFS.

THE WOODEN BOW AND ARROW.

Mr. Baldwin, addressing a great gathering at Bury, Lancashire, last night, said: "At the last election I made what I thought powerful appeals all over the country, and I lost seat after seat—(laughter)—but I am not dismayed, and I have come back again."

Referring to safeguarding, Mr. Baldwin said: "I have always regarded these matters of tariffs as a matter of expediency and not of principle. But I have always admitted that the United States and the Continent of Europe in recent years have carried their protective systems to a height that is making it much more difficult to conduct trade as between one nation and another. 'What have we ever done with these constantly-rising tariffs, but protest? What can this Government do?—nothing.

"The President of the Board of Trade has been to Geneva, and has signed an agreement by which he undertakes not to improve his little weapon of wooden bow and arrow, if those countries which use machine guns will kindly go on using them, and not build bigger ones. That is perfectly ridiculous. People will not listen to you if you have no power behind you.

THE BARGAINING FACTOR.

"If we can go and say to them: 'If you do not give us more favourable terms, we will put a swinging duty on the best market you have'; that is the only way you can make them understand. I firmly believe that if we had that power to negotiate. We might live to see—never an abolition of tariffs, because that system is a natural system to many of those foreign countries, but a real reduction and a more reasonable tariff which would mean freer trade for the world at large.

"The economic union of the Empire, at which we all aim and which may take a generation or more to bring about, will mean Empire markets for Empire goods, and the Imperial Dominions are only yet at the beginning of the glorious future which awaits them. There is also India—and India at present is going through a very difficult time. Do not let us lose our patience with India, and let us have every faith in our own men who are ruling that country along the path predestined for her. (Cheers.) We must have complete co-operation with all parts of the Empire, remembering that India is a part, and as she lives up to her aspirations she must take upon herself the duties as well as the rights of a Dominion; and the duties are to pull together in unity against the whole world."

NOTTINGHAM ELECTION.

THE SAFEGUARDING DUTIES.

Polling took place in the Nottingham Central by-election yesterday, and the result is expected to be known at about noon to day.

The vacancy had been caused by the resignation of Sir Albert Bennett, who had been Conservative member for the division since 1924. The candidates are Mr. A. E. Waterson (Labour), Mr. T. J. O'Connor, K.C. (Conservative), and Captain R. C. Berkeley (Liberal).

Generally speaking, the day was quiet and uneventful. The young women from the lace factories gave a touch of colour to the occasion. Many of them were arrayed in becoming lace frocks and lace hats, a reminder that the issue was the safeguarding duties. Yards of lace were used in the decoration of Conservative cars, and one or two of the Conservative committee rooms resembled drapery stores.

CALCUTTA SWEEP.

NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND TOTAL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CALCUTTA, Tuesday.

The total pool in the Calcutta Sweep amounts to one crore twenty lakhs of rupees (£900,000). It is understood that after the deduction of the expenses of the Calcutta Turf Club the first prize will be £388,000, which, according to the custom in recent years, will be divided into three first prizes, each amounting to about £129,000. Those who draw starters will get about £800. The drop in the amount of the prizes, as compared with last year, is understood to be due to more stringent regulations in regard to the allotment of numbers.

The Central Savings Committee announce that during the week ended May 24 68,676 Savings Certificates were sold, making a grand total sold to date of 8,185,672 Certificates. At the same date the amount remaining to the credit of investors was £5,017,183. The gross sales represent an investment of £2 2s. 8d. per head of the population.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

UNEMPLOYMENT.

TO-NIGHT'S VOTE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

To-night's division in the House of Commons will undoubtedly be utilised for a display of Labour Party unity, remarks The Times of to-day editorially. Sir Oswald Mosley may do his best from a back bench to discredit Mr. Thomas's policy, which is that of the Government, but he will vote in the same lobby. The Government's fire must be directed, nevertheless, upon the benches behind them, not upon those opposite. They will be contending with the discouragement of their followers, not with the reminiscences of their opponents. Indeed, the attack from without will cause the Labour sections to draw together in ostentatious, if unconvinced, solidarity, and the Government seem likely to have the numerical support to give them the necessary vote of confidence. But when the Labour daily Press is apologetic, and falls back on the excuse that "the rise in unemployment proceeds from causes outside the control of any national Government whatsoever," and the Prime Minister himself has to make shift with the plea that, since the Labour Government took office, "unemployment has taken a totally different character," the ground of the Government's defence must be very shaky.

Not on account of any Government or any Government policy, but because of great world economic disturbance, our export industries (said Mr. Macdonald at Seaham Harbour on Monday) are swelling the ranks of the unemployed. But what has changed is the degree, not the essential nature of the economic disturbance in the world. The intensity of unemployment has always been, as it is now, in the exporting industries. Unemployment has the same character to-day as it had when the Unionist Government was in office. What has essentially changed is the Labour Government's opinion of the problem. In office they disclaim the responsibility which in Opposition they attributed to their predecessors.

GOVERNMENT AND UNEMPLOYED.

It was suggested in some quarters yesterday morning that the Prime Minister had taken over the chairmanship of the Cabinet Committee on Unemployment as a sequel to the resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley and the meeting of the Parliamentary Labour Party last week, says The Times to-day. That, however, is not the case. All that Mr. Macdonald has agreed to do is to meet the Ministers responsible for dealing with the question of unemployment, and to go through the whole position with them, in order to satisfy himself that the matter is being tackled in the most thorough and energetic way possible.

He took this step soon after his return to London yesterday, and it is expected that he will state the result of his investigation during the debate to-day on the motion to reduce the salary of the Lord Privy Seal. In the circumstances, it is not anticipated that the Prime Minister will have any important new declaration to make, though he may develop the point about co-operation between the political parties which he made in his speech in the Seaham Division on Monday night.

LORD DAVIDSON'S TOLERANCE.

TRIBUTES IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

In the House of Lords yesterday, Lord Parmoor, Leader of the House, referred to the loss which the country had sustained by the death of Archbishop Lord Davidson. He paid a tribute to Lord Davidson's far-seeing guidance, particularly as it was directed towards a spirit of conciliation. "In my opinion," he added, "I think that to the laity of the Anglican Church the late Archbishop was and will remain, an example of a great Archbishop—perhaps the greatest of modern times, and chiefly, perhaps, because he was endowed with a wise and far-seeing spirit, prudential and tolerant from its sense of sympathetic understanding, but rightly and strongly tenacious—this is not always appreciated—on matters which appeared to him to be fundamental matters of Christian principle."

From the Opposition Front Bench the Marquess of Salisbury said that the impression left upon his mind was that Lord Davidson was a man who was almost wholly selfless in his attitude towards public affairs. There did not appear to be any thought at all except for the public good; there was no bitterness; everything was for peace.

"His greatest title to the memory and affection of us all," said the Marquess, "was his efforts for conciliation—conciliation among Churchmen, among Christians, among his own countrymen, to whatever faith they belonged."

The Archbishop of Canterbury added his tribute to the memory of his predecessor. He spoke of Lord Davidson's devotion for the House of Lords, and said that it was to him not only a place of responsibility, but also of real recreation; it was a stimulus to him. "Perhaps," he added, "nothing gave him greater consolation in what was to him the great trial of his retirement than the fact that by His Majesy's gracious kindness he was permitted to the end of his life to remain a member of this House."

The Archbishop recalled that Lord Davidson was not a ready speaker in debate. Yet, listening to him, they could not but be impressed by his transparent honesty and integrity.

"His only desire," he went on, "was to speak truthfully what was in his mind, and to reach himself, and help others to reach, a right judgment in all that concerned the public weal. "I have never known a man in whom there was combined a more exalted sense of the responsibility of his office and a more humble sense of himself."

Earl Beauchamp, the Liberal leader, also paid a tribute to Lord Davidson's profound modesty and humility. "There was nobody less assuming than he," he added, "or more ready to learn from those whom he met."

THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Further details of the arrangements in connection with the funeral of Archbishop Davidson have now been decided. As the body is borne towards Canterbury on Thursday evening a muffled peal will be rung on the Cathedral bells. The members of the City Corporation will meet the funeral party at the historic Westgate Tower, and among others accompanying them will be the city clergy, the ministers of the Free Churches, the Salvation Army, the representatives of the Canterbury Poor Law Institution (in which the late Archbishop and Mrs. Davidson took a great interest), the students of St. Augustine's Missionary College, the St. John Ambulance Brigade, and members of the local Friendly Societies, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts.

The Dean and Chapter have invited members of the public to be present in the Cathedral Nave on Thursday evening, and request that they should take their places between 8 and 9 o'clock.

The cortège, after entering the West door, will pass through the nave into the crypt, and on to the Chapel of Our Lady. Here the Dean of Canterbury—Dr. H. R. L. Sheppard—will conduct a short Service. Throughout the night the cathedral canons, parochial clergy and friends will act as watchers. At 8 o'clock on Friday morning the Archbishop of Canterbury will be the celebrant at Holy Communion.

Among those who are attending the funeral Service on Friday afternoon in the cathedral will be the Archbishop of York and Mrs. Temple, the Bishop of London, and several English and overseas bishops.

THE NORTHERN BUDGET.

HEAVY DEMANDS ON EXCHEQUER.

MINISTER WARNS LOCAL BODIES.

NEW COMMERCIAL MOTOR DUTIES.

In the Northern House of Commons yesterday the Minister of Finance (Right Hon. H. M. Pollock) presented his ninth annual Budget statement.

He referred to the growing cost of the social services, which are maintained in Northern Ireland upon the same scale as in Great Britain, and for the coming year will cost over four millions sterling.

The imperial contribution from Northern Ireland last year was £874,000, subject to adjustment by the Joint Exchequer Board. The contribution for the coming year is reduced to £150,000. When the Northern Parliament was established the contribution was fixed provisionally at £8,000,000 per annum.

A feature of last year's revenue was the decline in spirit duty.

OVER A MILLION FOR DE-RATING.

The cost of de-rating in Northern Ireland in the coming year will be £1,112,000. Grants to local authorities now amount to £1,400,000.

Although the standard rate of income tax is 1s. 6d. less in the Free State, Mr. Pollock contended that, with the allowances on earned income, the middle-class population in Northern Ireland have the advantage, notwithstanding the increase of 6d. in the £ in income tax. The higher income tax would produce in Northern Ireland an extra £225,000 this year.

Beer duty and estate duty will be increased on the same basis as imposed in Mr. Snowden's Budget.

COMMERCIAL MOTOR DUTIES.

Mr. Pollock outlined certain changes in commercial motor duties of advantage to small van-owners. Drivers' licences are to be increased from 5s. to 10s. The tax upon taxi-cabs is to be reduced from £12 to £10. The scale for motor cycles is also varied. The changes would augment the Road Fund by £43,000.

A surplus of £3,000 was estimated at the end of the year.

Mr. Pollock issued a grave warning to local authorities that, as the financial position of the State had reached the verge of danger, they must rely upon their own resources for any further expenditure.

SOCIAL SERVICES.

A GROWING COST.

Speaking of the growing cost of social services, Mr. Pollock said:—"Whether the result of our labours will be found to be commensurate with the expenditure of money and effort involved, time alone will show, but we can at any rate claim that the standards of our physical, social and educational life have been raised far beyond anything to which previous generations were accustomed.

"The workman has not only secured free education for his children, but he is also insured against ill-health, unemployment, accidents, old age, blindness, and, in addition, provision is made for his widow and orphans. It can be definitely affirmed that no comparable advantages are found in any country in the world."

INCREASES AND DECREASES.

The Minister further stated that the old debt of the Unemployment Insurance Fund, which amounted to £3,424,000, had been reduced by £100,000.

The total expenditure of last year amounted to £11,109,000, against a Budget estimate of £10,712,000.

Last year's transferred taxes for the imposition and collection of which the Parliament was responsible yielded £1,534,000, against an estimate of £1,445,000, an increase of £89,000 over the estimate.

Motor duties accounted for the increase to a small extent, they yielding £467,000 against £440,000 estimated.

Stamp duties fell £50,000 below estimate.

Death duties were £104,000 in excess of the estimate of £600,000.

Entertainment duty receipts were £65,000.

On the reserved tax side, Customs and Excise amount to £3,970,000, or £100,000 over estimate.

Intoxicating liquors yielded what was estimated. Oils failed by £23,000 to reach the estimate of £280,000, while tobacco exceeded the estimated revenue by £130,000.

In 1923 spirits produced £1,611,000. Last year the figure was £1,084,000.

"I would commend these figures to ardent temperance advocates, and suggest that some approach to accuracy in their statistics would be desirable," added the Minister of Finance.

In all the reserved taxes yielded £7,035,000, and together with the transferred taxes, provided a total tax revenue of £8,569,000.

THE SUPPLY SERVICES.

The estimated requirements of the Government for ordinary Supply services were proved by the experience of the year, he said, to have been, on the whole, accurate. The chief discrepancy occurs in the estimates for the Ministry of Labour, where the actual requirements proved to be almost £200,000 below the total anticipated. The explanation of this is to be found in the working of the Unemployment Insurance Fund (Equalisation) Agreement with Great Britain. Under that agreement the condition of our Unemployment Fund is to be kept in parity with the British Fund by grants from our Exchequer, proportion of which is ultimately borne by the British Exchequer. Accordingly, hon. members will see that, if unemployment in Great Britain is very light while it may, perhaps, be heavy here, the sum required to equalise the two funds will be correspondingly great.

The estimates were based on the assumption that during the year unemployment in Northern Ireland would be much

WHEN NORTH WENT SOUTH.

BELFAST MEN'S VISIT TO CORK.

PLEASANT MEMORIES.

Members of the Belfast Harbour Board who recently visited Cork, on the invitation of the Cork Harbour Commissioners, are delighted with the welcome that they received, and are much impressed with the many signs of prosperity which they observed in Cork, and also the potentialities of its wonderful waterway.

When I interviewed members of the delegation, says our Belfast Correspondent, at the conclusion of a meeting of the Finance Committee in the Harbour Office, I found them all loud in their praise of the great hospitality and the geniality of the Cork people whom they met during their visit.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

In a statement made to me in the presence of a number of other members of the deputation, the Chairman, Mr. R. E. Herdman, D.L., said:—I am sure it would be the wish of all those who were there to express our appreciation of the great welcome which we received at Cork. We were almost overcome by the very hearty welcome we received, and also by the very friendly spirit which was exhibited by everyone with whom we came in contact during our visit. When our train arrived at Mallow we were met by the Chairman of the Cork Harbour Commissioners, Mr. Richard Wallace; the Lord Mayor of Cork, Mr. Sean French, and other members of the Harbour Board, who travelled up to Mallow to welcome us and conduct the party to Cork.

After an informal reception at the Harbour Office, we went down on a steamer to visit one or two points on the River Lee, and also we visited Queenstown. All of the members of the deputation were delighted and much impressed with the beautiful scenery of the harbour for its entire length. In passing we had an opportunity of seeing the important reclamation works which are taking place at the harbour.

THE FORD WORKS.

Continuing, the Chairman said that they had an opportunity of seeing the wonderful works established by Mr. Ford, where the celebrated Fordson tractors were manufactured for all parts of the world, together with castings and other parts of Ford cars for the British and other markets.

If other men of Irish birth were prompted to keep the land of their forefathers, it would do more than anything else to bring back prosperity to this country, said Mr. Herdman.

In the evening, proceeded the Chairman, we attended a banquet attended by over 150 guests, and it was a great pleasure to us to meet the leading citizens of Cork, members of the Navy, and the Irish Free State Army, together with members of other harbour authorities. This function was really excellent, and was greatly enjoyed by all who had the privilege of being present.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY.

On the following day the delegates were taken by motor cars to the Lakes of Killarney and other beauty spots in the vicinity, including Glengarriff and Parknasilla. Some members of the delegation had visited the district before, and were acquainted with the exquisite charms, but those who were visiting it for the first time were surprised and delighted with the gorgeous scenery through which they passed, and I may add we had beautiful weather and brilliant sunshine during the visit, so that we saw the whole district at its best.

Cork and the vicinity have two great natural advantages—its wonderful harbour and its unsurpassed scenery, and we are glad to see that the people of Cork, with the co-operation of the Irish Tourist Association, intend to make the most of both these advantages.

PLEASANT MEMORIES.

We have the pleasantest memories of the trip and the generous treatment and hospitality which we received everywhere during our visit. As a board interested only in the development of trade and commerce, and not concerned in political matters, I am of the opinion that a visit such as we have just paid to Cork, and the opportunity which it afforded us of meeting those engaged in similar work as our own harbour authority will do much to develop trade and commerce, to the mutual advantage of North and South. The Belfast Harbour Board, at its next meeting, will take the opportunity of expressing our thanks and deep appreciation of all that was done for our pleasure and comfort by the Cork Harbour Commissioners during our visit.

Sir Robert Baird, Sir Frederick Cleaver, Mr. Mitchell and other members of the board joined in expressing their appreciation of the kindness and hospitality shown to the delegation during their trip. They also referred to the great future which they believed lay before Ireland, both North and South, in development of the tourist traffic.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

It is to the interest of both parts of Ireland, said the chairman, to encourage visitors to our country. When they come North and have seen all we can show them, we are delighted to pass them on to the South, and we are always glad to have visitors, who have seen the beauties of the South, inspect the many attractions we can offer them in the North. There are many excellent hotels in Cork, and at Killarney, Parknasilla and other places in the South, and we were glad to see that there is a movement in the South, as there is in the North, to improve the hotel accommodation and facilities generally for visitors. Ireland ought to attract as many visitors as Scotland, and I believe that when we have a chain of hotels, as they have in Scotland, opening up to visitors, and particularly motoring visitors, the more remote districts, this will be possible.

Mr. Mitchell and other members of the Board urged that easier and quicker facilities should be afforded on both sides of the border for bona fide tourists visiting Ireland with motor cars, and who desired to see the whole country. They held that the present arrangements were too cumbersome, and caused too much delay.

Members of the Board expressed the hope that it might be possible on some future occasion to have a further meeting of representatives of all the Irish harbour authorities. They were of the opinion that such an opportunity might arise in connection with the new dock which is now under construction in Belfast.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

FINANCE BILL IN COMMITTEE.

THE BEER DUTIES.

(From Our Parliamentary Correspondent.)

WESTMINSTER, Tuesday.

The debate in Committee of the House of Commons on the Finance Bill opened brightly enough, with an amendment moved by Sir Ernest Shepperson, to reduce the Excise duty on beer from £5 3s. to £4 per standard barrel. He then proceeded to solicit the support of Labour members for his amendment in the interests of the British working man, who was paying an excessive price for his glass of beer. The public, he said, now paid twopence and five-eighths of a penny as Excise duty on every pint of beer, and the question arose whether beer was to be considered as a necessity or a luxury.

A Labour member—It is a boon. (Laughter.)

Sir Ernest said that personally he regarded it as a stimulant, but to the manual worker it was a necessity. He was not himself a beer drinker, as any man who led a sedentary life would not dare to drink beer if he had any regard for his figure. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Snowden said that the reduction now proposed could not, except in a very small number of cases, be passed on to the consumer. The only result would be to increase the profits of the brewers. His principal objection to the amendment was that it would cost £20,000,000, and that amount he could not afford to sacrifice.

Mr. Macquisten suggested an abstention tax of £7 or £8 a year, so as to level up non-consumers with the taxation paid by beer drinkers. (Laughter.)

The closure then was moved, and the amendment was rejected by 281 votes to 1[illegible].

INDIAN UNREST.

curious features. Both the police and military were attacked by men throwing large stones with slings at long range, a practice which is apparently a novelty in street fighting here.

When the riot became serious both Congress and Khilafat organisations took an active part, removing the injured to hospital and regulating traffic in the affected areas. The Congress Red Cross organisations are reported to be working efficiently, and the newly-opened Congress camp hospital is being kept busy.

A number of taxi-cabs have been engaged to carry stretchers, and Red Cross workers and some motor cars display the Congress and Khilafat flags side by side.

TROOPS CALLED OUT.

Detachments of the East Lancashire Regiment, accompanied by magistrates, are still stationed at different points in the city.

Instances are reported of hostility towards Europeans, of which the gravest case is that of the son of Major Byrne, resident medical officer at the Jansetji Jeejeebhoy Hospital. Mr. Byrne was driving a car when he was mobbed by a crowd and severely beaten, and his car set on fire. Mr. Byrne escaped with injuries, which are not regarded as serious, but the motor car was destroyed.

ON THE NORTH-WEST FRONTIER.

FUNERAL OF MR. D. B. MURPHY.

From "The Times" Special Correspondent.

PESHAWAR, Tuesday.

Pandit Malaviya made an unsuccessful attempt to defy the Chief Commissioner's orders forbidding his entry into the North-West Frontier Province yesterday. To his obvious disgust, he was detected at Khairabad, the first station on this side of Attock Bridge, and, in spite of his protests, was ordered out of the train.

The Pandit returned to Campbellpur, where it is rumoured he has joined Mr. Patel in the preparation of the "unofficial inquiry" into the Peshawar disturbances. It is significant that no interest in this inquiry has so far manifested itself here; in fact, the Khilafat Committee is pointedly holding aloof.

Mr. Murphy, the Assistant Commissioner of Police, who was murdered by "Red Shirts" at Mardan on Sunday, was accorded a military funeral yesterday evening. Mr. Pears, Chief Commissioner of the province; General Godwin, commanding the district, and other senior civil and military officers were present.

DHARASANA, Tuesday.

The arrested leaders of the raids on the salt depot here, Mr. Ambalal Patel and Dr. Tribhuvandas, have declared a hunger strike, alleging that the food is inadequate.

The batch of twenty-five volunteers who were arrested at Dungagi Station, near Dharasana this afternoon, were subsequently released, with the exception of their leader.

PESHAWAR RIOTS INQUIRY.

OPPOSING VIEWS AS TO THE USE OF TROOPS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PESHAWAR, Tuesday.

Contrary views in regard to the need for the use of troops in quelling the disturbances here on April 23rd were expressed this morning at the resumed official enquiry that is being conducted by Sir Shah Muhammad Sulaiman, High Court Judge, and Mr. Panckridge, additional High Court Judge.

Mr. Metcalfe, Deputy Commissioner, said that he knew the extent of the bitterness that bloodshed causes in India, and decided to take armoured cars to the city only when the Assistant Superintendent of Police reported that he had been pelted with stones. On reaching the city he saw a moderate-sized mob in a most violently excited state. One of their number was brandishing an axe.

For the purpose of reconnoitring, witness entered the city in an armoured car, but on getting within stone-throwing range was met with a most fierce hail of stones and brickbats. As the car stopped one individual in the crowd commenced striking it with an axe. Witness said that he was certain that no one was injured by his car, as it went exceedingly slow, constantly sounded the hooter, and stopped when passage was impossible. The crowd made way owing to the moral effect of an armoured car.

He then saw a despatch rider, with a motor cycle, lying near another armoured car. He had the impression at the time that the man had been run over. He also saw the body of an Indian lying in the middle of the road.

DRASTIC ACTION NEEDED.

He made every effort to disperse the crowd, but the repulsing of the mounted police with sticks and stones, and also the attempt to snatch a pistol from the hands of Lieutenant Singh, convinced him that the situation demanded drastic action. While he was still considering how to communicate orders to the men in the armoured cars, witness was struck by a stone and lost consciousness. It was his considered opinion that the firing was necessary to save the situation, as well as to save lives and the property of the Government.

Sadda Illah Khan, City Magistrate, on the other hand, maintained that the crowd was perfectly non-violent in the beginning, and said that he repeatedly warned the authorities against the employment of the military, which, he told them, would create trouble. Witness did not see whether the Assistant Superintendent of Police was pelted with stones, and immediately the latter had gone to the cantonment he tried to get into touch with the Deputy Commissioner, in order to tell him not to be prejudiced by the statement of the Assistant Superintendent of Police, as there was no need of the military. The crowd, he said, had no sticks, and was melting away after the surrender of two Congressmen who were wanted by the police.

Soon afterwards Captain Cobb, Assistant Commissioner, arrived, and told him that armoured cars were outside the police station, and witness, going out, saw three of them and the bodies of two Indians that were lying in the road. The crowd shortly afterwards started throwing stones, and was subsequently fired upon twice.

THE BY-ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

FIANNA FAIL CANDIDATE HECKLED.

STORMY MEETING IN MULLINGAR.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MULLINGAR, Tuesday Night.

A meeting in support of the Fianna Fail candidate was held here to-night, Mr. M. J. Kennedy presiding. The attendance was large. The greater part of the speech of the candidate, Mr. James Geoghegan, was punctuated with interruptions.

Dr. O'Dowd, T.D., Roscommon, said that the question for the electors was not the personality of the candidates, but which policy they considered soundest and best for the country.

The speaker was referring to the pensions question, when some excitement was caused by Captain Henry A. P. Malone exclaiming, "What did you say or do when the ex-Service Men's Hall at Inchicore was blown up?"

The question was received with some cheers, and Dr. O'Dowd, replying, said: "Let Captain Malone put his question in writing and I will answer him." (Applause from Fianna Fail supporters, and cries of "You cannot answer; you do not want to, O'Dowd.")

When matters quietened, the speaker asked: "How was it that this was the only country among civilised white races that was cursed by declining population? Was it any wonder the country was not prosperous, where £350,000 a year was being paid in hard cash to captains, colonels and majors, many of whom never heard a shot fired."

A Voice—"Up, Captain Malone"; he earned it."

The Speaker—I am not mentioning individuals, but many of them never heard a shot fired and never saw a rifle in action.

INTERRUPTIONS.

Mr. Geoghegan, on coming forward to speak, was immediately interrupted by a man near the platform, who said:—Before you speak here, will you withdraw your statement that Mr. Shaw is a "liar and a hypocrite?" This was followed by an exciting incident. Voices could be heard shouting: "Up, Shaw," and "Answer that"; "Up, de Valera," and "Go on, Geoghegan."

Mr. Geoghegan was proceeding to speak when a voice shouted: "You are a turncoat."

The speaker continued to address jocular remarks to the chief interrupters, and excitement and interruptions continued for a considerable time.

Eventually Mr. Geoghegan said that he came there to fight corruption, and he placed the attack on bogus Army pensions in the forefront of his campaign.

A Voice—It's a lie.

The Speaker—Perhaps Captain Malone would keep that man quiet?

Mr. Geoghegan went on to say that he wanted it to be understood that he was not opposed to pensions to men who went out in 1922 and 1923 and actually endured hardship and faced danger, but he did object to men getting a pension who never handled a rifle and never went nearer to war than the back room of public-houses. (Interruptions and applause.)

Proceeding, the speaker said that he was almost sorry he left Cumann na nGaedheal, Captain Malone and Lord Longford, because it contains a lot of clever fellows. (Laughter, applause and interruption, and a man's voice, "How many men are you employing?")

Mr. Geoghegan said that he could tell them a lot about unemployment, and referred to the conditions in this matter in Dublin, with which he was familiar in an organisation which was able to give very material help to many people.

LAND ANNUITIES.

Proceeding, he referred to the question of land annuities, and said that he was not just laying down his own opinion. The opinion that this money was not properly paid out of the country was given by men well versed in historical matters, by men well versed in economics, and seven lawyers enjoying a large practice at the Irish Bar.

The speaker then said that he would refer to the demand made on him at the opening of his speech. "What I said in Longford is well known," he added, "and by every word I said I stand"

Proceeding, the speaker said that he had been carrying on the election for a week in a manner which had won praise for him from all quarters. He had not indulged in any personalities, and thus he did not mind; but when a man made a misstatement of fact about him he would get it back from him. (More interruptions and applause.)

Continuing, he said that at an earlier stage of the meeting he was called a deserter. It was true that, three years ago, when his stomach turned against Cumann na nGaedheal he left it.

A Voice—When you were not selected as a candidate.

When Parnell was doing great work for the people it was hurled at him that he wore the uniform of the Wicklow Militia, and he chucked it off; and he (Mr. Geoghegan) chucked off the coat of Cumann na nGaedheal. He also referred to Lord Edward FitzGerald, Senator Dowdall, and Patrick O'Maille, as well as Thomas O'Donnell, former member of the old Irish Party, and asked, "Were they to be called deserters?"

Mr. Geoghegan added that he had absolutely nothing to apologise for.

Voices—"Up Shaw," and a Voice, "He is not a turncoat, anyway."

The speaker referred to the statement made that he was introducing sectarianism. That was not so. What he spoke against was proslеytism and souperism.

MORE HECKLING.

Mr. Sean McEntee, who also was heckled said that it was stated that if Fianna Fail won this election it would create civil war. That was not so; it would be a warning to the Government that the people were tired of them, and they would have to go.

Mr. Frank Fahy, T.D., spoke at considerable length, dealing with de-rating and economic questions.

It was announced that Mr. de Valera would address a meeting in Mullingar next Monday.

THE LAND ANNUITIES.

FIANNA FAIL CANDIDATE'S VIEW.

MULLINGAR, Tuesday.

A largely attended meeting was held in Ballymore last night, which lasted from nine o'clock until after midnight. The principal speakers were:—Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C. (the candidate); Mr. Martin Corry, T.D., and Mr. G. Boland, T.D.

Mr. Geoghegan dealt with the land annuities question. He said that two people were mainly responsible for the blunder: Mr. Blythe, Minister for Finance, and Mr. Patrick Hogan, Minister for Agriculture. He paid a tribute to Mr. de Valera's wisdom in asking for the opinion of counsel in this matter. The result of this had been that in Donegal the Unionist minority on the County Council were satisfied as to the soundness of their legal claim to this money, and were pressing the Government to finance de-rating of agricultural land by this means.

This was eminently a case for the International Court which had been set up at Geneva, and he had advised that Britain could not establish a legal claim to this money, and it was for England to prove her claim by bringing the matter before this Court.

Speaking as a lawyer, he said that, if the finding of this Court was that England had a legal claim to this money, he would then be forced to say that they were beaten; but until then he claimed the money was Ireland's and should be held here.

At FERMOY District Court, John Kelly, labourer, at Grange, Fermoy, was fined £4 and £1 expenses for cruelty to three sheep by kicking them and throwing them over a fence. The evidence showed that the sheep were trespassing on adjoining land, which Kelly was caretaking. Two sheep were lying in the field and the third one was thrown over the fence into the land of Thomas Walsh, to whom the sheep belonged. Two sheep were dead and the third was injured. The defence was a denial of any injury, and that a vicious dog, which the defendant Kelly had with him, attacked the animals and chased them around the field until they were prostrate. Justice Farrell said that he would have no hesitation in sending Kelly to jail without the option of a fine only that he was married and had four young children.

THE IRISH GRAND PRIX.

IMPROVED FACILITIES FOR THE PUBLIC.

BETTER VIEW OF THE COURSE.

In order that as many people as possible may be afforded an opportunity of viewing the second Irish International Grand Prix Motor Races in the Phœnix Park, Dublin, on July 18th and 19th next, the Committee of the Royal Irish Automobile Club has decided that the races shall start each day at 2.30 p.m., instead of at 1.30, as last year. The races, therefore, will not finish until about 7 o'clock in the evening.

This alteration should be of considerable convenience to those persons who find themselves unable to leave their offices or business premises as early as 1 o'clock—they will be enabled to see the race at its height during the late afternoon of each day, and the Committe hope that business houses and offices will accordingly grant facilities to their employés to view the events.

In a statement issued yesterday the Committee state that, in connection with the organisation of the race, it has been possible to effect several alterations which should make the event more attractive, and which, it is hoped, will be of great convenience to the public who attend it.

The grand stand enclosure and pit enclosure will, it is stated, be in the same position as last year, but the grand stand will only accommodate 2,000 persons instead of 3,000. By curtailing the width of the grand stand enclosure, however, a broad passage-way has been left, through which the public will be free to pass unrestricted from one end of the straight, at the Gough corner, to the other, at Mountjoy corner. By curtailing the length of the grand stand and pit enclosure by about twenty yards, the subway under the road, which last year was included in the enclosure, is now outside it and free to the public. The subway will be open to the public at all times during the race, and will enable spectators to pass from the outside of the course to the inside, and vice versa.

Additional enclosures are being provided near the Gough corner and at Mountjoy corner, and each of these will have a raised, inclined platform, upon which spectators may stand in order to view the cars as they come round the corners. At both these enclosures, as well as at the grand stand, there will be a separate loud speaker equipment; these information stations will be kept informed of the progress of the race by telephone from the central information bureau, and will give the information to the public. At these points there will also be scoring boards showing the leaders from time to time. Another innovation is that of a combined ticket, which will admit to the Gough enclosure, grand stand enclosure, and Mountjoy enclosure, and which will also include entrance to the Park.

A re-arrangement of the fencing allows a larger frontage to the general public. For the purpose of viewing the cars rounding Gough and Mountjoy corners. The general arrangements in regard to traffic, etc., will be the same as last year.

Referring to the fact that last year some persons were under the impression that once they entered the Park they could not leave it until the race was over, the Committee state that they would like it should be clearly understood that persons may enter the Park or leave it at any time while the race is in progress. Furthermore, persons who are in the interior of the course may at any time leave it while the race is in progress by means of the subway.

GERMAN OATS IN DUBLIN.

WHY THEY HAVE BEEN IMPORTED.

For the first time since 1913, a cargo of German oats has arrived in Dublin and is being discharged at the North Wall. It is consigned to a well-known Dublin firm, in the oat trade, and it is understood that two further cargoes will be delivered shortly. Another cargo is being discharged in Belfast.

The cargo at the North Wall has been sold out, and is being delivered to places principally in the Midlands, for the feeding of cattle, horses and fowl.

The reason for the importation of German oats, the Irish Times has ascertained, is that they are cheaper than the Irish oats, even though the Irish oats now are selling at prices below pre-war figures. The comparative figures of the market prices of German and Irish oats in the Dublin market are 11s. 6d. per barrel for German white oats of first quality, and 13s. for Irish white oats of the same quality.

It is further learned that the reason why the German oats, despite the cost of freightage, can be sold cheaper than the very low-priced Irish oats, is that they are subsidised by the German Government to the extent of 8s. per barrel.

The Irish Times also understands that there is a surplus of home-grown oats.

IMPORTED GERMAN OATS.

PROTEST AT WICKLOW COUNTY COUNCIL.

"It is the most disgraceful thing I ever have heard. You close your eyes to seed oats coming from Scotland, but I never knew of Scottish oats coming into our racing stables, because there are no better oats in the world than the Irish oats, and that is one of the reasons why our Irish racehorses are so good."

This statement was made by Mr. D. Frame at Wicklow County Council, when Mr. D. H. Haskins, a merchant and farmer, called attention to the fact that German oats were being imported. Mr. Haskins said that one cargo had been distributed, and another of 20,000 to 40,000 barrels was due to arrive in Dublin, while scores of thousands of tons of Irish oats of the finest quality lay rotting in the lofts. It meant that the Irish merchants would not touch oats at all next season, and it was for the farmers to act. If the Government did not protect them, the farmers should establish committees all over Ireland to deal with the matter. One buyer for the racing stables had stated that the highest price he would give for Irish oats was 10s. 3d. at Dublin, because he was getting the finest German oats.

The Chairman (Mr. C. M. Byrne) said that American bacon, Australian and Danish butter—everything was being dumped on them by countries highly protected themselves.

Mr. Fleming said that they were themselves to blame. They should protest in the strongest possible manner against this monstrosity.

Mr. J. Everett, T.D. (Lab.), promised all the support he could give to the motion; for he fully realised that if agriculture went down in the country Labour went with it. What was the use of talking merely of German oats unless the Government put the Irish farmer in the same position as the Germans were placed towards the British market? They should sink all differences and help the one industry left in the country—agriculture.

A resolution was adopted unanimously directing the Government's attention to the import of German oats and demanding immediate action for the safeguarding of the Irish agriculturist.

The Council also adopted a resolution requesting the Irish Tourist Association to urge the hotels to have Irish produce on their tables, failing which the Council would not renew their support.

An elderly man, John O'Neill, an inmate of the Cork County Home, was charged at the CORK District Court yesterday with the murder of John Connolly, one of the attendants at the institution. Only formal evidence of arrest was given, and the accused man was remanded in custody. An inquest, which was held into the occurrence, was adjourned by Coroner J. J. Horgan, pending the completion of the criminal proceedings. Following the evidence of identification, Dr. J. B. O'Regan said that death was due to hæmorrhage and laceration of the brain, following a fracture of the skull. The injuries would be caused by blows from a heavy instrument.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Following an irregular opening, speculation for an advance was again pressed forward, but a bear drive against Farm Implement Shares later unsettled confidence. Public Utilities early became prominent, following the announcement of another major natural gas project by the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line and on unconfirmed rumours that a new holding company is forming to acquire substantial blocks of Niagara, Hudson, and Consolidated Gas Shares, with a view to an eventual merger. A wide assortment of Food issues, Industrials, and Specialities also advanced 2 to 3 points. Unfavourable Railroad earnings, together with a marked decline in the Farm Implement output, depressed Railroads and Farm Implement Shares. Reports from the Petroleum industry, however, were more favourable, early estimates indicating a sharp curtailment in the crude production last week. Credit continued plentiful, although call money again ruled at 3 per cent. In late dealings the market continued easy in the absence of support; but finally good buying developed, resulting in moderate advances. The close was firm. Allied Chemical, American Power and Light, Calumet and Arizona, United Aircraft, Worthington Pump, North American Electric Power and Light, and American Telephone and Telegraph advanced 2 to 5 points. Contrariwise Case Threshing Machine declined 16 points, and International Harvester, American Tobacco, Canadian Pacific, Eastman Kodak, Erie Railroad, and Southern Railway 1 point to 3 points. Government Bonds steady; Railroad Bonds easy. The day's sales amounted to 2,254,000 shares.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

WHEAT was easy at the opening, and ⅝c. to 1⅛c. lower, due to a statement credited as having been made by the Chairman of the Farm Board that the wheat crisis is virtually over, and that the Farm Board will do little to handle the export or marketing of the present surplus. A further bearish influence was fine weather conditions in the South-West. Later the market rallied, partially on a forecast of possible frost in the Dakota and reports of hessian fly in Nebraska. The closing, however, was easy at declines of ⅞c. to 1⅛c.

"OTTER TRAWLING" OFF WATERFORD.

LOWESTOFT SKIPPER FINED £100.

TRAWLER'S GEAR FORFEITED.

WATERFORD, Tuesday

At a Special Court in Waterford to-day, before Mr. J. V. Fahy, District Justice, Arthur David Artis, skipper of the steam trawler, Blue Haze, was charged with illegal trawling by using the method known as otter trawling within a zone prohibited by the Department of Agriculture By-Law of 30th November, 1898. The defendant's address was given as Oulton Broads, Lowestoft, and he was described as a master mariner.

Mr. E. A. Ryan, State solicitor, who prosecuted, said that poaching by steam trawlers and foreign fishing smacks was becoming a matter of grave national concern. Owing to depredations by these vessels in recent years in Irish waters there was serious danger of the whole fishing industry of Ireland becoming extinct. This was a case in which he would ask for the imposition of the full penalty.

Evidence in support of the case was given by Captain Thompson, master of the Free State fishery patrol boat, Muirchu, which captured the steam trawler and brought her under arrest to Waterford port.

Artis, who said that he worked for a company known as "The Seven, Ltd.," said that this was only his second visit to Ireland, and he did not know anything about the by-law in question. He thought he was safe in working on the three-mile limit, and made a bona fide mistake.

The District Justice said that the mistake was a costly one, not only to the defendant, but also from the point of view of Irish fisheries. He imposed the full penalty of £100, and ordered the forfeiture of the trawler's fishing gear, the trawler to be detained until the fine was paid.

Mr. Peter O'Connor, solicitor, Waterford, appeared for the defendant.

FRENCH FISHERS' LOBSTER POTS.

ATTEMPT TO PREVENT CONFISCATION.

WATERFORD, Tuesday

French fishermen, whose lobster pots were to be confiscated by the Free State authorities as part of the punishment imposed on them by the District Justice for illegal fishing off this coast, made an attempt, at Dunmore East last night, to prevent the pots from being seized.

Captain Thompson, master of the Free State patrol steamer Muirchu, was conveying between forty and fifty pots in a boat from the French smacks to his own craft when some of the French fishermen, in a motor-boat, intercepted him and endeavoured to recover the pots.

The incident was observed by those on shore, and while Captain Thompson was resisting the Frenchmen's effort a telephone call was put through to Lady Lane Civic Guard Station in Waterford apprising the Gurads of the occurrence.

Inspector McNamara and seven Guards hurried in two motor cars to Dunmore, and arrived in time to prevent the French fishermen from depriving Captain Thompson of the pots, which the Court had ordered him to seize.

It is understood that no prosecution will follow, but the Frenchmen were ordered to clear out of Dunmore immediately, which they did, followed to sea by the Muirchu.

DUBLIN WORKING BOYS' HOME.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS NEEDED.

The fifty-third annual report of the Governors of the Dublin Working Boys' Home and Harding Technical School was submitted and adopted at a special meeting of subscribers, which followed the monthly meeting of the Governors held in the Home yesterday—Mr. T. Stanford, J.P., in the chair.

The report stated that the Home, which had accommodation for eighty-one boys, was virtually full the whole year. The amount paid by the boys was £1,811, as against £2,000 in 1928, the difference being accounted for by the fact that a number of senior boys were replaced by boys who were starting in life, and consequently contributed less. The contributions from the public amounted to £546, as against £704 in 1928. The Governors appealed to the friends of the Home to enlist new subscribers, to enable them to meet the heavy charges which were a necessity in the upkeep of such large premises.

The Rev. Canon J. W. Crozier, M.A., was re-elected a Governor.

All boys under eighteen years of age or who are serving apprenticeships must attend classes in the technical schools. The Governors recognise that, if the lads are to advance in their several occupations, they should take full advantage of the educational facilities offered in these schools. The Governors pay all school fees. Every opportunity is also offered for healthy recreation. There is a fully-equipped gymnasium, which is under the supervision of a very capable instructor. There are also cricket, football and Badminton clubs. In connection with the gymnasium, the silver challenge cup presented by Sir William Fry for annual competition was won this year by Morrison Harrison.

The attention of employers is drawn to the employment bureau which is operated in connection with the Home. By this means many city employers have filled vacancies as they have occurred in their shops and offices, and in nearly all cases they have expressed satisfaction with the class of boy as recommended by the superintendent.

The Governors gratefully acknowledge the following subscriptions:—£2—Messrs. Hallett and Best, Mrs. Mills, Miss Jones, Mr. H. Wood. £1 1s.—Mr. E. Jameson, Mrs. John Weatherill. £1—Miss Jefferson, Mrs. Howard Guinness, Mrs. Longfield, Mr. A. C. Sibthorpe, Miss Morley, Mrs. Peter Denny, Mr. Charles Purdie, Major J. C. Boyle, Miss Brabazon, Mr. W. Rochford, Miss Carroll, Miss Pidgeon. 10s.—Mr. W. W. Carruthers, Mrs. Lefroy, Miss Lefroy, Mr. F. W. Johnston. 5s.—Anon.

GOOD PRICES FOR DUTCH PAINTINGS.

Messrs. Dockrell began the sale of the contents of the Mansion House, Fortfield, Templeogue, Co. Dublin, on Monday. Prices ruled high. A Worcester dessert service realised £26, a Mason ironstone dinner service £27, a marble mantelpiece £100, three unsigned oil paintings £64, four plain birch armchairs £28, small rosewood card table £16, small Dutch painting (unsigned) £44, another £31. The main interest in the sale was centred in the Dutch paintings in the drawing-room, which came up for sale yesterday, and which brought over numerous English dealers and connoisseurs. A painting by van Goyen, executed in the year 1653—a lake scene, with men and cattle in a ferry boat, and with trees in heavy foliage in the right foreground, on panel 25 x 15½, went to £550. A painting by Hobbema—river scene with mill in foreground, on panel 25 x 19, realised £155. A painting by Snellinks—a landscape, with trees and cottage, and figures of two fishermen in the foreground, and windmills on the horizon, on panel 24 x 18, realised £80. Another painting, also of the 17th century Dutch school, by an unidentified artist, went to £75, while a seascape of the same school painted on canvas was knocked down at £65. The Rossi mantelpiece was sold for £160. An Oriental bowl fetched £16 10/-, a pair of Swansea vases £20, chandeliers £19, Dresden clock £13, convex mirrors £18 and £8 10/-.

DEAF! Your natural instinct when you find you are not hearing is to put your hand behind your ear to help catch the sound-waves—that is Nature's primitive instinct. The scientific method is to "correct the defect" by means of the so that sounds are brought to the auditory system instead of the ears straining for them. You may have tried many things and been told yours is a hopeless case; but our experience is that when all else fails the NEW PHANTOM "ARDENTE" has its successes, because it is suited to the needs of YOUR case to give you hearing and overcome your disability.

If you are slightly deaf, "ARDENTE" saves strain and

IMPROVES YOUR HEARING

Don't wait and become acutely deaf.
Natural hearing is invaluable, but if your deafness is already acute (in spite of trying many things), then "ARDENTE" makes up to your hearing what it lacks naturally, and YOU HEAR.
Is it worth remaining deaf?
Music, conversation, shopping, wireless, the telephone, in church, etc., are as possible for you as for those with normal hearing.
To put your hand behind your ear is to attract attention to your disability. To "ARDENTE" is to remain inconspicuous; no one would realise that you were deaf, and the whole world of sound is yours again.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

BETTER NEWS OF BALLYFERIS.

NARROW VICTORY OF SIDONIA.

CORDUROY FAILS TO HOLD ALCESTER.

(FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.)

YORK, Tuesday Night.

The accounts to-day of the Derby colt, Ballyferis, are quite promising, and he is to be galloped to-morrow, which is so far good that it will reveal, I expect, how far the injury has affected him. His trainer was not here this afternoon, but I believe that he is inclined to make light of the injury to Ballyferis.

The weather was warm and fine for the racing which began here this afternoon, and the sport was well up to the high York level. There was one most exciting finish, and that was for the Londesborough Plate, in which Mr. Anthony de Rothschild's Sidonia got the better of Rattlin the Reefer by a very short head. When Rattlin the Reefer was known as the Reef colt he was thought to be a very smart one, and when Sir Abe Bailey sold his horses Lord Woolavington gave 7,000 guineas for him. He won the Stakes at Ascot last June, but that is the only winning form he has shown since he was bought, and on occasions he has not run any too generously.

Rufus Beasley set off in front of him here, but at the distance he was challenged by Sidonia. The latter got his head in front, but seemed to hang a little, and then Rattlin the Reefer came again and drew level. He may, indeed, have had his head in front for a second. Sidonia, however, also ran on, and the judge gave him the decision, though few on the stands could tell which had won, so close was it. It was a good performance on the part of Sidonia, a gelded son of Galloper Light, who is improving, and who had already won this race last year. He was conceding the second 7lb. here.

LORD HAREWOOD'S SUCCESS.

There was great jubilation when Lord Harewood, who accompanied Princess Mary to the meeting, won the Flying Dutchman Handicap with the penalised Alcester, who made light of the 7lb extra, made all the running, as he had done last week at Newmarket, and won easily by two lengths from Corduroy. The connections of the latter piled so much money on him that he started a better favourite than Alcester.

He had not an altogether clear course, and when he began to make his run he made up a good deal of ground, but it never took him near enough to the winner to be dangerous. He beat Spionella a short head for second place. Plot, who ran a fair race, was fourth.

There was an interesting winner in the course of the day in Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen's Flute, who in the Tadcaster Stakes, with an advantage of 15lb., beat Friarvane by a neck. Flute, who is by Orpheus, is a half-sister to the Derby winner, Felstead, and a full sister to Silver Lyre, who was such a smart filly last year before she went wrong, and was retired to the stud. Goodwood Park was in the lead until the distance, and then Friarvane and Gossamer challenged strongly. Flute in the meantime was well there, and was too good at the weights for Friarvane.

MANVERO BEATEN.

Gordon Richards won the Glasgow Selling Welter for Captain Hogg on Blue Don, who beat Manvero half a length, and was then bought in for 460 guineas.

The two-year-old races of the day were good. The first of them, the Zetland Plate, was won by Lord Allendale's Pharian, a well-proven performer. He and Disarmament had it all to themselves, and he steadily wore down the son of Beresford, and beat him by a length. Yellow Dun, a daughter of Blue Dun, was third, four lengths away.

Some youngsters that are well spoken of appeared in the last event, the Knavesmire Maiden Plate. One of these was Florence Dombey, a daughter of Captain Cuttle, and Margaritta More, who was a very smart two-year-old, but afterwards turned moody, and had no successful season.

A FAVOURITE FAILS.

Mr. Victor Gilpin, who trains Florence Dombey, had tried her well, and she was a good favourite. She and Phalarope, the only other seriously backed, were fighting it out, and I thought Mrs. Arthur James's colt was just getting the better of her when Jacopo came pounding along on the rails, and beat Phalarope and the other by three-parts and half a length.

It was the first appearance of the winner, a particularly workmanlike and good stamp of colt by Sansovino out of Black Ray, whom Captain Boyd-Rochfort trains for Mr. Marshall Field. He ran his race out very stoutly, showing no sign of greenness, and looked one who may have a future before him.

SELECTIONS.

The Yorkshire Cup fills the bill here to-morrow, and Sir Joshua will be in the field and will run well too. Bonny Boy II. is a good winner on the course, and Dark Hillock ran well enough in the Chester Cup to give him a chance. The Bastard has been laid out for the Ascot Gold Cup and may not be quite wound up yet. Highbury has a chance, but the best may be Sir Joshua.

The Eglinton Stakes may be won by TIPPETS, who was left at the post in Carola's race at Newmarket. The Hambleton Maiden Plate I leave to PAL O' MINE.

At Salisbury the Stewards' Plate may be won by PORTRAITIST, and the Wiltshire Plate by LAND O' BURNS.

CURRAGH TRAINING NOTES.

THE CURRAGH, Tuesday.

A fine, but rather threatening, morning.

BEHAN'S Irish Times cantered six furlongs. The Irish Two Thousand Guineas candidate is well, but I do not fancy him to beat such as Strongbow, Rock Star and Glannarg. Greenly Island and others of the Mountjoy Lodge team cantered five furlongs.

DAWSON'S Flashing and Helicon went a sharp five furlongs. Another Craft, Orbell, and others of the team were usually employed.

DOYLE'S White Mixture and Battle Bridge went sharply five furlongs. The rest of the Rossmore Lodge team were employed over the same distance.

HARTIGAN'S Limousine, Bayard, and a few others went sharply three furlongs.

HUNTER'S Overall cantered six furlongs; Stormproof, Art Mistree, Duke of Athlone, and others of the Cherryfield House team were usefully employed.

PARKINSON'S Spring Double went six furlongs, and the others immediately engaged were sharpened up over five furlongs.

ROGERS'S Athnus, Inniskeen, Wild Corn and Boat Deck came the same distance.

SELECTIONS FOR THE CURRAGH—WEDNESDAY.

Novices' Stakes—GREEK BANDIT.
Curragh Plate—KNIGHT'S BATTLE.
Irish Two Thousand Guineas—GLANNARG.
Paddock Plate—BAYARD.
Apprentices' Plate—LIMOUSINE.
Trial Plate—WHITE MIXTURE.

There were two nasty falls in the Rudyard Handicap Hurdle race at Uttoxeter yesterday. C. Ancil broke a collar-bone and lacerated his ear by the fall of his mount, Brunel, and Mr. G. Owen broke a collar-bone as the result of the fall of his mount, Ballyspinner. Ancil was conveyed to hospital later in the afternoon.

THE CURRAGH.

FAVOURITES FARE BADLY.

TWO JOCKEYS' DOUBLES.

Although there was no event of outstanding importance on the first day's card of the Curragh May meeting, the racing provided fair entertainment, and the weather could not have been improved upon. The Irish Two Thousand Guineas, which will be the centre piece of to-day's sport, was much discussed, and it looks as if the race will be a highly interesting one, with many candidates greatly fancied. Two English-trained horses, Rock Star and Strongbow, have arrived for the race, but it seems as if Rear-Admiral, though declared a runner yesterday, may not, after all, go to the post.

Some Power followed up his recent win at the Limerick Junction by cantering home an easy winner of the opening hurdle race. He is not at all times too generous a horse, but Canty understands his moods, and nursing him nicely, he kept him behind the field until approaching the last flight of hurdles. Perique had been making the running up to this stage, but Some Power quickly got his measure and running on quite generously, caused his supporters no further uneasiness.

SHAUN GOILIN'S HALF-BROTHER.

Canty was again to the fore later in the afternoon on Gomar, Sir Thomas Dixon's massive three-year-old, who won the Walsh's Hill Stakes in comfortable style. Gomar is a half brother to the Grand National winner, Shaun Goilin, and, doubtless, like his distinguished relation, will later on have his attention turned to steeplechasing. Rosclogher, the grey son of Duke of Brandon, was an odds on favourite for the race, but gave anything but a stylish display. He was well placed throughout, but just as he seemed likely to win he failed to put it all in, and did not even get a place.

DOUBLE ARCH REGAINS FORM.

Another jockey to score a double event during the afternoon was E. Gardner, who this season has taken over a retainer to ride for Mr. J. T. Rogers's stable. His first win was on Double Arch, in the Beginners' Stakes, and the manner in which this well-bred colt polished off the big field opposing him stamped him as a bit above the ordinary. Major Dixon's Ballyhalbert, hailing from P. Behan's stable, was all the rage in the wagering, but ran a bit green, and was always held safe by Double Arch, who thus regained some of the prestige he lost through a couple of indifferent displays following his convincing win on the occasion of his first race at the Phœnix Park in April. The consistent Treminnie ran on into third place, and Marlhill's Star and Rascal Monk also ran well.

E. Gardner scored his second riding success on Cap-a-Pie II., a horse better known as Officer some years back. On leaving this country he went to India and won a valuable prize there, but this was his first score since returning to the care of Mr. J. T. Rogers. Mickey Dazzler made the best use of his advantage in the weights by striking a strong pace, but he failed to stay out the tiring journey, and was relegated into third berth, beaten by Crested Wave as well as Cap-a-Pie II.

TREMOLIO'S THIRD WIN.

There was an exciting finish for the Scurry Plate between Tremolio, Tuneful, and Swinburne, the first-named staying on well to secure the spoils. The three-year-old Tuneful, whose first appearance on a racecourse this season it was, flattered for a long way, but despite all the efforts of T. Burns, was unable to cope with Tremolio, whose third win off the reel this was. Another odds on favourite in Glass Princess cut up very moderately in the Friarstown Plate, which was won by Mr. John Doyle's Kildare's Pride. Details:—

IRISH 2,000 GUINEAS.

TWO ENGLISH HORSES TO RUN.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The Irish 2,000 Guineas, to be run at the Curragh to-day, should prove a big attraction. Twelve runners were declared for the race yesterday, but it appears that Rear Admiral, one of the English-trained candidates, will not be saddled, and the field will likely be made up as follows:—

PROBABLE STARTERS AND JOCKEYS.

ATHNUS (Mr. W. Barnett), b. c. by Cygnus—Athasi (Rogers), 9-0......A. Barrett
GLANNARG (Mr. P. Fitzgerald), gr. c. by Argosy—Glannagalt (Blake), 9-0 ......E. M. Quirke
ROCK STAR (Sir M. Wilson), b. c. by Sherwood Star—Rockmills (Nightingall), 9-0 ....M. Wing
*REAR-ADMIRAL (Captain T. Ponsonby), br. g. by Beresford—Fair Maiden (Persse), 9-0 ——
STRONGBOW (Colonel G. Loder), br. c. by Swynford—Molly Desmond (Gilpin), 9-0 ......P. Beasley
IRISH TIMES (Major Dixon), b. c. by Torlonia—Dodo (Behan), 9-0......Joe Canty
INNISKEEN (Major Shirley), b. c. by Hainault—Sari Bahr (Rogers), 9-0 ......F. Winter
BLACK ADMIRAL (Mr. H. Ussher), br. c. by Jackdaw—Short Line (Owner), 9-0 ......J. Moylan
OVERALL (Lady L. Murray), ch. c. by Apron—Los Angeles (Hunter), 9-0 ......P. Fitzgerald
FREIGHTER (Mrs. Webster), b. c. by Argosy—Impudent Ally (Rogers), 9-0 ......T. Burns
WILD CORN (Mr. J. T. Rogers), ch. c. by Essexford—Wild Wheat (Owner), 9-0 ......E. Gardner
SPRING DOUBLE (Mr. J. P. Hogan), b. or br. g. by Blink—Double Pass, 9-0 ......W. Howard

*Rear-Admiral was declared a runner yesterday, but is a doubtful starter.

Strongbow has been sent from Gilpin's stable, and will be ridden by P. Beasley. In his only outing last year the son of Swynford and Molly Desmond finished third in the Criterion Stakes at Newmarket to Candida and Golden Dawn, and early this season beat a big field, which included Dundrave, in the Spring Maiden Plate at Newbury, but in the English 2,000 Guineas ran moderately. Rock Star was beaten into third place by Dundrave and Dick Swiveller in the Marcus Beresford Stakes at Sandown this month, so on this form should be held safe by Strongbow, who must hold a big chance of capturing the valuable prize. The improving Black Admiral, Freighter, Glannarg and Irish Times are about the best of the Irish-trained lot, and in making a selection we give the preference to and recommend Irish Times and Black Admiral for places.

Selections for the other races:—

Novices' Stakes—Greek Bandit.
Curragh Handicap—Knight's Battle.
Paddock Plate—Bayard.
Apprentices' Plate—Royal Light.
Trial Handicap—White Mixture.

YORK TO-DAY:

PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

BONNY BOY II. BEST FOR THE CUP.

CRAIG BHAN'S CHANCE.

The continuation of the York fixture and the beginning of a two-day meeting at Salisbury monopolise our attention this afternoon. The Yorkshire Cup is the principal betting medium at the Northern meeting, and, being decided over two miles, it provides an excellent test of stamina. I cannot hold out any really strong hopes for Sir Joshua, the top weight, as he shows his best form in soft going, but Bonny Boy II., who runs in preference to Cacao, holds a really good chance, and I think he will go close. It is in his favour that he is a winner over the course, and his success in the Ebor Handicap last August suggests that he should at least be placed in to-day's field. The Bastard would make more appeal if he had had a previous race in public this season. Dark Hillock, who is to be ridden by Gordon Richards, is better handicapped here than he has been in former races, and I think that he and Bonny Boy II. will fight out the finish. The best proposition should be Bonny Boy II.

The Scarbrough Stakes appears as if it will be fought out by Backward Glance and Craig Bhan. Both are recent winners, Backward Glance having been successful at Lincoln, Newcastle and Ripon, and Craig Bhan having won at Sandown Park. Although it is against him that he failed subsequently at Newmarket under a big weight, I think that Craig Bhan is the better class of the two, and I, therefore, select him to win.

It is anticipated in North country racing circles that the Hambleton Maiden Plate will be won by the Middleham colt, Pal o' Mine. It is true that he will have a much easier task here than when contesting the Two Thousand Guineas, but he will have to be at his very best to win, and I prefer the claims of Fair Game, who won the Hastings Stakes at Newmarket last time out.

Irish Jockeys Fined.

After the race for the Beginners' Stakes at the Curragh yesterday the starter reported T. Burns and F. Hunter for disobedience at the post. The Stewards fined Burns 10 sovs. and Hunter 5 sovs.

Derby Surprise Scratching.

The scratching of Bull Dog from the Derby at 10 p.m. on Monday comes as a surprise, in view of the fact that Captain J. D. Cohn, his owner, had stated that he intended to run him.

London Betting.

The card on the Derby will be called over at the Beaufort Club at 6.15 p.m. to-morrow, and at the Victoria Club at 6.45 on Friday.

Non-Runners for the Derby.

The following horses are not likely to accept for the Derby:—Casserole, Sandals and Secret Paper.

Ballyferis Gallops.

Ballyferis, the Derby horse, who bruised the cannon bone of his off hind-leg as the result of being cast in his box, was galloped yesterday morning. He went a mile at half-speed, accompanied by Roman Candle II., and pulled up sound. Mr. Sam Darling, his trainer, said: "He was quite all right after his gallop, but it is too early yet to say anything definite about him."

Newmarket Trials.

The following trials took place on the Limekilns, Newmarket, yesterday morning:—Kirk's Montaigne, 1; Kirk's Phantasia, 2; Kirk's Furlough, 3. Over seven furlongs. Won easily; a bad third. Kirk's Pineadula, 1; Kirk's Olympia, 2; Darling's Pippa Passes (H. Southey), 3. Over four furlongs. Won by half a length; a bad third. Darling's Quenda, 1; Darling's Galloon, 2. Over four furlongs. Won easily.

S. Donoghue Thrown.

When prominent among the leading division about a furlong from the finish of the Weston Stakes at Bath yesterday, Tournai came into contact with the rails, and her rider, S. Donoghue, was thrown. He rolled over and over several times, and, although he was not seriously hurt, he looked very much shaken as he walked back with the aid of two ambulance men. The Stewards inquired into the fall of Tournai, and decided that it was a pure accident.

HUNTING BOOTS—FIELD BOOTS.
Newmarket Boots, with Canvas Legs.
Ladies' Riding Boots and Sports Footwear.
Repairs to Boots and Leggings neatly executed.

SALISBURY.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

At Salisbury to-day the Wiltshire Plate, a six furlongs high-weight handicap, should be won by the top weight, Tommy Atkins, and the Salisbury Stakes for two-year-olds may be within the scope of Cameronian. The Stewards' Plate has an open appearance, but I have good accounts of Portraitist, and, as the field may be restricted owing to the presumed absence of Residue, Phosphore, Sandro, Herdsman and Monarchy, I select him to win.

Salisbury Stakes—Cameronian.
Juvenile Selling Plate—First Venture.
Wiltshire Plate—Tommy Atkins.
Stand Selling Welter—Citronota.
Stewards' Plate—Portraitist.
City Bowl—Deaconess.

BAN ON CHRISTNER REMOVED.

CAN NOW MEET CARNERA.

DAYTON, OHIO, Tuesday.

The ban on K. O. Christner, the Swedish-American, was lifted by the National Boxing Association yesterday, and he will thus be able to fight Carnera at Detroit on June 5. Mr. Stanley Isaacs, President of the Commission, said that, although Carnera was also under suspension, he would be allowed to meet Christner, as the sanction for the fight was granted by the Michigan Commission before Carnera was suspended. Mr. Isaacs made it clear that the ban on Carnera would remain in force after the bout.

GAELIC GAMES.

INTER-DRAPERY COMPETITION.

TODD, BURNS...... 5-2 PIM'S...... 3-3

Last evening, at Croke Park, Pim Bros. (holders) suffered their first defeat in this year's Inter-Drapery Competition, when, after a high-scoring game, Todd, Burns beat them by five points (17 to 12). Todds' had an interval lead of four points, which early in the second half they lost, but near the end rushed through two goals and two points, thus winning a victory which was deserved on the general run of the play.

ANGLING.

THE ERNE AND LOUGH ERNE.

Salmon fishing was rather late in opening this season. About a score of fish were obtained in the past fortnight, among the successful anglers being Sir G. May, who had several fish, heaviest 21lb., and Mr. T. A. Caffrey, who had half a dozen up to 24lb. The "Green Drake" is now well up on Lough Erne, and good trout fishing is being had by dappers of the succulent May fly.

GOLF.

THE IRISH LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

OPENING MATCHES AT PORTMARNOCK.

HOLDER IN THE THIRD ROUND.

(By Our Special Correspondent.)

The first two rounds of the Irish Ladies' Championship, which were played off at Portmarnock yesterday, provided large and keenly interested galleries with a most interesting day's golf. There were four scratchings, so that we had forty-one matches. An analysis of the results reveals that one went to the nineteenth, where Mrs. Miley beat Miss Hume, nine finished on the last green, five at the seventeenth and six one hole further out; so that the majority can be correctly described as excellent matches. It was a perfectly delightful day, with just enough wind to temper the heat, which would otherwise have been most trying on the competitors.

Those of us who had seen Miss Iris Taylor fighting it out so bravely with Mrs. Harry Hall in the final last year at Rosapenna expected her to get through a few rounds on this occasion, but she was beaten three and two in the first match by Miss Hirsch, of Armagh, who thus brought off what was, perhaps, the only surprise of the day. As remarked, there were many close matches, and the holder figured in one of them. In the morning round Mrs. Hall was hard pressed by Mrs. Olga Keith, of Addington, who was beaten only on the sixteenth green; but for her victory over Miss Tynte she had to go even further, as it was only when she holed her putt for a five on the home green that she passed into the third round.

MRS. WALKER BROUGHT TO THE 18th.

Mrs. Walker, the winner of the scratch score on Monday with the capital round of 81, had a bye into the second round, and her opponent in the next was Mrs. Franklin, of Kingstown, who in the forenoon had played skilful golf to overcome Mrs. Cashel by five and four. It was Mrs. Walker's first championship, and she began very nervously. She was trapped all the way to the first hole on the left, and she lost it to a six. It was only by her opponent incurring a penalty stroke by having to lift out of a rabbit scrape going to the third that Mrs. Walker won that hole in five, and she played the fourth so badly that she required a seven. From the hills on the left of the fifth she was overstrong when trying to play short, and was again in the sand; so that she was then two holes to the bad. Playing the eighth she was three down, but then she began to hit them, and took the eighth, ninth and tenth. Mrs. Franklin was putting with confidence and boldness, and the match proceeded to the seventeenth, with Mrs. Walker then dormy. She apparently had a great chance of finishing there, but Mrs. Franklin calmly holed out a big putt for the win, and they went to the last green. Mrs. Walker's second—a brassey—was a grand shot. It pulled up just short of the green, and she secured the half in five, which gave her victory. The manner in which the winner played the last nine suggested that her earlier lapses were only temporary. Her two shots to the home hole showed her to be a very fine wooden club player, indeed; while her steadiness in approaching on the outward half extricated her from a difficult situation more than once.

THE HOLDER ALSO GOES TO THE HOME GREEN.

I watched Mrs. Hall for a few holes in the morning against Mrs. Olga Keith. She did not play convincing golf for the first four, a six halving the first, while she was so badly bunkered twice to the fourth off her drive and third that she gave up the hole after playing her fifth, and not getting over the second spell of trouble. But suddenly she came on to her game, and turned with a lead of two holes. But Mrs. Keith had cut her losses at the twelfth, where she was down in two. The holder then got going again, and, following a win in six at the thirteenth, she had a four at the fourteenth. A three followed, and the next hole being halved Mrs. Hall won by three and two. Her match with Miss Tynte developed into even a sterner struggle. There was never much between them on the way out; but the Foxrock lady was in the apparently comfortable position of three up with four to play. Miss Tynte, however, took three holes, and they went on to the last green, where the holder survived a ding-dong match.

The defeat of Miss Taylor was brought about principally by her weakness with the second and succeeding shots. She was driving splendidly, but after that it was evident she was not playing her usual game, and she went down beaten by three and two by Miss Hirsch. Miss Daisy Ferguson had a one-sided win in the second round over Mrs. Berkeley Quill, the margin being six and five; and another of the younger school, Miss Latchford, of Tralee, played such excellent golf against Mrs. Madill, and putted so accurately, that she allowed the Hermitage lady to win only two holes—the fourth in four and the twelfth in two. She could scarcely have won them.

VICTORIES FOR THE ISLAND.

The Misses Patricia and June Jameson likewise put up capital golf against their opponents for big marginal successes, and some of the best golf of the day was played by Mrs. J. F. Jameson in her two matches. She had as opponent in the first round a strong player in Mrs. Marks, who entered from the Dunmurry Club, and she won it by four and two, Mrs. Marks having a bad time in the bunkers or in the rough. In her second game with Mrs. Morgan the win was gained by six and four. Mrs. Jameson was not hitting as long a ball as Mrs. Marks with the wooden clubs, but she has not often played as well in this championship, being seldom off the line and hitting the ball truly.

It was a keen match which Mrs. King and Miss Blake were engaged in, and which went to the seventeenth. Two up going to the seventh, Miss Blake had lost her advantage at the turn, but Mrs. King could not shake off her young rival, she could not secure the lead for which she played so hard and well, and it was only by holing a long putt at the seventeenth that Miss Blake passed on. Other members of the Hermitage club who got through were Mrs. Messervy, Mrs. M'Intyre and Miss Pentony, while Miss Hickey put up a right good game against Miss Peggy Gardiner to the seventeenth, which she lost to a four. Miss Pentony, who uses long and heavy wooden clubs for one so young, after defeating Miss D. Oulton 5 and 4, was paired with Miss Owen, of Greystones. They did not play at all badly on the way out, but each had a couple of sixes, and turned all square. Neither golfed as well on the return half, but at the fourteenth Miss Pentony took a two holes lead, and went from that to victory by three and one, finishing with a four.

A LUCKY APPROACH.

A former holder of the title, Miss M'Loughlin, got through a close match with Miss Drury, who was in a two holes lead at the third, but lost them at the seventh. They started for home with the Kingstown player a couple of holes to the good. Miss Drury had one of the scarce twos at the twelfth, but going to the seventeenth Miss M'Loughlin was one up, and getting down in five she clinched matters. The Kingstown club was also well represented by Mrs. E. L. Kidd, who had two good wins over Miss Alice Gardiner and Miss Joan Mitchell, and she was supported by Mrs. Bethel Solomons, who beat Mrs. Barr in a very tight match on the last green.

Sound golf brought Mrs. Henshaw, of Foxrock, a five and four victory over Miss Conry, of Sutton. In the morning Mrs. Dwyer, of Cork, won her match with Mrs. Harry Brown a long way out, but on the same green she was beaten by Miss Fitzgibbon, of Greystones, and by the same margin (five and four). Miss M'Davitt holed her approach to the sixteenth in her match with Mrs. B. T. O'Reilly, although she did not play the hole as well as her opponent. She was then all square, but she surrendered the seventeenth and won on the last green. Mrs. Cuthell and Mrs. Cramsie are still in, and playing steadily; and Mrs. Babington, of Milltown, was altogether too powerful for Miss Moore of the same club.

THE AMATEUR TITLE.

PROMINENT AMERICANS DEFEATED.

ANOTHER GOOD DAY FOR IRISH PLAYERS.

ST. ANDREWS, Tuesday.

The American forces competing for the Amateur Golf Championship lost two of their number during the second day's play in the competition here to-day. Dr. Oscar Willing, the redoubtable Californian and veteran of the trans-Atlantic side, and Donald Moe, the youngest member of the team, had to submit to defeat. Their victors belong to the young brigade, William Spark, the twenty-two-year-old golfer from Montrose, who was making his first try in the championship, disposing of Dr. Willing, and Rex Hartley defeating the youthful New Yorker, Moe. The second round was completed, and twenty-four of the sixty-four ties in the third round played, and the Americans, who did not have a match were "Bobby" Jones, the American open champion, and Harry Johnston, the American amateur champion. The surviving Americans, six in number, are well distributed in the draw, but on the day's play British confidence took a notable rise following the excellent showing many of the comparatively unknown players made.

Hartley did not make a bright start, for he duffed his second shot, and the ball did not travel many yards. He played three before he crossed the burn, and Moe won the hole in four. The match was squared at the second, but Hartley was one up at the turn. He became two up at the tenth, and was still two up at the twelfth. For the four holes which it took to finish the match the golf was not good, but Hartley held the measure of his rival, and seemed to play to keep inside him.

After the defeat of Dr. Willing came a surprise, Dale Bourn, the English champion, being outplayed by Douglas Fiddian. Bourn took the lead at the third, but Fiddian started a streak of fireworks at the sixth. He did the next six holes in 3, 4, 3, 4, 4, 2, and was 2 up at the eleventh. Bourn got a hole back at the fifteenth, but Fiddian won the sixteenth to become dormie two, and a half at the seventeenth provided the young golfer with an unlooked-for success.

Roger Wethered, the British captain, was at the top of his form against R. D. Mathieson, who had an unfortunate start, losing the first and second holes, and he was three down at the fifth, but had Wethered back to two at the tenth. The British captain, however, was playing too good for his rival, and was one over fours at the sixteenth hole, where the match ended.

Several players drove the last green—a distance of 364 yards—and the mightiest swipe of the day was by J. Stout, whose drive actually ran as far as the wooden railings behind the first tee. In 1892 Edward Blackwell, driving from the eighteenth tee, struck the steps leadink to the clubhouse. Stout's shot was even longer, and was estimated at 380 yards.

Ireland had another good day, wins being registered by R. Simcox, Captain Martin, Major Hezlet, J. D. MacCormack, and D. E. Soulby. H. M. Cairnes, the captain of the Portmarnock club, who is only recovering from influenza, did not take his place when called upon to meet Roland Mackenzie, the American, and F. P. McConnell and Colonel H. Boyd passed out.

Captain Martin again produced some fine golf to dispose of J. S. F. Morrison, the Sunningdale golfer and former Sunderland and Corinthian footballer, by 6 and 5. Martin was never in any difficulties, and, taking the lead at the first, arrived at the turn with a three holes' advantage. He increased it to four at the eleventh, and the match ended shortly afterwards.

CORK GOLFER'S SPEEDY WORK.

Redmond Simcox (Douglas) finished his third round match in a little over an hour against F. S. Withers, a Birmingham golfer. The latter failed to win a hole, and the Irish player, out in 38, stood six up. Simcox played steady golf, and he was never pressed enough to produce anything brilliant; he outplayed his opponent, and won the easiest of matches.

Dr. J. D. MacCormack, of Hermitage, had an easy passage into the third round by defeating Tom Burrell, a former Scottish champion, by five and four. MacCormack seldom made a mistake, and, despite two 5's on the outward half, stood two up at the 9th. He got a grand three at the 11th after winning the 10th rather easily, and the end came quickly afterwards. The Irishman hit a long ball throughout, and his putting was deadly accurate on the fast greens.

A CLOSE CALL FOR MAJOR HEZLET.

Major Hezlet had a narrow escape from defeat in his second round match with E. C. Millard, of Royal Wimbledon. Hezlet was outdriven at many of the holes, and at the ninth, which the Irishman reached in 37, the game was all-square. Millard drove the twelfth green, a distance of 314 yards, and won it, but he missed a chance at the fourteenth by taking three putts. At the sixteenth Millard was out of bounds from the tee, and for the first time Hezlet had the lead. The seventeenth was halved, and at the home hole both played poorly, but a half in five gave Hezlet a win by one up.

COLONEL BOYD'S GREAT FIGHT.

Colonel H. A. Boyd (Portmarnock) went out against Nelson Smith, runner-up in the championship last year. Boyd made a great fight of it. He was five down at the ninth, but a recovery of his best form enabled him to take the tenth, eleventh and twelfth. Now he was only two down, and looked like getting on level terms. Smith, however, placed his iron shots close to the pin at the remaining holes, and so accurate was his play that Boyd was defeated on the sixteenth green.

FRANK McCONNELL OUT OF FORM.

D. E. Soulby (Fortwilliam) was fully extended in the second round by H. le Fleming Shepherd, a London golfer, but he generally had the better of the game on the greens, and with his aluminium putter holed long putts on several. Shepherd won the first, but Soulby squared at the fifth. A struggle for the lead followed, and at the ninth the match was all square. Soulby, however, played masterly approaches late in the game, and after being dormy one won at last hole with a long putt.

Frank McConnell was beaten in the third round by F. C. Stevens (America), but he did not play his best golf. He was down most of the way, and turned one down. After a half at the tenth he lost a string of holes, to be beaten at the fifteenth.

THE 1,000 GUINEAS TOURNAMENT.

MITCHELL TEARS UP CARD.

The One Thousand Guineas Tournament, promoted by the Leeds Evening News, which was begun at Leeds yesterday with the first of two qualifying rounds, was bereft of much interest by the scratching of Leo Diegel and Horton Smith. Abe Mitchell completed fourteen holes, but was so disgusted with his golf that he tore up his card—for the first time in his career in premier tournaments. The best score in the first round was 71, and seven players returned that figure.

Archie Compston had a round of 76, while Henry Cotton had 73. H. C. Jolly was among the leaders, with Fred Robson, winner six years ago, at 71. The second qualifying round will be played to-day, at the end of which the leading thirty-two players will pass into the match play stages.

The leading returns were:—

71, W. Gimber (Seaham Harbour), J. Ballantine (Moortown), T. Barber (Derby), F. Robson (Cooden Beach), H. Jolly (Foxgrove), R. Wilson (Croham), J. Henderson (Ilkley); 72, C. A. Whitcombe (Crews Hill), H. Crapper (Harrogate), H. Kinch (Woodcote Park), A. Lacey (Selsdon Court); 73, Young (Sonning), J. Jarman (Hexham), A. Havers (Sandy Lodge), P. Rodgers (St. Anne's, Old), W. Button (Harborne), H. Cotton (Langley Park), A. Dailey (Bradley Hall); 74, H. Large (St. Helen's), L. Holland (Gerrard's Cross), J. Bond (West Lancs.), O. Sanderson (Bradford), A. Isherwood (Warrington), F. Jarman (Cavendish), H. Hardman (Sandmoor).

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN FLUCTUATING.

"IMP" TOBACCOS WEAK.

There were moderate fluctuations in prices all over the Stock Markets yesterday, but the volume of dealing proved unsatisfactory almost without exception, as orders were few and far between. Imperial Tobaccos turned decidedly easier in a small market, and even Guinness Shares tended to ease, despite solid trade prospects. Government National Loans were all bid for, but very little change was recorded. British Funds were busy, and where altered show improvements. Dublin Corporation New Stock £50 10s. paid) eased to ½ discount on the 95½ issue price. An improved price was paid and bid for National Banks. Northern Bank "A" Shares were bid up to 120s., a rise of 5s. 3d. a share, without securing any shares. British and Irish Steam Pref. remain in request. Guinness Ord. were a few pence easier. Cables, etc., closed steadier. Rails were more inclined to mark time in most cases, but where altered the slight movements were adverse. London, Midland and Scottish quoted 49½. Dublin United Tram was on sale, and lost the rally recorded the previous day. Parent Trust Pref. fell back a few pence. A. Armstrong Pref., recently bid for, rallied from 5s. to 9s. in an idle market. Textiles and Countaulds were dull and idle. Chemicals slightly varied. Lever Bros. issues and Unilevers Ord. were firmer. Oils were wanted. Rolls Royce fell away to 42s. 6d., and Unilever New, with 15s. paid, gave way to 2s. discount.

LONDON QUIET.

BRITISH FUNDS APPRECIATE.

Quiet conditions prevailed in the majority of sections of the London Stock Markets yesterday, and as a consequence a number of dull spots became apparent. Underwriting was in progress for an issue of £800,000 by the St. Helen's Corporation, bearing interest at 5 per cent. Despite a tightening up of money rates, British funds again displayed a firm appearance. War Loan 4 per cent. and Conversion Loan 5 per cent. each finished ⅛ harder, while Local Loans rose ½ to 65½. Little of interest transpired among foreign Government stocks. Home Railways remained out of favour and several of the leaders were marked the turn lower. Among Colonial and Foreign Railways "Leos" experienced a further sharp set back, the closing rate being a further 2 points lower. Cordoba Centrals, United Havana, and Central Argentines were also all substantially lower, while the Buenos Ayres issues reacted following the forward movement of Monday. The Industrial Sections attracted but scanty support, and irregular conditions prevailed.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

ANOTHER INACTIVE SESSION.

MOVEMENTS IRREGULAR.

Business showed no signs of broadening in the Industrial market yesterday. Apart from Radio Corporations, which finished a firm spot at 53½, the trans-Atlantic favourites developed an easier trend in response to Wall street advices. Changes on balance, however, did not amount to much.

Columbia Graphophones dipped at the opening to 5 13/16, rallied later to 5 15/16, eventually closing with a net decline of 5/32 at 5⅞. H.M.V.'s lost the turn at 4⅞. Cables and Wireless proved rather undecided, though closing steady.

Coal and Engineering descriptions moved within narrow limits. Electricals were fairly well maintained on the whole.

Little disposition was seen to give fresh support to the Brewery leaders, and as a result prices tended toward lower levels. Guinness slipped away to 107s. 9d., Ind Coope to 66s., Distillers to 69s. 6d., Watney Defd. to 61s., Allsopps to 28s., and Brewers and Distillers of Vancouver to 6s.

Tobaccos were also allowed to droop, noticeably Carreras, the "A" shares dwindling to 8⅝.

Rayons and Textiles proved undecided in their movements. American Celanese Common stiffened to 5, but Courtaulds sagged further to 2 5/16. British Celanese Ord. remained dull at 14s. 6d.

There was hardly sufficient business about to really test quotation in the Textile section, where Calico Printers Preference came on offer at 10s.

In anticipation of favourable developments, Maypole Deferred again met with support, and gained the turn at 5s. 6d. Unilevers still lacked interest and shed 1/16 to 3 1/16. Banking and Insurance descriptions ruled quietly firm.

Among Shipping issues, Argentine Navigation weakened 6d. to 19s., and P. and O Deferred came back 3d. to 45s. 3d.

Following the publication of the full report, James Finlay Ordinaries met with moderate support, and finished fractionally better at 4 1/16. Goodlass Wall Ordinaries were again in request and moved up 2s. 6d. to 74s. 6d.; while Lewis Bergers also proved an active spot, being dealt in up to 47s. 6d. The names of the two companies are being linked with regard to developments in the near future.

Swedish Match continued to find buyers, and hardened ⅛ further to 16¼; but Kreuger and Toll reacted to 30⅛. United Molasses had a firmer appearance around 3 9/16. Imperial Chemicals at 24s. 3d. and Dunlops at 12s. 9d. both closed the turn lower. The publication of the report caused a set-back of 9d. in British Oil and Cake to 31s. 3d.

RECENT ISSUE DEALINGS.

Phillips Lamps were marked down 9d. to 65s. 9d. Tate and Lyle Debentures were bought around 102⅝ in small numbers, but there was otherwise little of interest to note in this section.

OIL SHARES UNCHANGED.

From the point of view of the volume of transactions conditions in the Oil share market remained much the same as on Monday. Scarcely any demand existed for either the leaders or the more speculative favourites, and it was for this reason rather than selling pressure in any direction that prices developed an easier tendency. At the close movements were generally adverse to holders, the majority of the leaders finishing easier.

RUBBER SHARES STEADY.

Despite a further set-back in commodity quotations, firmer conditions ruled in the Rubber Share Market, and several appreciable improvements were scored at the close. Quiet and rather easier conditions ruled in the commodity section. Spot and June realised only 6⅞d. per lb., while July to September fetched 7d. per lb. and October to December 7¼d. per lb.

MINING REPORT.

Bwana M'Kubwa Copper Mining Co.—The quarterly report of the Bwana M'Kubwa Copper Mining Co., Ltd., states that diamond drilling at the Nkana Mine during the quarter amounted to 9,525 feet, and to the 31st March a total of 6,663. 8.5 feet of drilling had been accomplished. At the 15th May the Mindola ore body of the Nkana Mine had a proved length of 4 miles, with an average thickness of 15.5 feet and an average grade of 3.95 per cent. copper. The ore reserves consist principally of clean sulphide ore. In January cross-cuts on the 450 feet level from shaft A passed through the ore body, disclosing 23 feet true width of ore averaging 5.4 per cent. copper. Recent cross-cuts on the 450 feet level from shaft B passed through the ore body, disclosing 26 feet true width of ore, averaging 3.82 per cent. copper.

LONDON MINING MARKET IDLE.

KAFFIR SHARES STILL FRIENDLESS.

Extremely quiet conditions ruled in the Mining Share Market yesterday. Indeed, in several sections there was hardly sufficient business passing to test quotations. Kaffirs were still almost friendless. There were still few signs of a return of activity to the Rhodesian department, and irregular conditions prevailed, though actual price movements were few in number, and of little consequence. Diamonds were as dull as ever, and a little offering of De Beers Deferred caused a half-crown drop in the price. The price of tin remained steady at £143 2s. 6d. per ton, and the share market took on a harder appearance, though there was no great increase in the volume of trading. The price of copper was a trifle easier at £54 per ton, and the share market was idle, the only alteration being a half-crown drop in Rio Tinto. Elsewhere Burma weakened on the low price of silver, but Minerals Separation and St. John Del Rey improved. Chosen were easier. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

ASHBY'S STAINES BREWERY.

Messrs. H. and G. Simonds, Ltd., announce that over 95 per cent. of the holders of Ordinary shares in Ashby's Staines Brewery, Ltd., have accepted the offer to purchase their Ordinary shares. Arrangements are accordingly being made to complete the sale and purchase of such shares on June 10 next in accordance with the terms of the offer.

REZENDE MINES.

At the annual meeting held at Salisbury, Rhodesia, on the 23rd inst., the Chairman indicated that the directors' policy was to build up the cash reserves—which were now available partly for distribution, partly for investment—and to obtain another property to replace the Rezende Mine, whose ore reserves indicate that crushing will probably cease at the end of 1932. The board anticipated that they would be able fully to maintain present profits this year, and a distribution of an interim dividend of 12½ per cent. at the end of June was indicated. With reference to the Reliance and Monarch properties, although the results from the work done were encouraging and warranted further exploration, yet, at present, insufficient had been done to allow of any expression of opinion as to value.

NER-SAG (OVERSEAS).

The directors of Ner-Sag (Overseas) have decided to wind up the company voluntarily with the object of enabling a cash distribution to be made to the shareholders as speedily as possible. At the meeting in August last the shareholders expressed the view that the business of the company should be brought to a conclusion as soon as conveniently could be after the termination of the litigation then pending. They have recently been advised that the litigation has been disposed of on terms satisfactory to the company. The bulk of the assets of the company are represented by cash or Government securities. The meeting to approve the proposal will be held at the Cannon street Hotel, London, E.C., on 16th June, at noon.

FALL OF THE TAEL.

Consternation is being caused at Shanghai by the fall of the tael, sterling transfers having closed on Monday afternoon at 21d., the weakest price on record. The situation is giving rise to great anxiety among business men in view of the internal turmoil of the country, which is disorganising the export trade, the partial failure of the silk cocoon crop and depression in the silk industry. Moreover, the tea crop is very poor in quality and small in quantity. The tremendous drop in the value of the tael from 9s. 3d. in 1920 to the present rate of 1s. 9d. has resulted in a proportionate increase in the price of imported goods, and has compelled foreign firms to place their staffs on a gold basis, or its equivalent, to enable them to meet the cost of living. In the first three months of the present year, for example, the cost of living index rose 30 per cent.

LEGAL TENDER NOTE FUND.

The amount of legal tender notes outstanding on May 24 was £7,285,878 10s., as compared with £7,425,485 10s. on May 17. The amount issued during the week was £111,470 and the amount redeemed £249,077.

NIGER COMPANY'S DEBENTURE ISSUE.

An offer will shortly be made of £1,500,000 5 per cent. Consolidated Guaranteed Debenture stock of the Niger Company, Ltd., at the price of 94 per cent. The stock will be guaranteed as to both principal and interest by Lever Brothers, Ltd. The proceeds will be applied towards the redemption of the existing 7 per cent. Second Debenture stock, applications from holders of which will be given preferential consideration.

STATE BANK FOR TURKEY.

The Turkish Cabinet has approved of the project for the establishment of a State Bank, and the scheme will come up for discussion by the National Assembly in the course of the current week. The proposal of a forced subscription has been abandoned, and foreign banks operating in Turkey will retain freedom of action to continue their activities as hitherto.

MR. IVAR KREUGER

It is reported in Stockholm that Mr. Ivar Kreuger, managing director of the Swedish Match Company, is expected to visit Rumania in the near future, and it is believed that the visit has some connection with the Rumanian Government's intention to raise a railway loan.

LEVER BROTHERS' SUIT.

Mr. Justice Wright, in the King's Bench Division, London, yesterday, reserved judgment in the case in which Messrs. Lever Brothers, Ltd., and the Niger Company, Ltd., claimed damages from Mr. Ernest Hyslop Bell and Mr. Walter Edward Snelling, formerly chairman and vice-chairman of the Niger Company, for alleged breach of duty on entering into cocoa transactions on their own behalf, and the return of £30,000 and £20,000 paid them as compensation when the Niger Company amalgamated last year with the African and Eastern Trade Corporation.

SHARE MARKINGS.

At first sight it might appear that the much greater vigilance now being exercised by the Stock Exchange Committee is stultified when, as was the case on Monday, it withdraws previous prohibition of markings in a particular share because the company whose shares were being "boosted" undertook to issue a statement disclaiming any sort of responsibility for the wire-pulling. A not unreasonable inference is that, where a ban has been placed upon markings, it is only necessary for a company to issue an official disclaimer in order to bring about a restoration of the business record, and no respectable company would admit that it had any sort of official connection with a campaign engineered for the purpose of inducing the public to buy its shares. It may seem that, in rescinding its previous prohibition, the Stock Exchange Committee has thrown away an important weapon in its fight against outside share-pushers. The other side of the picture is that only in extreme cases is the Committee disposed to adopt a policy calculated to diminish the traditional freedom of the London Market, while at no time has this body posed as a censor in regard to the merits of any individual security. At the same time it cannot be denied that the publicity afforded by a record of bargains—which conceivably may be of a fictitious character—in the supplementary list of the London Stock Exchange greatly helps the operation of unscrupulous outsiders engaged in foisting shares upon the public.

COOK, SON AND CO. (ST. PAUL'S), LTD.

A capital organisation scheme is proposed by the above undertaking of a somewhat novel character. The present issued capital is £2,974,671. It is proposed to reduce this to £1,828,376 by returning 10s. per share to holders of the Preference shares, afterwards consolidating the resulting 10s. shares into Preference shares of £1 each by writing 5s. off each £1 Ordinary share, reducing them to 15s. each, and by cancelling all the unissued shares. Afterwards the capital will be increased by the creation of further Preference Ordinary and Deferred shares, the last of 1s. each. The scheme has been prepared after consultation with Sir William Plender, on whose advice it is proposed to realise gilt-edged securities sufficient to provide £812,500 for the purpose of repaying 10s. per Preference share. The Board are satisfied that the sum represented by these securities is not required for, and cannot usefully be employed in, the business. On repayment of one half of the Preference capital, the participation rights of such shares will be cancelled, holders receiving in place thereof one fully-paid Deferred share of 1s. in respect of every ten new Consolidated £1 Preference shares.

Goodwill to be Eliminated.

The sum represented by writing 5s. off each Ordinary share will be mainly used to eliminate the goodwill item, which now stands at £325,000; but it is not proposed to reduce the amount of the dividend, to which holders of these shares are entitled, before anything is paid on the Deferred shares, as it is proposed that the Ordinary shall carry a non-cumulative dividend of 9½ per cent., payable before anything is distributed on the Deferred. The Ordinary and Deferred will, as at present, participate in the surplus profits remaining after payment of the fixed 7 per cent. on the Preference, 9½ per cent. on the Ordinary, and 1s. per share on the Deferred, in proportion to the number of shares issued. For the year 1929 the dividend on the Ordinary shares was reduced from 5 to 2½ per cent.

SUN INSURANCE SHARES.

It is proposed that the £10 Shares of the Sun Insurance Office be split into shares of £1 each, with 5s. paid up.

CHOSEN CORPORATION RUMOURS.

Inquiries having been received by the Chosen Corporation Limited, as to certain negotiations which are said to be afoot for the sale of the company's properties, the board has issued a statement to the effect that they have not offered the company's interests for sale. The statement continues: "The directors conceive it to be their duty to see that the properties (which are now vested in Japanese companies) are worked in the best interests of the shareholders, and they do not conceive it to be their function to seek a purchaser for the properties. Certain suggestions for purchase have been made by responsible parties in the Far East. Should an acceptable offer be forthcoming it will be placed before the shareholders without delay. Inasmuch as shareholders may rely upon receiving prompt information they should not pay attention to communications from other quarters."

CAMMELL LAIRD SCHEME.

It will be recalled that Cammell Laird 4½ per cent. Debenture holders recently defeated the proposals to modify their rights. We are officially informed that details of a fresh scheme will be posted to-day. These. it is understood, will be acceptable.

THE MONEY MARKET.

RATES TIGHTER.

GERMANY BUYING GOLD.

There was again a good demand for money yesterday, owing to the approach of the end of the month and the shortage of maturities. Borrowers paid from 2½ to 3 per cent. for advances over the night, while 2 to 2½ per cent. was charged for renewing old day to day loans. Weekly money went on at 2 per cent.

About £440,000 in gold from South Africa was available yesterday. Of this, £100,000 was taken by an unknown buyer, £80,000 for India and the trade, and £260,000 by Germany. The price was lowered ½d. to 84s. 11½d. per oz., fine. Silver was unchanged at 18¼d. per oz. for spot, and 18 5/16d. for forward delivery.

At the Bank of England £207 in bar gold was sold.

The general trend of the Foreign Exchange Market yesterday was in favour of London. The dollar rate advanced, and was finally quoted at 4.85 31/32, as against 4.85 15/16. The Canadian exchange was steady at 4.86⅛. Among the Continental exchanges pesetas improved 8¼c. to 39.85, while the Swiss rate fell ½c. to 25.11⅛. Francs were again quoted at 123.94, but Italian lire were 2½c. cheaper on the day at 92.78½. Business in the South American group was very quiet. The Far Eastern currencies continued to weaken, Shanghai taels cheapening to 21d. and the Hong Kong dollar closing at 17⅛d., as against 17 5/16d. on Monday.

WHEN doctors recommend a tonic, you may be sure that it is worth taking. Ever since Fellows' Syrup was introduced, over sixty years ago, doctors have been recommending patients who suffer from "nerves" to use it. Medical knowledge has shown that, as a remedy for chronic nervous headaches, general debility, and other nervous troubles, it is by far the best tonic. If you suffer from nervous ailments, go straight to Fellows' Syrup. Your appetite will return, your irritability will vanish, and in a few weeks you will be your old self again. 2/5, 3/6 and 6/- from all chemists.

KILLESTER ESTATE HOUSES.

QUESTION OF RENT AND RATES.

Colonel C. K. Howard Bury (Conservative, Chelmsford), in the House of Commons, yesterday, asked the Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, whether he was aware that the ex-Service men tenants on the Killester Estate (Co. Dublin), under the Irish Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust, are being charged rents of 10s., 9s., and 7s. 6d. for the three types of cottages there, in addition to rates at 14s. in the £, and whether, seeing that there are several tenants who are unable to pay these rents, he will look into the charges made for these houses.

Mr. Lunn replied—I have ascertained from the Irish Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust that the rents of the cottages on the Killester Estate are as stated in the question, and that the rates average about 1s. per week for each cottage. I am informed that the rents are much lower than those originally accepted by the tenants when they were first selected in competition with other candidates. The Secretary of State is satisfied that there is no case for asking the Trust to consider the possibility of further reductions in the rent of these cottages.

THE MULLINGAR HOUSES.

Colonel Howard Bury also asked the Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs whether, seeing that the rent of the houses provided for ex-Service men in Mullingar under the Irish Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust cover the cost and maintenance and administration only, and are only 4d. per week less than the Council houses in that town, he can give the reasons for the fact that the maintenance and administration expenses of the Trust are four times greater than those of the Council, which have to meet the loan charges on the Council houses, whereas the entire erection of the Trust houses was met by a free grant.

Mr. Lunn replied—According to the information in my possession the average rent of the houses provided for ex-Service men in the Mullingar rural district by the Irish Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust is 4s. 5d. a week, whereas the average rent charged for similar post-war houses by the Mullingar Town Commissioners is 6s. 4d. a week. The difference is thus 1s. 11d. a week, not 4d. as stated. I am not in a position to give any information with regard to the maintenance and administration expenses of the Council, or the basis on which the rent of the Council houses is arrived at.

Colonel Howard Bury asked if inquiries would be made to see why the cost of maintenance and administration were so high in comparison with the other houses.

Mr. Lunn pointed out that that was a question for the Irish Free State Government.

FATAL WOUND IN THE EYE.

INQUEST ON DUBLIN BOY.

Dr. Louis Byrne and a jury resumed the inquest on the body of James Kennedy (17), a messenger boy, of 15 Verschoyle place, Dublin, who died last Friday from injuries caused, it was stated, by receiving a prod in the eye of a hay fork. Last Saturday the inquiry was adjourned after evidence of identification had been given.

Yesterday Dr. J. McGrath, pathologist, who made a post-mortem examination in conjunction with Dr. W. H. Roberts, said that he found a wound about ¼ inch long and 1½ inch deep under the left eye. In his opinion death was due to the wound.

Replying to Mr. D. O'Flaherty (who appeared for the State), Dr. McGrath said that the injury to the eye could have been caused by the hay fork produced.

Stating that a man named Edward Dunne had been charged with the manslaughter of Kennedy, the Coroner adjourned the inquest pending the result of the criminal proceedings.

CIVIL SERVANTS' COMPLAINTS.

DELAYED PROMOTION.

At yesterday's sitting of the Civil Service Compensation Committee Mr. Callaghan McCarthy's application for compensation on retirement was considered.

The applicant, who is an executive officer in the Registration and Statistics Branch of the Local Government and Public Health Department, stated that he considered his duties had been unreasonably added to, the staff of his branch had been reduced, and he had not received the promotion to which his qualifications entitled him.

Replying to Judge Davitt, who presided, he said that the work he was doing was not graded as higher executive work; if he retired he would be replaced by an officer of lower status. His main complaint was that he had not received the promotion due to him. He had worked out an improved system in the Statistics Department, which enabled a greater amount of work to be done.

Mr. W. Doolin (Finance Department)—It is expected that an officer of your standing would devise improvements in the system of work.

Mr. McCarthy—I understand that, but not to the extent to which I have done.

Mr. Doolin—I suggest that he should do it to the limits of his capabilities and powers.

Mr. McCarthy—Not beyond the abilities of his class.

Mr. Doolin—That is a dangerous standard for an ambitious man to hold.

SECRETARY'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. E. P. McCarron, Secretary, Local Government Department, said that Mr. McCarthy had protested when he was changed in 1922 to the Registration Branch. He did a great deal of work in connection with the first annual report and the local taxation reports; it was work of considerable magnitude.

Mr. McCarron said that he was satisfied that the staff of the Registration Branch was sufficient, and Mr. McCarthy's work in connection with its reorganisation was not out of relation to his post. His claims for promotion received due consideration; nothing was taken into account except capacity to do the work. He had never heard before that Mr. McCarthy was overworked; he never complained; he did not miss promotion on account of his transfer.

IRELAND'S SHAME.

NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL STILL AWAITED.

Referring to the absence of a national memorial, at a general meeting of the Waterford Branch of the British Legion yesterday, Mr. A. P. P. Connolly, Area Chairman, Dublin, said that there had been much inquiry lately by people, who pointed out that they knew that about £40,000 had been subscribed for a memorial to the Irish dead, but when it came to erecting it innumerable difficulties had been encountered.

He thought that they would agree with him that after all these years of patient waiting on their part it was time that this matter was settled if they were going to have the memorial erected in their generation. It was nothing short of a national disgrace that Ireland alone of the countries which had taken part in the war had no memorial, and had broken faith with its dead. He hoped that the time was not far off when a statement on the position would be issued by the trustees. Certainly it was not unreasonable to ask for it.

Major Tynan, D.S.O., Area Organiser, said that Admiral Jellicoe would pay a visit soon to the Legion in Ireland, and it was hoped to induce him to visit Waterford.

CRICKET.

GAME ABANDONED.

DISAPPOINTMENT AT THE OVAL.

SURREY V. AUSTRALIANS.

Following the storm of Monday The Oval wicket was in a very bad state when play was due to be resumed yesterday morning, and at a quarter past eleven the match was abandoned as a draw. Brilliant sunshine induced hundreds of people to assemble outside the gates in the hope of seeing some play, and, no doubt, the notice of a complete abandonment took them by surprise.

An inspection of the turf, however, showed the captains and umpires that cricket would be out of the question until late in the afternoon, and an arrangement to draw stumps at half-past five probably prompted them to decide at once. No previous Australian match this season has suffered such serious interference through the weather. Play was limited to five hours and ten minutes on Saturday, when Bradman, batting for 4 hours and 35 minutes, scored 252 not out, an innings that included twenty-nine 4's.

TRINITY BEATEN.

GOOD GAME AT ORMEAU.

The first match of Dublin University's Northern tour ended in a win for Queen's at Ormeau yesterday by three wickets. Both sides showed better form with the bat, and the totals were higher than on the opening day. Overnight Trinity had a lead of one run on the first innings, and had scored 45 for two wickets.

A fine stand by T. H. Dixon and O. V. Mooney for the eighth wicket gave Dublin University a good position, and A. W. Breakey also batted well to enable the innings to realise 158. This left Queen's to get 160 runs for victory, and they won with two wickets to spare. J. W. Orr batted confidently for 48, while W. F. Beatty and C. M. Stewart put on 38 for the first wicket. Kyle took 6 wickets for 75. Score:—

GREYHOUND RACING.

LORD HUDSON WINS AT HAROLD'S CROSS.

The racing at Harold's Cross Park last night was up to the usual interesting standard, and was enjoyed by a very large gathering.

The best performance was that put up by Lord Hudson, who, in winning the Leinster Plate, beat a very "hot" field. Drawn No. 1, he was always well placed, and in a good finish up the straight passed the line a length and a half in front of Beaded Larr.

During an interval in the racing Mr. J. J. Flood, the Secretary and Manager of the Dublin Greyhound and Sports Association, presented to Mr. P. J. Tracey, the owner of Meadow Fescue, the trophy which that dog won when he proved successful in the first of the important stakes run at the venue this season, the Spring Cup. Details:—

COUNTY WICKLOW CLUB.

No more beautiful situation could be found than that occupied by the County Wicklow L.T.C., just outside Bray. At the foot of the Little Sugar Loaf, Bray Head towers on left, and to the right sweep the Wicklow Mountains, while the woods of Kilruddery are close by. Ten courts of excellent quality are available, and are most carefully kept by Kavanagh, the competent groundsman. The pavilion, in the appropriately picturesque style of a Swiss chalet, has splendid dressing accommodation for ladies and gentlemen. There is also a large tearoom occupying the full extent of the top floor, and around it runs a spacious verandah, which commands a magnificent view. On the main road between Bray and Delgany, the club is within half an hour's motor run of Dublin, and 'buses pass a hundred yards from the gate. Special allowance is made for members who live ten miles away. There are at present some vacancies, and, while many good players are to be met at practice, a game can always be had, as the courts are never overcrowded. The annual tournament, at which the County Wicklow championships are contested, is one of the most popular in Ireland, and this year it will be held during the second week of August.
